Police in frantic search for unstable dynamite

Skylab crew nearing end of record flight

HOUSTON (UPI) —The Skylab 2 astronauts closed their big home in space today to end man's longest spaceflight with a late afternoon splashdown in the Pacific Ocean.

Splashdown was set for 3:20 p.m. (PDT) for Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma after 59 days, 11 hours and 9 minutes and 24.4 million miles orbiting earth.

The pilots carried aboard their ferry ship a treasure of information about the earth and sun. Space officials were confident they had opened the way for voyages lasting a year or longer.

The astronauts sealed the main hatch to Skylab at 7:25 a.m. (PDT) and strapped themselves in the Apollo command module they flew up to the orbiting station July 28. They prepared to undock from Skylab five hours later and start their return to earth.

The USS New Orleans was on station 224 miles southwest of San Diego. Helicopters and an experienced team of frogmen were ready to pluck the pilots and their Apollo ferry craft from the rolling seas beneath partly cloudy skies.

Hurricane Irah, heading toward the tip of Baja California with sustained winds of 105 miles an hour, was about 700 miles from the splashdown point. Forecaster Les Jordan said it posed no threat to the astronauts if the Apollo is on target.

"What kind of seas do we have in the recovery site," Bean asked.

"Five foot seas, right now," replied ground communicator Bruce McCandless.

"Not bad," said Bean.

Cache hidden in garage in Isla Vista

SANTA BARBARA (UPI) — Authorities hunted today for a cache of dynamite, enough to demolish a city block, that has apparently deteriorated into a dangerous state while hidden in a garage in the university community of Isla Vista.

The search was revealed Monday night by Sheriff John Carpenter, who made a public appeal for help from citizens in locating the garage.

The Sheriff's Department has been looking for the garage since Saturday, Carpenter said.

An individual, whose identity is unknown, turned over two sticks of dynamite to an undercover deputy, saying he bought them at a garage in Isla Vista.

He told the undercover officer he had seen 12 cases of dynamite, six cases of hand grenades and other explosives in the garage, Carpenter said.

"An explosion of this quantity of dynamite can completely destroy the garage, and cause death within a one square block area," the sheriff said.

The two sticks given the undercover officer were found to be in a "deteriorating and consequently unstable condition," he said, and so officers believe the entire cache is old and dangerous.

It could explode from heat or pressure, Carpenter warned. Although fresh dynamite must be fused and detonated to explode, old dynamite undergoes a chemical breakdown and becomes more volatile with age.

Carpenter pleaded for help from Isla Vista residents for information on the location of the garage.

"Above all, do not try to move the dynamite," he warned.

The University of California at Santa Barbara is located at Isla Vista. The neighborhood was the scene of two major riots in 1970 and 1971, battles between police and activist students that included the burning of a branch of the Bank of America and hundreds of arrests.

SOUTHLAND GAS STATION SHUTDOWN?

Commodore Reid, left, president of the Gasoline Retailers of Southern California, announces at a press conference in Los Angeles Monday that some 200 member service stations plan to shut down in protest to "Phase IV" gasoline rollbacks for four days, starting Friday. Stan Arnold, an attorney for the group, is at right. Group also is mulling class action suit against Cost of Living Council.

Point guns at each other

Pharmacist, bandit grapple in one of two area robberies

Rexall drug stores were robbed in Pomona and Claremont at almost the same time Monday night, police reported.

In Claremont, pharmacist Paul Giddings, 45, scuffled with the robber after arming himself, but the bandit got away with about $600 and Giddings' own weapon, a .38-caliber revolver.

Giddings was in the prescription department when the man pushed his way inside shortly after 8 p.m. Giddings had been counting the day's receipts and had armed himself after becoming suspicious of the man. Both men pointed pistols at each other and then scuffled. During the scuffle the robber wrested away Giddings' gun and placed it in a sack with the money. That holdup occurred at Key Rexall Drugs, 320 S. Indian Hill Blvd.

At K & S Owl Rexall Drugs, 1635 W. Holt Ave., Pomona, Eileen Alders, 54, was forced to surrender money from the cash register when a man pulled a pistol and threatened her at 8 p.m. The gunman got only $35.

In the Claremont robbery, the gunman was described as white, about 45 years old, 6-feet tall, weighing 200 pounds. He wore a green nylon windbreaker, light brown trousers and had black hair.

In the Pomona holdup, the robber was described as a Negro, 5-feet-11, weighing 190 pounds. He wore a blue knit cap, black pullover sweater and black trousers.

Small cigar ads on TV banned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cigarette shaped cigars will no longer be advertised on television or radio under legislation signed by President Nixon Saturday.

The bill amended the 1965 Cigarette Labeling and Advertising Act, to include banning commercials for little cigars, judged by the Public Health Service to be as dangerous as cigarettes if the smoke is inhaled.

The legislation bans broadcast advertising of any roll of tobacco wrapped in leaf tobacco or any substance containing other than cigarette tobacco which weighs not more than three pounds per thousand units.

Fire on Saratoga

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (UPI) — Firefighters have contained a four-hour blaze that broke out between the flight and hangar decks of the aircraft carrier USS Saratoga.

Southland gasoline station shutdown not expected to affect Pomona Valley

The Pomona Valley will probably not be affected by the shutdown planned by the Gasoline Retailers Association of Southern California this weekend.

In telephone interviews today, several dealers throughout the Valley told the Progres-Bulletin they had not been contacted by anyone concerning the shutdown, and that they would not close if no word is forthcoming.

However ,most of the service station owners admitted they would support the protest by closing, if the majority of their colleagues in the area did so.

The planned shutdown was announced Monday in Los Angeles at a press conference by Commodore Reid, president of the retailers' association.

Reid said that some 200 member service stations will close, beginning Friday for four days. The action is being taken as a protest to the recent Phase IV gasoline rollbacks.

A similar move was tried last weekend in the Los Angeles area, but was not very successful.

Many gas station operators in California and New York stayed closed Monday to protest the government's Phase 4 price freeze. In Washington, President Nixon asked the Cost of Living Council to deliver a quick decision on whether to lift the freeze.

"Both the President and (Cost of Living Council Director John) Dunlop want to clear up this situation as soon as possible," said White House spokesman Gerald Warren. "They want to clear up any confusion that might exist in the minds of the dealers."

The California State Automobile Association said 75 per cent of the filling stations in Northern California were closed Monday. They were to open for limited hours the rest of this week. As many as 90 per cent were closed during the weekend in the most successful of such mass closings so far.

The protest was organized by the California Service Station Dealers Association, whose executive secretary, Bob Moore of San Rafael, called the membership response "tremendously."

"We're really sorry to inconvenience the public," he said, "but we're caught in a squeeze. We figured the response would be good, but this is tremendous."

In Syracuse, N.Y., 65 Mobil dealers locked their pumps Monday to protest a one-cent-a-gallon price increase they are not allowed to pass on to their customers. A spokesman for gasoline dealers in Auburn, N.Y., said all major brand stations were shut down.

An auto supply store operator in Indianapolis said concern about future boycotts has led to a rush on locking gas tank caps. A major producer of the caps in Connersville, Ind., said the demand has been so great that there are nearly 30,000 back orders on file.

Just 10 hours before court hearing

Boyle slips into deep coma after possible stroke

WASHINGTON (UPI) — W. A. "Tony" Boyle suffered a possible stroke and slipped into a deep coma late Monday night, 10 hours before he was to appear at a court hearing related to a murder charge against him.

The 71-year-old former president of the United Mine Workers union was formally listed in critical condition by doctors at George Washington University Hospital. Other sources said his condition was grave and his chances of surviving were 'less than 50-50."

Boyle, facing multiple charges in the 1969 New Year's Eve slaying of Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, an insurgent rival of the UMW presidency, was stricken at his home in northwest Washington and taken to the hospital at 11:30 p.m. EDT Monday.

He was unconscious when admitted to the hospital and at 9:30 a.m. today, the time he had been scheduled to appear in court, the hospital said he was "in a deep coma" and his condition was described as critical. This is the lowest level used by the hospital to describe a patient's condition before death.

The 9:30 a.m. report said Boyle had shown no improvement since being admitted.

A hospital spokesman said Boyle's "life system" was supported by mechanical devices. He was under constant attention of doctors in the hospital's intensive care unit. His vital signs were described as "not stable."

A stroke was immediately suspected when Boyle was rushed by ambulance to the hospital.

At mid-morning, the doctors had not specified the nature of the illness. Boyle's personal physician, Dr. Milton Gusack, told a reporter Boyle had a history of heart trouble. Gusack would not comment further.

Postmaster asks across-the-board stamp rate hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen says that unless he is overruled an eight cent stamp will cost ten cents beginning Jan. 5.

Klassen was formally presenting proposed across-the-board postal rate increases today to the Postal Rate Commission, a five-member advisory body appointed by the President.

The commission will make its recommendation to the Board of Governors of the U.S. Postal Service, which has the final say, provided the administration's Cost of Living Council does not object.

In a National Press Club speech Monday, Klassen said the postal service is "under severe inflationary pressures" like many other enterprises. "The cost-price squeeze has affected us just as much as it has affected the entire economy," he said.

As to the Cost of Living Council, which rules on price and wage increases throughout the economy, Klassen said: "I trust they will see the light."

The rate increases for all classes of mail would amount to $2.1 billion a year.

Air mail would go from 11 to 13 cents. There would also be increases averaging about 38 per cent for second class mail, 25 per cent for third class and 6 per cent for fourth class parcel post.

Report from America

A nice place to grow up—but not to visit

By JACK V. FOX

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (UPI) — Thomas Wolfe was not quite right. You can go home again. But don't.

Not if home is a small town in the Middle West that time has passed by. Not if you don't want a sad sense of loss and a heartache remembering things the way they used to be.

A few weeks ago my wife and I drove across the Missouri River bridge from Atchison, Kans., and suddenly there were the scenes of a summer romance of long ago—Sugar Lake and Bean Lake.

Once there was a dance pavilion on the shore of Bean Lake. On a sweltering July night with the moon shimmering on the still surface, the strains of "Sophisticated Lady" and "Stardust" would waft to the opposite side.

It was Lake Lucerne and Lake Louise and the harbor at Monte Carlo all wrapped in one. Now it was two muddy ponds, so unbelievably small, choked with water lily pads. The pavilion was gone.

We drove in a sodden rain north up the highway to St. Joe. On the outskirts is a sign that reads: "St. Joseph, Pop. 70,345."

St. Joe had a population of 70,000 when I left in the summer of 1940. A great many young men went away because the town had little to offer a depression generation except for the sons of the bankers, grain mill operators and scattering of manufacturers who were its elite.

Suddenly we were "downtown" and it looked old, so old, and worn out and small but, most of all, two of every three shops were boarded or torn down, with holes like gaping teeth.

As it has to so many towns, the federal highway system has drawn business to the shopping centers on the outskirts leaving only decay.

We had lunch in the Pony Express bar of the Hotel Robidoux, named after the city's founder, a French fur trader named Joseph Robidoux.

The hotel was once the hub of social life. At Christmas, girls in long gowns with gardenia corsages and gawky boys in rented tuxes traipsed the marble stairs to the ballroom to dance cheek to cheek while a revolving, mirrored globe made the waxed floor a kaleidoscope of colors.

That day it was musty and dingy and the only people in the lobby were a few traveling salesmen. A block away is the Corby-Forcey building, still the highest in town, 14 stories. On one of its windows is a gilt sign: "Dr. Cronkite, Dentist."

Dr. Cronkite is the father of Walter Cronkite. I asked the waitress if Dr. Cronkite still was practicing. She said she didn't know.

(Dr. Cronkite died several months before).

We drove out past Central High School to Interstate 29 where, with a tank fillup, you can go through the authentic house where Jesse James was shot. The bullet hole is still in the wall.

My dad was born on a farm outside St. Joe and lived there all his life. He was a bookkeeper at the Swift Packing Company. He once had an offer to move to Chicago but turned it down. He had a good life.

I wondered what might have happened if I had stayed. I didn't wonder long, though. I filled the tank and headed for California.

St. Joe was a great place to grow up and live in, but I don't want to visit there again.

Indian claims Old World

Chippewa is a reverse Columbus

ROME (UPI) —A Chippewa Indian named Lucky Eagle stepped from a streamlined jumbo jet, stuck his spear into the airport asphalt and hailed himself as the discoverer of Italy.

Lucky Eagle—the Chippewa name of Adam Nordwall, 44, of San Francisco—landed at Leonardo da Vinci international airport Monday in tribal feathered headress for his selfproclaimed role as a Columbus in reverse.

"I don't see anywhere that Italy has been discovered," Nordwall said. "If Christopher Columbus could claim he had discovered America even though Indians had been living there for thousands of years, I cannot see why I cannot do the same for Italy."

Nordwall, who teaches sociology at California State University in Hayward and operates a rat and cockroach extermination service on the side, was on his way to attend an international conference on World Futures Research in Rome.

"Who better to discover Italy than an American Indian?" he asked on landing with his wife, a member of the Shoshone tribe.

Nordwall, who also has a television show back home called "The First Americans," said one of his first acts as the new Columbus would be to establish an agency like the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs.

He said a good title would be the Bureau of Italian Affairs and Gina Lollobrigida had a good chance of getting appointed to head it.

Nordwall, chairman of the United Bay Area Council of American Indian Affairs, said before leaving San Francisco he wanted his stunt taken seriously despite the tongue-in-cheek approach.

"There's something wrong with a society that fails to recognize the rights of other societies to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, which, of course, are the foundations of U.S. civil rights," he said.

VENI, VIDI, VINCI

Even as Caesar marched into Gaul (now called France) and declared, "I came, I saw, I conquered," so Chippewa Lucky Eagle — San Franciscan Ken Nordwall — landed in Rome Monday and declared himself discoverer of Italy. He said if Columbus could do it with America, where Indians lived, why couldn't an Indian do it with Italy? So, he did.

Demo 'double agent' tipped police—Hunt

WASHINGTON (UPI) — E. Howard Hunt testified today he suspects the Watergate burglars got caught because their lookout had "intimate ties" to the Democratic party and might have served as a "double agent" to tip off local police.

Hunt, who pleaded guilty to charges of helping plan the break-in, appeared for a second day at the newly resumed nationally televised Senate hearings on the scandal. Hunt said he believes Alfred C. Baldwin could have led police to the Democratic National Committee's Watergate headquarters June 17, 1972 where five men were arrested.

He also testified that former presidential special counsel Charles W. Colson had directed him to fly to Milwaukee shortly after the assassination attempt on Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama in May, 1972, to search the apartment of Arthur Bremer, the man convicted of gunning down Wallace in a Maryland shopping center.

"I argued against it, and I subsequently heard from Mr. Colson's secretary that this was no longer required," said Hunt, who worked on clandestine White House projects under Colson's direction after retiring from the CIA.

Hunt was asked by Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., if he felt that the arrests at the Watergate were the result of a "double agent operation."

"The series of events of that night, taken in their totality, Sen. Gurney, have suggested to me for many months that we might have been —as it were — entrapped by information having been provided beforehand to local law enforcement authorities by a member of our unit," Hunt replied.

"Who do you think that was?" Gurney asked.

"I would have to indicate that most likely subject was Mr. Alfred Baldwin," Hunt said.

In response to questioning, Hunt said: "It developed subsequently that Mr. Baldwin had rather intimate ties with the Democratic Party in Connecticut...He was the nephew of a Democratic judge; he at least at one point in time represented himself as being the nephew of John Bailey, the former Democratic chairman...I understand that Mr. Baldwin had a girl friend who worked at Democratic headquarters."

An ex-FBI agent, Baldwin was hired by James W. McCord Jr. to do "security work" for the Nixon campaign last year. He was assigned to man a listening post set up in a hotel across the street from the Watergate to monitor telephone taps installed at Democratic headquarters during a May, 1972. break-in and to be the lookout when a second entry was made June 17, 1972.

Baldwin turned state's evidence and was a prosecution witness at the trial of McCord, Hunt and five other bugging conspirators in January. He has never been charged with any crime for his role in the plot.

Hunt said he suspected Baldwin because McCord, who was security chief for the Nixon campaign at the time, had hired him solely as the result of a help-wanted ad in a publication of former FBI agents.

Among other reasons for his suspicions, Hunt cited:

—The "lingering presence" of Washington police in the Watergate area the night of June 17 two hours after their shift normally would have ended.

—Baldwin's failure to alert the bugging team by walkie-talkie when police arrived at the Watergate building.

—Baldwin's action in picking up all the electronic eavesdropping gear and delivering it to McCord's home after the arrests even though Hunt said he ordered Baldwin to take it "anywhere but McCord's home."

Baldwin testified before the Senate committee in May and said the bugging team had disregarded his warnings of possible danger and that Hunt had ordered him to take all the bugging equipment to McCord's home.

Administration hits Congress before IMF

NAIROBI (UPI) — U.S. Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, under pressure from poorer nations to renew American pledges to international aid programs, said today the problem lies with Congress—not the Nixon administration.

Shultz told the annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and the World Bank that the administration will ask Congress to approve $4.5 billion in U.S. contributions over the next three years to the International Development Association (IDA), the World Bank's branch for low-interest loans.

But he warned that "I cannot say with any certanty how long our consultative and legislative process will take or certify its outcome."

World Bank President Robert S. McNamara told IMF delegates Monday that unless the United States makes its commitment by next June 30, IDA may die.

Shultz' chief aide, Paul Volcker, underlined the administration attitude by telling newsmen, "you never can be sure what Congress will do."

The United States currently provides about 40 per cent of the budget for IDA, which specializes in loans to the world's poorest nations. But Washington is more than a year behind in its payments, wants to cut its contribution to 33 per cent and, until Shultz' speech today, had refused to say whether the administration would recommend a so-called "replenishment" of IDA funds.

Shultz took a hard line generally toward nations that receive aid. The United States "finds it difficult to understand," he said, that it should give government aid to nations that reject private investment and "does not find it reasonable" that nations that confiscate foreign property on their soil should expect any U.S. aid.

France and West Germany moved in to take up some of the IDA slack from the United States. French Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing said France would increase its contributions by two-thirds. West German Finance Minister Helmut Schmidt said Bonn's total share of IDA contributions would go up from 9.7 to 11.4 per cent.

At a news conference, Shultz confirmed reports by financial sources that the United States will not join in a new world monetary system until its balance of payments returns to surplus. But he added that he expected this to happen before the new system is ready—hence the American agreement to overhaul the international financial structure by July 31, 1974.

Agnew views on impeachment to be explained

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Court papers to be filed later this week will spell out Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's position on whether a vice president must be impeached before he can be indicted on criminal charges, according to one of Agnew's lawyers.

When asked Monday by UPI about Agnew's stance on the subject, attorney Judah Best said: "That would be a comment in the papers."

Best said the papers would be filed in U.S. District Court in Baltimore sometime this week. They will urge the court to block an investigation of Agnew on charges of extortion, bribery, tax evasion and conspiracy in connection with an alleged political kickback scheme in Maryland.

Agnew was notified Aug. 1 that he was under investigation by the government for allegedly accepting kickbacks from state contractors. The probe extends back to the years when Agnew was Baltimore County executive and Maryland governor before he became vice president in 1969.

Agnew's lawyers have reportedly claimed that their client is not subject to criminal prosecution because of his office but could only be impeached by Congress. But would not confirm the reports Monday and gave no indication what position the court papers would take.

The Washington Star-News quoted "reliable sources" Monday as saying multi-millionaire land investor Joel Kline has told federal prosecutors investigating the alleged kickbacks that he funneled as much as $100,000 in cash to Agnew and other Maryland political figures.

The newspaper said Kline, a Chevy Chase, Md., businessman, admitted being a "conduit" for the money.

The newspaper said it could not determine how much of the $100,000 Agnew received, whether he obtained it before or after becoming vice president, or whether Kline gave the money to Agnew and others as political contributions.

Club to hear Assessor's assistant

SAN DIMAS — D.E. Eley, chief deputy of the Los Angeles County Assessor's Office, will be guest speaker Wednesday at the noon luncheon of the San Dimas Rotary Club at the Via Verde Country Club.

Eley will explain to members how real estate taxes are determined.

Sam Howe is in charge of reservations for he fourth annual golf tournament for Rotary District 530 Sept. 25 at the Los Serranos Country Club in Chino.

The cost of the tournament is $15 and includes a golf cart, buffet dinner and prizes.

UAW seeks quick finish to contract talks with Ford

DETROIT (UPI) —With both sides sparring over the negotiation timetable, Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers started talks Monday on a new three-year contract to cover 170,000 union members employed across the country.

Ford declined to set a date for its presentation of contract proposals to the union. The UAW said it would set a strike deadline if and when the negotiations appeared to go too slow.

The two sides met on the same day that assembly lines began rolling again at Chrysler Corp. after a nine-day UAW strike ordered when contract talks there failed.

Chrysler and the UAW reached settlement after only 63 hours of the strike and rank and file union members voted overwhelmingly over the weekend to accept it.

The UAW contracts expired at Ford, Chrysler and GM at 11:59 p.m. EDT, Sept. 14. Only Chrysler, this year's strike "target," was struck at that time. The union is using the Chrysler agreement as a pattern for negotiations at Ford and GM.

As he entered the bargaining room, UAW vice president Ken Bannon said the union wanted more from Ford, the second largest member of the "Big Three" automakers, than it gained from Chrysler.

For one thing Bannon said, the UAW wants mandatory overtime completely abolished at Ford. In its contract with Chrysler, the company retained the right to compel workers to clock as many as 14 overtime hours a week.

U.S. eyes fuel allocation

State governments act to reduce energy requirements

By United Press International

While the federal government considered allocation of fuel, some states reduced usage on their own Monday.

In California, Gov. Ronald Reagan ordered state buildings to turn off heat, air conditioning and lights on weekends and holidays. Lights also are to be turned down in hallways.

Oregon Gov. Tom McCall ordered outdoor lighting turned off unless it is needed for security. McCall made his announcement at the Western Governors Conference in Glenenden Beach, Ore., where the fuel situation was a prime subject.

John Love, former Colorado governor who is a special adviser on energy to President Nixon, told the governors the administration is considering fuel oil controls but has made no decision.

A mandatory program would work if there is excess supply, "but production and imports are falling behind demand," Love said.

A more likely solution would be to dampen demand, Love said.

Love called for a crash program, such as was used to develop the atomic bomb in World War II, to solve the energy crisis. Such an approach would bring "the proper sense of urgency" to the effort, Love said.

Love's prediction for the winter was a very tight supply of heating and diesel oil.

The Washington state legislature gave Gov. Dan Evans authority to order mandatory cuts in electricity use if voluntary cutbacks by business and consumers do not work.

Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis of Maine ordered a study to find out how much gas would be saved and how highway safety would be improved by lowering the speed limit. Curtis also announced he was reinstituting an ad hoc energy committee used last year to keep tabs on the heating situation.

Archie Smith, Rhode Island public utilities commissioner, requested heating oil retailers to submit lists of their reserves and not add any customers without prior approval.

In Pittsburgh, Allegheny County Commission Chairman Thomas J. Foerster told department heads to reduce travel mileage by people on county business. He also advised those who drive for the county to limit their speeds and have their cars tuned. Foerster said he expected Allegheny County to have 100,000 gallons less gasoline than last year.

Freed after 50 years for murder

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Salvatore Frisella, 84, who was committed to a state mental institution at Jackson, La., in December 1923, three months after he was charged with stomping a man to death, was freed Monday.

George Bishop, a Jackson medical officer, recently issued an evaluation to the courts which said Frisella would not be a hazard to himself, his family or society if he were released.

Judge Jerome Winsberg had the option of having Frisella stand trial for the 50-year-old murder, but he decided instead to allow him to return to his family.

Grounded spaceman has high hopes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former astronaut John Glenn has given $450 and lent $10,000 to a "Citizens for John Glenn Committee" which is pushing his candidacy for the 1976 Democratic Senate nomination in Ohio, Senate records show.

Reports filed with the secretary of the Senate show both transactions taking place on Aug. 22.

Glenn lost a similar primary bid in 1970 to Cleveland industrialist Howard Metzenbaum.

'Contract' out on Richard Speck

CRICAGO (UPI) —Illinois prison officials said Monday an inmate told them he was hired for $5,000 to kill Richard Speck, convicted murderer of eight Chicago nurses.

"He said he was hired to kill Richard Speck, but he wouldn't say by whom," a corrections department spokeswoman said.

Speck, 31, an itinerant seaman, was convicted of the 1966 mass murder of eight student nurses in their Chicago dormitory. He originally was sentenced to die in the electric chair but was resentenced to a 400-1,200-year sentence after a U.S. Supreme Court decision in 1972 voided the death sentence.

Cleaver sued for attorney's fees

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Former Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver, 37, is being sued for $24,464 by attorney Beverly Axelrod, who filed suit in Monday saying he owed her the money plus interest for his book "Soul on Ice."

Mrs. Axelrod also named the publisher, McGraw-Hill Book Co., and Cleaver's agent, Cyrilly Abels, as defendants. She charged Cleaver assigned her a 25 per cent interest in the book in 1968 but revoked the agreement last year. She said she had acted as his lawyer.

Cleaver was "somewhere in Europe," a French attorney who had represented him in Paris said last month. Cleaver left Algeria and tried unsuccessfully to obtain asylum in France. He fled the United States to avoid a hearing on charges of parole violation.

Babe's record has 5 games to live

ATLANTA (UPI) —Hank Aaron, who has hit 712 home runs, has five more games this season to tie or break baseball's all-time career record of 714 homers hit by Babe Ruth.

Aaron will get a chance tonight when his Atlanta Braves host the Los Angeles Dodgers. The Braves play the Dodgers again Wednesday and Thursday, and finish their season against the Houston Astros in games Saturday night and Sunday afternoon.

No parole for convict congressman

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The U.S. Parole Board has denied parole to former Rep. Cornelius E. Gallagher, D-N.J., who has served less than three months of a two-year prison sentence for attempting to evade income taxes.

The board said Monday that the former member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, a resident of Bayonne, N. J., must continue serving his sentence which expires Jan. 24, 1975. He has been held at the federal prison camp at Allenwood, Pa.

Aw, dry up, Bobby Riggs!

LAKE HAVASU CITY, Ariz. (UPI) — Heartily as some women's libbers may wish it, Bobby Riggs can't go jump in the lake—not from London Bridge at least.

"If Bobby Riggs or anyone else tries to jump off London Bridge, he will be arrested," Sheriff Philip Jordan said Monday. Riggs had quipped that he would jump off the bridge to carry out a promise to Billy Jean King after losing their "battle of the sexes" tennis match in Houston Thursday.

The sheriff said the drop from the center span of the bridge—which was dismantled in London and reassembled here—is 55 feet, and the water below is no more than 6 feet deep. "Jumping would be extremely dangerous and would almost certainly result in death or serious injury," the sheriff said.

Dr. Finch OK'd for license exam

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Dr. R. Bernard Finch, who served 12 years in prison in California for the murder of his wife, won the right Monday to take a state examination in December for a new medical license.

The board had turned him down last May, saying it was not in the state's best interests to allow a convicted murderer to re-enter the medical profession.

Finch, 53, and Carole Tregoff, his former receptionist, were sentenced to life imprisonment in 1961 for the 1959 murder of his wife, Barbara Jean Finch, near the Finch's West Covina, Calif., home. When Finch got out of prison in 1971 he moved to Eldorado Springs, Mo., and has been working in the hospital as an x-ray technician since.

Oil dumped into Vancouver bay after collision

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI) — Two freighters collided in the pre-dawn darkness just outside the Vancouver Harbor today, nearly slicing one of the ships in half and spilling an estimated 250 tons of oil into English Bay.

First reports indicated the Japanese freighter Diamond Sun hit the British ship Erewan on the starboard side, nearly slicing it in half.

An estimated 200 tons of heavy bunker oil and 50 tons of light oil spewed from the ruptured ship, moving across the bay toward West Vancouver.

A cleanup operation began at dawn. No injuries were reported.

SAN DIMAS — The City Council is going to try to put teeth into city ordinances that regulate barking dogs and other noise pollution problems.

The council directed the staff to review present ordinances to try to deal with continuing complaints of noise pollution.

David Celestin, director of community planning and development, said barking dogs, loud steroes and motorcycles top the list of complaints of irate citizens.

Celestin said present ordinances are adequate in some areas of control but others need reviewing.

Councilman D. F. Hooper said he felt something should be done to muffle motorcycles and cars and "extremely loud stereos that play at 2 and 3 a.m."

Councilman Loyd Salisbury said he has received complaints about motorcycles and barking dogs.

In a related item, Jim Church of 253 E. Gladstone St., told the council he had just moved to the community and is having problems with a neighbor who, he said, doesn't like his 2-year-old German Shepherd.

Church, who is construction project manager for the county, said he is awakened in the middle of the night several times a week by sheriff's deputies who report complaints by a neighbor that his dog is barking.

Church told the council he did have problems with his dog when he moved to San Dimas but, he said, the animal has now settled down.

Church appealed to the council for relief from an ordinance regulation that requires that dogs be confined within a structure from 10 p.m. until 7 a.m

He said he felt this is unfair to the animal and to his household. He said he had the dog to protect his property. He inquired if the city is liable if he has his dog confined in the house and someone breaks into his garage.

City Atty. Norman Oliver ruled that the city couldn't be held responsible.

Church had the support of Hooper who said he agreed that the animal shouldn't be confined in a structure but he said he was also concerned that the animal didn't run loose and that it is kept quiet.

Councilman James Lough said he also agreed with Church. "It's hard to keep kids in after 10 p.m. let alone dogs."

Mayor Thomas Nuss said the city didn't want to become involved with the squabble with Church and his neighbor. He suggested that the matter of the dog's confinement be turned over to Bruce Richards of the Pomona Valley Humane Society for his recommendation.

Girl's scream brings help

Shoppers subdue kidnaping suspect

MONTCLAIR — A 16-year-old Upland youth, in custody of juvenile authorities this morning, is accused of attempting to kidnap a woman at knifepoint in the north parking lot of the Montclair Plaza. He was caught by shoppers witnessing the incident.

Police said the youth, whose name was not released, was placed in juvenile hall shortly after the incident was reported.

Police said a youth walked up to Kathy Adkins of Ontario, about 9:10 p.m. as she was unlocking her car. Miss Adkins said the youth pulled a knife and ordered her inside the car. Police said that Miss Adkins began screaming and a number of shoppers in the parking lot ran to her assistance.

The youth bolted, running about 100 yards until he was stopped by Donald T. Ochier, 20, of Ontario. Police said Ochier brought the youth back to Miss Adkins who identified him as her attempted kidnapper. The youth managed to get away from Ochier and run a short distance. Ochier and Kevin Schan, 17, of Montclair recaptured the youth and held him until police arrived on the scene.

Police said Miss Adkins was not injured in the attempted kidnap.

Testimony opens in new murder trial

POMONA Testimony in the second murder trial here of Lee Donald Lakey, 22, has begun in Pomona Superior Court.

Lakey, a bus boy, is accused of the strangulation slaying Jan. 14 here of 19-year-old Cheryl P. Brown.

The first trial ended in a mistrial when the jury could not agree on a verdict. That trial lasted six weeks but the current trial is expected to take about three in the court of Judge Glenn M. Pfau. Deputy District Attorney Charles E. Wolfe again is prosecuting the case but this time Lakey is represented by private attorney Joseph A. Dolan of Pomona.

In the first trial the prosecution attempted to show that Miss Brown was slain during a rape in her apartment at 759 E. San Francisco Ave.

S.B. County employes asked to slow down

SAN BERNARDINO (CNA) — With an eye to saving the county gas money and also to cut down pollution, county Supervisor Daniel D. Mikesell requested that all 1,079 county vehicles limit their speed to 55 miles per hour on freeways and highways. He also asked that County Administrator Robert A. Covington be authorized to issue a directive informing all county employes.

His suggestion, while receiving approbation from the Board of Supervisors, ran into a little opposition when some of the board noted that in traveling long distances in this huge county they would spend too much time on the road instead of in their offices.

A compromise of sorts was reached with the suggestion by Supervisor Dennis Hansberger that a sticker be placed o nthe windshield of each vehicle asking that the driver to endeavor to comply with the speed limit, but not in cases of emergency.

Board Chairman Nancy E. Smith, complimenting Mikesell's idea, asked that the matter be referred to the traffic committee for recommendation.

Pomonan injured in cycle crash

POMONA — A motorcyclist suffered head and leg injuries Monday evening when his motorcycle and a car collided at Park and Grand avenues.

Gilbert Ramirez, 19, 1288 W. Grand Ave., was treated for his injuries at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

The driver of the car was Harold J. Sanchez, 25, 1440 W. Grand Ave. Police said he was southbound in Park and making a left turn in front of the motorcycle when the collision occurred.

Youth stabbed in Montclair

UPLAND — A 17-year-old Montclair youth was stabbed Monday night during an argument with another man in an apartment at 571 Richland St. here, police reported.

Ricky Joe Watts of 4857 Canoga St., Montclair, was listed in fair condition this morning in the intensive care unit of San Antonio Community Hospital. Doctors reported that youth suffered a stab wound of the middle left stomach. The youth walked into the hospital about 9:10 p.m for emergency treatment of the wound. Doctors notified police.

A suspect is being sought for questioning in the incident.

Montclair motorcyclist hurt

ONTARIO — A 17-year-old Montclair youth was injured Monday when his motorcycle southbound on Mountain Avenue collided with a car turning eastbound on I Street.

Peter Michael Penta of 9974 Benson Ave., Montclair, was given emergency treatment for multiple cuts, bruises and abrasions at Doctors Hospital of Montclair and later released in good condition.

Police said Penta's motorcyle collided broadside with a car driven by Edna Mae Baker, 48, of 957 E. Holt Blvd. about 12:20 p.m. Police said that Penta was knocked off the motorcycle following the collision.

Bartley Smith

POMONA — Bartley Robert Smith of 1448 W. Grand Ave. died Monday in Pomona Valley Community Hospital following 1½ years of illness.

Mr. Smith was born Nov. 27, 1911, in Safford, Ariz. He came to California in 1922 and moved to Pomona from Downey in 1942. He served with the U.S. Army during World War II. Mr. Smith was a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints Pomona, second Ward.

Besides his widow, Lenore, he is survived by a son, Bartley Edward of La Verne; three daughters, Carolyn Lemore, Elenore Christine and Kathleen Susan Smith all of Pomona; two brothers, William L. of Lynwood and Vernon A. of Norwalk; four sisters, Mrs. Gladys Chandler, Mrs. Ruby Powers and Mrs. Natus Bristol all of Lynwood and Mrs. Chloe Rose of Stanton; two grandchildren and numerous nieces and nephews.

Services will be held Thursday at 1:30 p.m. in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints Pomona Second Ward. Bishop Dwain McGary will officiate. Burial will be made in Rose Hills Memorial Park, Whittier. Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona is in charge of arrangements.

Elizabeth Barker

GARDENA — Mrs. Elizabeth E. Barker of 1035 W. 132nd St., Gardena, died Monday in a convalescent center in Torrance following two months of illness.

Mrs. Barker was born June 1, 1890, in Kentucky. She came to California in 1923 and lived in San Bernardino prior to moving to San Dimas in 1940. In 1942 she moved to Pomona. Mrs. Barker and her husband had been caretakers at the Pomona Ebell Club from 1948 to 1960. After the death of her husband she made her home with her daughter in Gardena.

Surviving is a daughter, Mrs. Frances Beatty of Gardena; a son, Floyd Miles of Junction City, Kansas; six grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Services will be held Friday at 1 p.m. in Pomona Mausoleum. Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona is in charge of arrangements.

'Holy' river

Pollution is plaguing even Europe's longest and mightiest river the Volga. Alerted by declining fish catches, the Soviet Union has budgeted more than $1.3 billion dollars to clean up the majestic river whose name in Russian means "holy."

Nixon may drop European visit, Kissinger says

NEW YORK (UPI) —President Nixon's plans for a visit to Europe have been all but abandoned because the United States and its West European allies are making no progress on terms for a "New Atlantic Charter."

It will take at least several more months, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has found, to reconcile differences over a proposed "declaration of principles."

Before his visit, Nixon wants a general agreement on the principles of a "New Atlantic Charter." Some European countries—France in particular—are in no hurry.

Danish Foreign Minister Knud Anderson, acting spokesman for the nine Common Market members, delivers official proposals to Kissinger today. During Monday's talks, Kissinger discovered that the Europeans have come up with only vague and philosophical suggestions. There are no specific proposals to cover economic and political relationships, which have been frozen in the same mold for the past quarter of a century.

In a meeting with Kissinger Monday, Japanese Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira renewed an invitation for Nixon to visit Tokyo as soon as possible. U.S. officials said it was conceivable Nixon might visit Japan before going to Europe.

Kissinger told Ohira he plans to visit China sometime in October, and hopes to visit Japan both on his way to and on his way back from Peking.

In other developments today, Kissinger invited representatives of 19 Arab states to lunch. He had no specific peace proposals to try to "sell" them, officials said, but merely wished to become better acquainted.

Four of them, South Yemen, Syria, Algeria and Libya, declined to attend. Iraq did not reply to the invitation.

Kissinger, as a gesture of courtesy, returns to the U.N. General Assembly today to listen to the address of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. Gromyko gave Kissinger a preview of the speech during a two and one-half hour dinner conference Monday evening.

Drifter died, buried nameless---until today

FARMINGTON, Utah (UPI) —The brunette drifter who fell from a moving freight train and drowned in a mud puddle beside the tracks has been identified as Mrs. Kathleen Kay Russell, 21, Omaha, Nev.

The diminutive victim whose only sign of identification was a wedding ring had been identified only as "Jane Doe" until her name was traced through the FBI fingerprint files.

Mrs. Russell fell or was pushed from the freight train Aug. 30. She was injured in the fall, landed face down in a puddle and drowned.

Davis County Sheriff William Peters said he has still not determined whether the death was homicide, suicide or accidental.

Police in Omaha said they had questioned her 24-year-old huhband, Jerry, but did not intend to hold him.

They said Russell told detectives his wife left Omaha about 10 days before her death. He said he received a letter from her with a Denver postmark, and hitchhiked west in search of her.

Russell, a cab driver, told detectives he hitchhiked to California, and returned to Omaha about the time his wife was being buried in an unmarked pauper's grave in Utah.

Mrs. Russell was seen boarding the northbound freight at Salt Lake City shortly before her death. At that time, she was seen with a male companion, who was later seen leaving the train at Clearfield, north of here.

Canada newsprint is cut by labor trouble

MONTREAL (UPI) —Labor disputes in eastern Canada's paper industry have caused a production loss of 370,000 tons of newsprint and cost the mills $50 million, two industry associations said Monday.

The Canadian Pulp and Paper Association (CPPA) said the losses reflected the effects of strikes against three major paper companies since late summer.

The CPPA, which had forecast this year's production at near 10 million tons, has revised its prediction to a maximum of 9.3 million tons.

The Newsprint Information Committee said in New York that losses up to Sept. 15 cost the mills $50 million and predicted further cost increases as a result of some contract settlements calling for 8.5 per cent wage boosts and improved fringe benefits.

Canadian newsprint mills were operating at 95.4 per cent capacity when the first strikes began in June. At the peak of the strikes, 25 per cent of eastern Canada's capacity was idled and the production loss ran at 6,000 tons a day, the committee said.

In Montreal, negotiations were continuing in contract talks aimed at averting further walkouts at five companies included in the Eastern Canadian Newsprint Group.

A spokesman for the United Paperworkers International Union would not comment on the talks other than to say negotiations are continuing.

Massive new logging urged by U.S. panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A substantial increase in logging in the nation's public forest lands was recommended Monday by a presidential panel to help alleviate a lumber shortage.

The panel called for use of all available techniques, including the controversial practice of clearcutting, to increase lumber ouput.

Conservationists attacked the recommendations as dooming "future generations to an even more serious timber shortage" than presently exists. President Nixon endorsed the report and said it indicated that fears of environmentalists "would appear to be unfounded, misleading or exaggerated."

The study recommended the "retaining of all proven and efficient methods of timber harvest, including clearcuitting, under appropriate conditions." Clearcutting is the practice of stripping whole sections of forests at a time rather than cutting selected trees.

The report defended clearcutting as a practice which accomplishes the same objective that farmers have —"to harvest the crop and establish a new one." It added that the "popular conception that timber cutting causes severe damage to soil watersheds, streams, water quality, wildlife habitat and forest regeneration appear to be grossly unjustified."

Nixon issued a statement instructing members of an administration timber task force to put the recommendations into effect "as they consider practical."

A spokesman for Friends of the Earth said, "There isn't enough growth to allow an increase without condemning future generations to an even more serious timber shortage."

Can a child prove God's care for himself?

Yes, if he's learned that God, divine Love, is present to help him in everything he does.

Christian Science teaches children how to pray effectively for themselves, their families, and the world. This is why there are already three and four generations of Christian Scientists who have grown up relying fully on scientific prayer for healing.

Your children will be warmly received in our Sunday School. Bring them this week.

Before a Gas Co. serviceman is ready to face you he has to face himself.

As a customer, you expect our servicemen to know what they're doing.

At the Gas Company, we expect more than that: we expect them to let you know that they know what they're doing.

So at our Customer Services Training Center, we now give our men the chance to see themselves as they really are.

On videotape.

And if you've ever been surprised at the sound of your own voice on a tape recorder, you can imagine what it's like when there's a picture to go along with it.

The test is simple: an instructor acts like a customer, and a trainee acts like himself. Then the whole scene is played back on a screen.

For the trainee, that one picture on the screen is worth a thousand words from his instructor.

At the Gas Company, a man doesn't just learn how to handle your appliances.

With videotape training, he also learns how to handle himself.

Have the years mellowed him?

Peron inherits delicate task of resolving rivalries

By United Press International

Patience paid off for Juan D. Peron. The 77-year-old politician and army general had to wait 18 years, but he finally won back the presidency taken from him in a 1955 military coup.

Peron, who won a landslide victory in Sunday's four-man presidential election, will be inaugurated Oct. 12 for his third presidential term.

He will celebrate his 78th birthday Oct. 8, just four days before resuming the full responsibility of trying to lead this divided nation out of its political instability and economic stagnation.

Although visited almost daily by a heart specialist, Peron is said to be in good shape for a man his age. He has refused to name a successor in the event of his death, however, saying it will be up to his Justicialist movement when the time comes.

Age has not dimmed Peron's jaunty manner and broad smile, but he seems somewhat mellower than the man who ruled Argentina with a strong hand from 1946 to 1955.

He is aware that the years since his ouster have been marked by deep division in Argentina between his supporters and his enemies. Since returning to the country for the first time last Nov. 17, he has stressed unity and moderation.

Those themes are particularly applicable to Peron's own movement, which embraces groups from left-wing Marxists to right-wing nationalists.

Resolving the doctrinal differences and rivalries within the movement is one of Peron's most delicate tasks.

Strident criticism of the United States was a feature of Peron's former period in power and it remains part of his outlook, augmented by the current popularity of antiAmerican sentiment in Latin America.

One of the slogans that appeared during the recent election campaign translates: "Peron for president, and let the Yankees bust a gut."

Peron chose his third wife, Isabel, 40, as his vice presidential candidate, apparently to avoid splitting his followers by picking a strong figure from any one faction.

His second wife, Evita, is still revered by millions of humble Argentines who considered her almost a saint. She died of cancer in 1952 at the age of 33.

The appeal of the elderly politician to a wave of new voters is one of the revelations of Peron's return.

An army colonel who rose to prominence in the 1940s in a de facto government, Peron built his political power base on an appeal to the working man.

During his 10 years as president, the Argentine worker got wage and fringe benefits plus a sense of importance he never had before.

The image of Peron as the first Argentine politician to raise labor to a position of power has endured. Time and a series of frustrating attempts to run the country without the participation of the Peronists —has added an almost mythical dimension.

Peron is seen as the man who can set things right and put Argentina back on the path to prosperity and world influence. Only time will tell whether voters' expectations are justified.

Park service gives up on anti-erosion

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The National Park Service said Monday it has decided to stop trying to keep ocean waves from eating away at beaches on barrier islands. These include such well-known areas as the Outer Banks off North Carolina, Fire Island off New York and Point Reyes off California.

Spokesmen for the National Park Service told UPI that studies showed the anti-erosion efforts cost millions of dollars, with little to show for it.

Now, one spokesman said, the service has decided to let nature take its course, although federal agencies will still do what they can to hold down damage when a big storm threatens.

"The government has been spending quite a lot of money in attempting to do something that clearly is not working," he said. "We have not made a final, absolute decision, but certainly this is the way the studies have indicated is the proper way to go."

Word of the plans —subject of a Washington Post article today —has angered some property owners on the East, West, and Gulf Coasts, the spokesman said. The federal government's advice will be, "Build farther back," he said.

The Park Service has been working for years against the ocean. It has dredged up sand and dumped it on dunes. It has planted seaside grasses to hold the sand together. It has put up barriers to channel where the waves can eat and where they cannot.

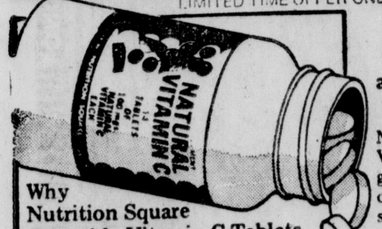
LIMITED TIME OFFER ONLY AT GENERAL NUTRITION CENTERS



Why Nutrition Square Chewable Vitamin C Tablets are made with Natural Acerola Berries.
The tropical acerola berry is one of nature's wonders. It is amazingly rich in natural Vitamin C -- up to 80 times as rich as an equal amount of orange juice. This concentrated C goodness adds a lot of taste pleasure, as well as nutritional value. And the tastiest way to get its benefits is in Nutrition Square chewable Vitamin C with Acerola tablets.

Taste it . . . and enjoy the most delicious and complete Vitamin C nutrition that ever melted in your mouth!

Nutritional science knows that you need Vitamin C every day. It affects every single cell in your body. Yet your body can't store it. But, without a sufficient supply of Vitamin C, your body can't manufacture a special cement called "collagen" -- the cement that holds every single cell in the body together. So you can see how important it is to be sure of getting enough Vitamin C.

That's where Nutrition Square Natural Vitamin C with Acerola comes in. These new chewable Vitamin C tablets have such a wonderfully tangy true-fruit taste, people love to chew them like candy. Even kids who can't swallow pills will gladly chew their daily Nutrition Square Vitamin C with Acerola. They'll look forward to its melt-in-your-mouth goodness so much, they'll remind you to give it to them. (In fact, they'll probably ask for more -- but how many you give them is between you and your doctor.)

We're so sure that, once your family tastes Nutrition Square Natural Vitamin C with Acerola tablets, everyone in your family will insist on them . . . we're offering you this free taste test. Just fill out the coupon and bring it in to any of the General Nutrition Centers listed here . . . and we'll give you your FREE 14-day supply. No obligation. No strings attached.

Holt Ave. utility district urged to bury power lines

By BOB NAGEY
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — The city's long-range plan to move all power poles underground along Holt Avenue continued Monday night with a proposal to construct an underground utilities district between Dudley Street and Hamilton Boulevard.

Under the proposal that was unveiled at a public hearing before the City Council, property owners would share the cost of the relocation with the Southern California Edison Co. and the General Telephone Co.

Ronald Kranzer, director of public works, estimated the over-all cost of the project at about $600,000, of which the property owners on both sides of Holt Avenue would pay about one-fourth for "stubbing" into the main line.

It was evident at the public hearing, despite objections from several property owners, that the council was strongly in favor of forming the district.

"You can't stop progress," Councilman Ben Ochoa told the property owners. "We have been told by the Public Utilities Commission that this is something we have to do."

The property owners had complained they had not even been given an estimate of the cost, and that whatever the additional cost, it would be too much.

E. Davin, owner of Hi-Fi Mobile Home Plaza, 1010 W. Holt Ave., told the council that his trailer park was located next to the (St. Joseph) Catholic Church, "and widows live there who just pick up their Bibles and go to church. If I have to raise my rent, they'll go to the poorhouse."

Other property owners wondered whether the costs could not be lowered through alternate plans of tie-in.

It was to accommodate those residents that the council decided to continue the public hearing on Oct. 8. Mayor Ray J. Lepire said the additional time would give the property owners some time to get estimates, and Councilman Charles W. Bader asked Kranzer to look into the possibilities of alternate less costly plans wherever possible.

"I'm eager to see the benefits of this district," Bader explained, "but hate to see the property owners excessively taxed."

The strip, the second underground district in a continuous line, is about three-fourths of a mile long. It joins a similar district already formed west of Dudley. The next district is expected to be considered between Hamilton and Garey Avenue.

In an unrelated matter, the council passed an emergency ordinance placing a 90-day moratorium on the establishment of car washes throughout the city.

The freeze will remain in effect to enable the city to complete a study on what zone car washes belong in.

In other matters, the council:

—Approved a proposal, after a public hearing at which no one appeared to object, to establish a hillside overlay to that portion of the Ganesha Hills which is bounded by McKinley Avenue, Ganesha Boulevard, Gillette Road, and Dudley and Val Vista streets.

—Passed a resolution calling for bids for the construction of a pedestrian overpass over Valley Boulevard near Omar Street, and called for the stationing of a police officer or a crossing guard there until the bridge is completed.

—Authorized the purchase of La Casa Primera de Rancho San Jose, southwest corner of Park and McKinley avenues, from the Historical Society of Pomona Valley, Inc. for the total amount of $82,667.36, and instructed the city staff to apply to the federal government for available historical grants.

—Referred a request for the re-establishment of one-way traffic on the Pomona Mall to the Mall Commission, with instructions to the city staff by Councilman Adrian Wright to "come up with facts and figures to see what it takes to put the automobile back on the street."

The request for one way traffic came from the Pomona Central Business district, which has called it a "last ditch stand" to restore some activity on the mall.

MATHEW KRAMER

Mathew Kramer to take post with Moose

POMONA — Mathew Kramer of Pomona will be installed Saturday night as the new district president of the California Moose Association at an installation ceremony at the Pomona Moose Lodge.

Kramer is presently a trustee of the Pomona Lodge and has previously served as inner and outer guard, sergeant-at-arms, prelate, junior governor, governor and junior past governor. He received the Diamond Award of Merit for his service as governor. He is a member of the Legion of the Moose and a recipient of the Fellowship Degree. He served as vice president of the Foothill District last year.

Installing the new president will be Richard Weaver of Montebello, past district president. George Hannum of Rowland Heights will be the installing sergeant-at-arms. The installation chairman is Lela Koppelman of Pomona.

Other officers to be installed include Norman Harrigan of Rowland Heights as vice president, Ail G. El-Assaad of Pomona as secretary, and John F. Robinson of Rowland Heights as sergeant-at-arms.

Resource Project seeks volunteers

POMONA — The Pomona Valley Resource Project, a non-profit community organization assisting needy families, has an urgent need for volunteers.

According to Ronald Calabro, project chairman, volunteers are needed to help man the project resource center at 181 Pomona Mall West, to assist with furniture pick-up and delivery, and to repair appliances.

In addition to volunteers, said Calabro, the project is also in need of clean usable clothing, blankets, linens, furniture, appliances, food and cash contributions.

For further information, persons may call 623-8822 or 623-6371 during business hours, or 629-9093 after 5 p.m.

Pomona planning staff concludes

Data lacking in OIA impact report

POMONA — An environmental impact report concerning a second main runway proposed at Ontario International Airport should contain a more comprehensive analysis of the alternatives to the proposed side-by-side configuration, the Pomona planning staff believes.

"This study should examine all possible alternatives, including the staggered runway configuration," they added.

The city staff prepared a six-page critique on the Northrop Corp. study, which will be presented Wednesday night to the Pomona Planning Commission.

The critique focuses on the deficiencies of the report primarily from the standpoint of the potential impact on the City of Pomona, said Sanford A. Sorensen, city planner.

In the staff critique, the planners suggested the analysis include a comparative cost benefit analysis of all possible alternative runway configurations, which would include such items as land acquisition costs, construction costs, probable costs of court actions arising from noise suits and costs involved in the relocation of residents in high-noise impact areas.

The environmental impact report proposes construction of a 10,000-foot runway parallel with the existing threshold moved 2,200 feet to the east. This would allow departing aircraft to be at a higher elevation when passing over residential areas.

An alternative that would have all the advantages of the side-by-side runway configuration is the "staggered runway" configuration, the staff noted.

This would call for construction of the new runway east and south of the eastern end of the existing runway. This plan would require the acquisition of additional property east of the airport, but would have the added advantage of greatly reducing the noise impact on the surrounding communities.

Other staff recommendations include:

— A section detailing the extent of the impact on street traffic circulation in the airport area be included in the report.

— The noise impact resulting from the various alternative runway configurations should be quantified and compared in a comprehensive report on the alternatives to the proposed side-by-side runway configurations.

— A sound level of 70 decibels be used as the threshold level in calculating noise exposure values, instead of 85 decibels.

— The economic impact resulting from the expansion of the airport on communities located in the airport region, but not in the immediate area, be quantified and assessed.

— Data be provided indicating the average number of flights by type of aircraft that would be using each flight path for each alternative runway configuration in 1975, 1978, 1985, and 1990.

— Cooperation be maintained with other cities and counties in the region whose planning agencies are reviewing the environmental impact statement. This could include an exchange of information and ideas.

The planning commission meetings starts at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council chambers.

Hog-calling event tops fair activity

POMONA — The Los Angeles County Fair's 20th annual hog-calling contest will highlight fair activities Wednesday at 5 p.m. in the fairgrounds' livestock judging ring.

On Monday a crowd of 44,948 visited the fair, pushing total attendance for 11 days to 780,782. Attendance is off slightly from last year's 11-day total of 810,089.

In other events for Wednesday, a lemon pie contest will be held in the Home Arts Building at 7:30 p.m., while Pioneer High School from Whittier will stage a parade at 2 p.m.

A horse show in the Carnation Ring will be staged at 10 a.m., 1 and 7:30 p.m. by the Calizona Appaloosa Association.

Livestock judging will be for Alpine and Saanen dairy goats at 9 a.m. and Guernsey dairy cattle at 10 a.m.

In the Schools Exhibit, the Pomona Recreation Department will present music, singing and dancing at 7 p.m.

The Home Arts Showcase will feature cake decorating demonstrations at noon, 2, 3 and 5 p.m. The Southern California Edison Co. will present "Mexican Cookery" by Tani Welsh at 11 a.m., 1 and 4 p.m. Daily demonstrations include weaving, quilting, china painting, stitchery, needlepoint, leather craft, spindle spinning and macrame.

The fair's amphitheater will offer hourly shows beginning at 10 a.m. by high school bands from Buena Park, Covina, Inglewood, Azusa, Rosemead, and La Verne, with other entertainment from Hacienda Heights, Glendora and Whittier.

Freeway crash hospitalizes L.A. woman

POMONA — A 63-year-old Los Angeles woman suffered a fractured knee and a broken arm Monday afternoon when her automobile struck a center divider on the San Bernardino Freeway near Towne Avenue. She was trying to avoid boxes which had fallen from a truck which she was following.

Mabel Claire Schakel was listed in satisfactory condition today at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. She also received head lacerations and numerous bruises in the accident.

A passenger in her car, Alice Schaab, 63, of Los Angeles, suffered head lacerations and numerous bruises. She was treated and released.

The driver of the truck was Allen Harris Leitch, 39, of Riverside. He told authorities the boxes he was carrying began to fall out of his truck after it had been passed by another truck. Leitch was not injured in the mishap.

The incident occurred about 2:10 p.m.

Jews to mark beginning of their new year, holy days

Members of the local Jewish community will join their counterparts throughout the world Wednesday evening in ushering in the Year 5743 of the Hebrew calendar.

Rosh Hoshanah eve services are scheduled at 7 p.m. at Temple Sholom in Ontario, and at 8 p.m. at Temple Beth Israel in Pomona.

Observance of the Jewish New Year will continue until sundown Friday at Temple Sholom, and until sundown Thursday at Temple Beth Israel.

Services at Temple Sholom will start at 9 a.m. and again at 7 p.m. on Thursday, and at 9 a.m. Friday, under the direction of Rabbi Alexander Mittleman.

Temple Beth Israel services Thursday will be at 9 a.m. for children, and at 11 a.m. for adults. A choir led by Mary Jane Hess and Cantor Herbert Isaacson will participate.

Rabbi Irving A. Mandel will discuss "The Decay and Rebirth of the American Dream" Wednesday night, and "Pilgrimage of Fools" Thursday morning.

Kol Nidre services, ushering in Yom Kippur, the most solemn of Jewish holy days, will be held by both temples Friday night, Oct. 5.

The services will start at 6:30 p.m. at Temple Sholom and at 8 p.m. at Temple Beth Israel. They will be continued at 9 a.m. at Sholom and 10 a.m. at Beth Israel on Saturday, and will last throughout the day. This is the time of the traditional day of fasting.

Beth Israel will break the fast with light food at the end of the day of prayers.

Trial under way in case of Pomona house break-in, slashing of two

POMONA — Testimony in the trial of two Riverside men charged here with attempted murder, robbery and burglary got under way Monday morning before a jury and Pomona Superior Court Judge August J. Goebel.

The trial of Arnold Keith Spears, 22, and James Franklin Hooker, 21, is expected to require five or six weeks. Both men are being held in lieu of bail.

Spears and Hooker are charged with being the two armed men who forced their way into the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Ryan here March 23, bound and gagged the couple, their son, Mark, 24, and daughter, Galen 21, ransacked the house and then cut the younger Ryans' throats before fleeing in a car.

The Ryans lived at 797 E. Harrison Ave. at the time of the incident but since have moved.

In a brief opening statement Monday morning, Deputy District Atty. Joel Hoffman told the jury that he and co-counsel Gerard R. Poirier expected to show that Spears and Hooker were the men who forced their way into the Ryan home that evening, "beginning the ordeal of the Ryan family."

Hoffman said they also intended to show that Spears and Hooker were the ones who cut the young Ryans' throats.

The first prosecution witness was a former neighbor of the Ryans', Choice W. Dalton Jr. Dalton lived near the Ryans at the time of the incident but since has moved and is a ranger in Olympic National Park in Washington.

Dalton told of seeing two young men and a young woman walking around the neighborhood when he arrived home that evening. He became suspicious and called police after seeing them approach the Ryan home.

Later Monday George Ryan, 52, appeared and was to return today for further questioning. Previously he told of answering a knock on the door, finding a young woman there who said she was taking a survey and then being pushed aside by the two armed men as they invaded the house.

At 15-year-old girl subsequently was arrested with Spears and Hooker and was turned over to Riverside County juvenile authorities as the third suspect in the case. The defense attorneys are Deputy Public Defender Weldon Diggs and Jerry Lenoir, Los Angeles.

Toastmasters pick contest winners

POMONA — Toastmasters Club 110 picked it's representatives to the future competition in humorous speech and tall tales contests at Buffums' Palomares Room, Saturday at 7 p.m.

Allan Murdock will be the humorous speech speaker with Currier Thatcher the tall tales entrant. Both were selected at the club's contest held Sept. 20.

Awards presented at the last meeting included: best speaker, Thatcher, best evaluator, Bob Dwight, and best table topics, Dan Palmer.

Club 110 meets each first and third Thursdays of the month at the Heritage House in Pomona.

Commission on Aging slates USC visit

POMONA — The Pomona Valley Commission on Aging will sponsor a tour of the gerontology department of USC on Oct. 4.

The tour will cost $3. Reservations can be made until Sept. 30 by calling 629-4817.

The tour bus will leave from 3rd Street and Park Avenue at 9 a.m. A film and a lecture will be included in the tour.

TV Week to focus on Adam's Rib stars

Ken Howard and Blythe Danner, stars of the new ABC series Adam's Rib, will be featured in the next issue of TV Week, a Sunday supplement in the Progress-Bulletin.

Public invited to learn of Meals on Wheels

POMONA — The Pomona Meals on Wheels has scheduled an open meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Pomona Valley Community Hospital auditorium to explain the program to the public.

So that volunteers can learn about the work of the newly-organized service which takes meals to shut-ins, a slide presentation will be presented by Mrs. Ruth Wallis, who is vice president of both Pomona MOW and the Ontario Upland MOW groups.

Volunteers are needed to package and deliver hot, nutritious meals at noontime Mondays through Fridays to handicapped or shut-in persons in Pomona.

The recipients will pay the basic cost of the meal, which will be prepared at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Packaging and delivery are free volunteer services.

Volunteers are needed for approximately one hour, about twice a month. Duties include delivering the bulk food from the hospital to First Presbyterian Church, packaging the food at the church, or delivering the meals to the individuals. All volunteers will be instructed in their jobs. Day captains will be in charge of volunteers.

Both men and women are needed for the program and volunteers may select their own days. All interested persons are urged to attend the meeting.

Claremont architecture panel

Plans for shopping village, drive-up bank up for study

CLAREMONT — Review of architectural and site plans for a shopping village near the Claremont Depot and for a drive-up bank at Griswold's Old School House will come before the Claremont Architectural Commission at its 7:30 p.m. session Wednesday in the City Council chamber.

At its last meeting, the commission tabled any review of the shopping village until a representative for Specialty Restaurants submitted more detailed elevation drawings. The site is east of the Claremont Depot and south of First Street.

The commission also will review site plans for the club house for the Valley Racquet at 840 S. Indian Hill Blvd., at the Rodeway Inn.

Petrolane Properties is asking for a review of elevations, colors, materials and signs for a retail store building at the west end of the New Stater Bros. shopping center at 1055 W. Foothill Blvd. The site plan calls for a 5,600-square-foot building to house a 1,300-square-foot restaurant and four retail shops.

Clark Contractors wants to put up a storage building at Highpoint, the condominium complex at Claraboya, and has asked for approval of the site plan.

Conrad Casler has requested approval of an exterior alteration for a single-family dwelling at 1212 N. Indian Hill Blvd., but the city staff is concerned because most of the work already has been completed without the necessary permits.

EDITORIAL

Opinion

Two big advances on food problem

The "Green Revolution" has turned brown at the edges.

Despite startling increased yield of new grain varieties, particularly rice, the world remains locked in a race between agricultural productivity and population growth.

World grain reserves are at their lowest point in 20 years, due to bad weather in 1972, diseases and other disasters, as well as greater consumption. At the same time, the more affluent nations are developing an appetite for red meat similar to that of Americans, even as more and more grain is going to be needed simply to meet the food needs of people.

Human technology has not yet given up the battle to human fecundity, however. At least two developments in recent weeks hold out significant promise.

In one of them, the Ceres Land Co. of Sterling, Colo., which feeds 60,000 head of cattle, became the first major cattle raiser to begin to include in the normal diet of its herd substantial amounts of feed derived from, of all things, cow manure.

Cows, it seems, do not digest 20 per cent of what they eat. The system Ceres is using reportedly converts their protein-rich wastes simply, cheaply and without pollution into a feed that neither looks nor smells like manure.

U.S. Department of Agriculture researchers estimate that the recycling of only one-third of the 1.7 billion tons of farm animal waste produced each year would yield as much protein as is contained in this country's total annual soybean crop.

In the second development, which sounds a little less like a perpetual motion machine, Agri-Stock, Inc., a recently formed company in Akron, Ohio, has announced that it is ready to market a new custom-blended forage balancer which, it claims, will enable beef and milk production to be tripled at low cost.

The meal supplement, which is 32 per cent protein, balances roughage such as silage, grass and hay into a complete diet for beef and dairy cattle.

These animals, whose natural food is roughage, are usually fed grain and a grain balancer so they can produce at their maximum capacity, explains ruminal nutritionist Dr. Joseph B. Davidson, the firm's executive vice-president. But it still takes eight to 10 pounds of grain to produce a pound of beef and three to four times as much land to give the same results as feeding entirely on a roughage program.

For example, land which will produce 100 bushels of corn will produce some 20 tons of corn silage. This consists of harvesting the entire plant rather than just the ears.

On the average, the corn in turn will produce 600 to 700 pounds of beef or 5,000 pounds of milk. In contrast, Agri-Stock's new mix will produce about 2,000 pounds of beef or 16,000 pounds of milk.

Land that is not economically productive as far as grain is concerned will grow acceptable silage crops. The latter are also less affected by the weather. This could be a boon in subtropical climates that grow almost unlimited amounts of forage.

The better land could then be used to grow food grains, says Davidson, and thus be better utilized for human consumption.

Several years of extensive experimentation with the new feed supplement on farms in the United States and Canada have convinced him that it "could literally revolutionize farm output."

Here come the cool judge

It's handy being a judge sometimes.

When two maintenance men turned up the thermostat in his air-conditioned courtroom in obedience to a county order to conserve energy and refused to turn it down again, Judge Oliver Feifer of Santa Monica Municipal Court simply had the culprits arrested and tossed in the clink for "contempt of court."

Their sentence was only a brief 45 minutes, as long as it took for other workers to get the temperature down to Judge Feifer's liking. But still, it must be nice to have that kind of power.

Out of fire, into frying pan

It's hardly an occasion for joy when an animal is placed on the endangered species list says Smithsonian magazine. It is, however, with regard to the eastern cougar and the Rocky Mountain wolf, both of which recently made the list.

The reason is that prior to reclassification, the animals were believed to be extinct a case, comments the magazine, of moving out of the fire into the frying pan.

Thought for today

U.S. is drug peddler's paradise

WASHINGTON — Despite rosy progress reports by President Nixon on the war against drugs, a confidential Senate report warns that the federal anti-drug effort ranges from "inadequate" to "horrendous."

The study found perpetual backfence carping between FBI and antidrug officials, outmoded Eliot Ness-era enforcement practices and purposely faked data on the number of addicts and on the importance of arrested heroin merchants.

These unvarnished findings by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff's Government Operations subcommittee mesh almost exactly with recent talks by our reporters with Justice Department drug officials, street agents, FBI men, Capitol Hill experts and shadowy narcotics figures.

The subcommittee's 25-page document, now being readied for publication, points out that while American parents sweat and steam over their teen-agers' drug sampling, the nation has become a land of milk and honey for big and little drug hustlers alike.

'Spilled over'

"Drug law enforcement resources remain woefully inadequate against the 'polydrug' epidemic across the nation," says the report. "The nation's drug crisis has clearly spilled over the boundaries of the inner-city ghettos, where heroin was the traditional drug of choice, into the suburbs and small towns, where the drug of choice . . . often takes the form of pills.

"Teen-agers are the principal abusers and schools are a principal marketplace and arena of abuse."

Yet, until a few months ago, "10 federal agencies in five cabinet departments performed drug enforcement functions." This wasteful disarray had led to current "budgeting . . . at $257 million, a sevenfold increase in funding from the $36 million in fiscal year 1969."

Incredible as it sounds, some of the federal money has been spent to falsify drug statistics on both the number of addicts and the celebrity-status of some of the arrested hustlers.

Names added

White House aides confirmed to the subcommittee that the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs' list of top level smugglers has been inflated "by adding names . . . as suspects were arrested." In other words, when even an insignificant arrest was made, the suspect sometimes has been counted by the bureau as a narcotics kingpin to make its record look good.

Moreover, the subcommittee found, governmental bodies have arrived at the number of narcotics addicts in their jurisdiction by multiplying official bureau arrest-based totals by three. "No one seems to know where the factor of three came from," a White House source confided to the Senate probers.

As one example of the confusion, the Justice Department estimated the number of heroin addicts in Connecticut at 881, while the White House reported 13,460.

With such meaningless figures, funding of rehabilitation and antiheroin enforcement programs has becme next to impossible. "The data base for assessing . . . the heroin problem is, at best, woefully inadequate and, at worst, a horrendous scandal," said the report.

National monster

The subcommittee asserts — and our interviews emphatically bear them out — that while federal programs are "overwhelmingly weighted towards the suppression of heroin," a national monster has grown up on goofballs, pep pills, "sopers," cocaine, speed, and other nonheroin drugs.

"At issue is not whether federal drug law enforcement should abandon the war against heroin traffickers," stresses the Ribicoff study, "but to what extent law enforcement priorities must be changed to reflect . . . the dangers of the other forms of drug abuse."

Although 17 times as many Americans abuse nonheroin drugs as heroin, the Senate report states that only about 300 of the Bureau of Narcotics' 1,600 agents have been assigned "to combatting the diversion of legally manufactured pills into the illicit market."

This handful of agents has had to monitor and investigate an incredible 450,000 registered drug handlers who handle eight billion doses of stimulants and depressants annually. Many are produced by "ethical" pharmaceutical firms with the full knowledge that the pills will wind up on the black market.

PAUL HARVEY

Being young not fun any more

Politicians sought to buy the allegiance of young people with promises of legislation allowing young Americans to vote, drink, borrow money, own property and to do a whole host of other things at 18 instead of 21.

There was a hook in the bait. When the law calls you an "adult" at 18, you also give up some rights.

Box office surveys show that the movie musical "Tom Sawyer" brought many school-agers back again and again. They fell in love with Aunt Polly, identified with Tom and Huck and learned the lilting music by heart.

And, despite the deprivation, dangers and discipline endured by the movie's principals, most repeat viewers of the movie said, "Kids had fun in thos days."

Today's 15 million American 18-through 20-year-olds never had it so good. Yet their songs never sounded so sad.

Since winning the right to vote in 1970, young adults in most states are now legally eligible to make wills, own property, sign contracts, marry without parental consent and drink.

But the newly emancipated 18-year-old is discovering that the right to sue also implies the right to be sued. The right to own property in his own name also means he can no longer claim support from his family. The right to "charge it" implies liability for the payments.

And, because accident statistics show that their judgment has not matured overnight, young people still have to pay higher auto insurance rates. Several states in which public drinking is now legal at 18 report a sharp new increase in automobile accidents involving young drivers.

Though entitled to credit and bank loans, the young adult will be turned down as a "poor risk" unless he is gainfully and steadily employed. In divorced families, child support payments which formerly continued to age 21 may now end at age 18.

The federal government and some states have lowered the required age for service on juries from 21 to 18. Jury service may now be required. In short, they wanted into the club; now the dues are due.

They've gained prerogatives, but they pay with the increased pressure of decisionmaking.

The number of young Americans now getting psychiatric treatment at established mental health facilities has doubled since 1965.

The American Medical Assn. calculates that during our nation's most affluent year — this one — 10 million Americans need treatment for depression.

Suicide rates are up for our population generally, but, for the young, spectacularly. The Aquarian age of harmony celebrated by young rebels of the Sixties was stillborn.

Little wonder today's sophisticated young seek solace for an hour in the era of less affluence and more laughter — in the worlds of Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn and The Waltons.

Raza Unida party?

I believe it is an appropriate time to answer some correspondence that I have received from "La Raza Unida Party" relative to the forming of a third party and asking for help in gathering some 40,000 signatures to qualify said party for the ballot in the coming general elections.

Their objective of getting a better representation in government with Americans of Mexican descent is very laudable and I am all for it and have been working toward this end for a good many years. It is my understanding that there are over two million eligible voters of Mexican descent in California alone. Can you imagine forming a non-partisan political organization consisting solely of Americans of Mexican descent in California with chapters throughout the state with a grand chapter centrally located and using peaceful means through the ballot box instead of demonstrating and rioting to obtain a betterment of the economic situation of the American of Mexican descent?

However, in my opinion, the "Raza Unida Party?" has a few questions to answer before a large segment of the more intelligent Americans of Mexican descent will be willing to join their party, namely the following:

A large majority of us resent being relegated to second class citizens by being referred to as "Chicanos," or hyphenated Americans. We consider ourselves Americans of Mexican descent and proud of our Mexican heritage. However, I notice in their "write-ups" that the "Raza Unida" still refers to us as "Chicanos". This a good many of us resent. Secondly, in the issue of July 28, thru Aug. 18, 1973, the "Councilor" published in Shreveport, La., there appears a very long list of names under the heading of "Organizations of People in the New Communist Front", among which there appears a "Jose Gutierrez, of the "Raza Unida"; Alicia Escalante of the "Chicano Welfare Rights Organization"; Armida Duran, Clinica Familiar del Barrio Los Angeles, as well as at least a dozen others with Spanish surnames appear on the list.

There is much more to be said on this subject but the foregoing should suffice for the time. This letter is written and signed by an American of Mexican descent who is proud of his Mexican heritage. — C. A. Celaya, Pomona.

Gossip for today

"Critical power shortages will hit Southern California by springtime," says the head of the State Public Utilities Commission. And yet, according to no less an authority than the chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission: "We are suffering an energy DILEMMA, not a crisis."

Well, that's a relief! Or is it? When bureaucrats start tossing words around the wise man first consults his dictionary before forming an opinion. And, according to the American Heritage Dictionary: "A DILEMMA is a predicatment that seemingly defies a satisfactory solution; an argument in which a choice of two ore more alternatives each being conclusive and fatal, is presented."

So what IS going to happen come next Spring? An energy crisis? — An energy dilemma? — Take your choice. But as Shakespeare would be saying, were he here to throw in his two bits worth: A crisis by any other name is still not going to be much of an improvement.

INSIDE REPORT

Nixon's long cold winter

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON—Just as the Sept. 8 cabinet meeting on threatened heating oil shortages this winter was starting, former Colorado Gov. John Love, President Nixon's energy czar, urgently whispered with Interior Secretary Rogers Morton.

Would Morton support or oppose mandatory allocations of heating oil if the President brought up the subject at the cabinet meeting, Love asked.

Morton and Love quickly agreed that, if that political hot potato was tossed up, they would support allocations.

Quickly, however, it became apparent that Mr. Nixon himself was politically and emotionally against mandatory allocations (designed to guarantee a fair level of supplies to potentially oil-short areas like New England and the Upper Midwest).

The ice was first broken by Russell Train, newly sworn in Environmental Protection administrator. Train said that if, as the White House wants, states are asked to provide temporary "variances" from clean air laws, then the administration should ask Congress for mandatory allocations to spread the shortages fairly.

Mr. Nixon listened, saying nothing, then turned to Deputy Secretary of the Treasury William Simon. "You don't agree with that, do you, Bill?" the President asked.

"Yes sir," replied the forthright Simon, backing Train to the hilt. Mr. Nixon then turned to Morton. Without hesitation, Morton said: "I agree with Bill Simon 100 per cent."

But energy czar Love apparently was getting the drift of the President's own strong antipathy to allocations. When Mr. Nixon finally turned to him, Love hedged. Maybe yes, he said, but then again, maybe no. Three times the President asked Love and three times Love, a newcomer to the political thickets of Washington, equivocated.

That was Sept. 8. Shortly thereafter, the White House, with Love now leading the way, came close to outright support for allocations. But Simon's boss, Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz, and other freedom-of-marketplace ideologues such as top White House aide Bryce Harlow, have reversed that trend. There is now open talk of a possible veto if Congress goes ahead on its own and sends a mandatory allocations bill to the President.

Through all this, three hard facts are emerging and they were deeply impressed on the seven governors who attended Wednesday's energy meeting at the White House: there is no energy policy as yet; there is no hard information on shortages; there are no real contingency plans.

If Mr. Nixon doesn't soon fill that policy and information vacuum and the coming winter turns out long and cold, he will open up a political Pandora's box which for voter fury could make the Watergate scandals a summer picnic.

Laird tells Shultz

Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz's angry cry from Tokyo that Melvin R. Laird better keep his "cotton pickin' hands" off economic policy was privately rejected by Laird in Washington last week.

"I was making economic policy long before you were even in government," veteran politicial Laird, now White House domestic policy chief, told former Prof. Shultz here after his return from Japan. As a Wisconsin legislator 26 years ago, Laird continued, he conducted a study on state tax laws and has been involved in tax policy ever since. What's more, he said, he would keep talking taxes long after he leaves the White House (less than a year from now, he forecasts) and, in the meantime, will discuss all other aspects of government policy — economics included.

Laird also defended his Sept. 15 press conference boosting proposals for temporary tax increases by Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns. Laird told Shultz not to reject out of hand Dr. Burns's idea of using variable taxes to combat inflation.

Finally, Laird stressed that he knows no tax legislation will pass Congress this year but wanted Burns's proposals ventilated. He remembered pushing revenue-sharing some 15 years before the program was adopted by Congress.

A footnote: Attempting to ease tension after Shultz's attack on Laird in Tokyo, Deputy Treasury Secretary William Simon sent Laird a pair of white cotton gloves. But Laird jokes that he probably needs neither white gloves now black gloves. He needs kid gloves when talking policy — to soften the impact on Shultz and other officials of his laudable attempt to achieve open government.

Walnut schools put stress on better reading

By J. LANGE WINCKLER
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — Reading is the core of education, the basic tool with which children gain other knowledge. The school district here is working at full capacity to teach children the first of the "Three R's."

In the district are five programs for improving reading skills, beginning with basic classroom instruction, and including a district-employed reading specialist, a federally-funded EEA Title I program, a state-supported Miller-Unruh reading specialist, and the reading portion of Walnut's Early Childhood Education (ECE) courses.

"There are lots of ways to teach reading, and they all work," said Jack Jolley, assistant superintendent of educational programs and services. "If the state or federal government offers us funds for a particular type of program, we can't overlook that."

Recently the district's board of trustees approved application to participate in a state extension of the federal "Right to Read" program. This will provide Walnut with additional means to evaluate teaching techniques, students' needs, and ways to better teach reading, said Jolley.

In general, he notes, children in the Walnut Valley Unified School District have no big problems with reading. However, testing last year showed a weakness in sixth, seventh, and eighth-grade classes, mostly at the eighth-grade level.

With test results showing sudents, on an average, about five months behind the norm in reading, and seven months lagging in language, special changes are under way to improve the program. Jolley said the test results showed weaknesses specifically in the mechanics of language, principally spelling.

"Spelling is a rote memorization kind of skill. It does not reflect intelligence levels," Jolley explained. "It is pure torture to the teacher and the kids. At Suzanne Intermediate School, the teachers will concentrate on more formality in spelling instruction.

"We're not going to kill the kids with drudgery, though — yet we've got to spend more time with it."

Problems such as mechanics of language will be picked out at an earlier grade level, under the Right to Read program. While the district copes this year with older students, whose deficiencies become more evident as they proceed through school, a pilot program at Walnut school should help find weaknesses before pupils move beyond elementary grades.

Jerry Bell, the Miller-Unruh specialist assigned to Walnut, will be named as the district's Right to Read coordinator. After special training provided by the state, he will conduct a "needs assessment." Jolley described this evaluation as a testing program designed to point up what elements of the reading program at Walnut school need extra support.

From that evaluation, Bell will draw up a program and select various materials to make it work. Once it is over, students are again tested to determine whether the remedial programs succeeded.

"Walnut Valley is not a district with a lot of problem kids," said Jolley. "Our needs assessment will be a number of quetions we ask ourselves: How much time do the kids spend on reading comprehension; how much on spelling drill; how is this time distributed in general on a daily, or weekly basis? How do larger groups of kids learn, what changes might teachers make within these groups.

"We'll be building our own program, with our own people involved."

That is what the district is doing now in another pilot program at Vejar School. There, seven teachers in kindergarten and first grade are initiating Early Childhood Education.

In that program the teachers are educating children on a series of levels. They determined last summer what basic pieces of knowledge or concepts the child should understand before moving to another level.

Colors and their names, different kinds of symbols, phonetic associations with letters — these are the intimate units of the ECE program. "We hope someday to get completely off grades," notes Jolley. "A child will advance according to his own pace, and not move on just because he's bigger and older."

With both the Title I and district reading specialist programs, these approaches are used on a broader scale. While Vejar and Castle Rock schools benefit from the help of Mrs. Barbara Parker, district specialist, her services are spread between 1,200 to 1,300 students. At Collegewood, Title I serves about 100 youngsters.

All of the programs contribute "research" benefits to individual classroom teachers. "The things that a teacher can use with 30 kids are passed on as part of our in-service instruction," notes Jolley. "But some of these programs cannot contribute too much, since it is very hard to get time for one-to-one attention in a classroom."

He said, "It's a little bit frustrating. While we have covered all the schools in a different way, it is still not a district-wide program. It's not because we want a fragmented program, but because that's the way the money is made available.

"As long as the state and federal government have these categorical programs, that's the way things will stand."

There is quite a bit of money tied up in reading instruction. The district budget shows $35,000 set out for ECE, $18,500 for Miller-Unruh, $18,300 for the district's own reading program, and $28,000 for Title I. Costs are even higher when related budgets for materials and regular classroom instruction are added in.

But the investment in reading instruction doesn't show up in next year's budget, or even in test scores. It shows up in the students' success in society.

"Let's face it," said Jolley. "Society places probably the primary importance on reading. Number two is math. But probably the majority of the time in school is spent on reading.

"Society compounds that even more, by requiring that kids not only read adequately, but well."

LEARNING TO READ

Vejar School first grade teacher Mrs. Cory Griswold tests a pupil's knowledge of words with a flash card. She is shown preparing students to begin the school's Early Childhood Education project, which includes individualized instruction in reading. Spread before her are materials used to check each child's knowledge against a scale that shows at what level the child now reads.

RARE DELIGHTS

Mrs. Don Risk is obviously happy with a pair of rare editions of books authored by Elbert Hubbard, published circa 1900, which will be sold by sealed bid at a used book sale at the Walnut library Saturday. Friends of the Library is hosting the event, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Books of all kinds will be available. Anyone wishing to donate more for the sale should call Mrs. Risk at 595-3069.

Walnut growth exceeds forecast

Big jump in student rolls

WALNUT — As expected the school district here has seen a large jump in student population from last year. Classrooms, in fact, are filled with more students than forecast, according to district officials.

However, the growth should drop back for a while, reported Hay McMullen, director of personnel and planning. He told the Walnut school board that high interest rates have slowed new home sales drastically. Hopefully we have enrolled most of the children we'll receive from new homes until after the first of the year."

By the end of the first week of classes, district enrollment was up by 414 students. The increase was nearly 100 students over projected enrollments for Oct. 5, noted McMullen. This has required the district to make maximum use of classroom space while adding another teacher.

Average class sizes in the district range from 28.7 in first through third grades to 32.6 for grades seven and eight. Some are considerably tighter at individual schools, said McMullen. There is an imbalance at Castle Rock Elementary between fourth grades where some extra space is available and sixth grades, in which class sizes approach maximum limits.

In recent weeks, interest on home financing loans has climbed to all-time highs, which McMullen reported is cutting back new home sales "drastically." He told the board, "Move-ins into completed (homes) as well as those under construction should be very slow."

A spokesman for the Diamond Bar Development Co. said that as of now builders in the area are continuing with their construction plans. "We expect that as of the first of the year, if the rates stay high, there will be quite a drop-off."

Rubbish franchise, EIR on city agenda

WALNUT — Renewed discussion on procedures for preparing environmental impact reports and granting an exclusive city franchise for rubbish collection fill out a generally routine City Council agenda for Wednesday.

Meeting at 8 p.m. in city hall, the council also is to consider additions to city statutes and a request from the American Cancer Society to conduct a "bike-a-thon" in the community.

Environmental impact reports (EIR) have been a topic of controversy for several months. Originally the discussion arose when councilmen questioned the costly detail involved in reports for relatively minor projects. Since then, the question has broadened into consideration for a reference EIR covering the entire city, to which would be appended reports on smaller projects.

Rubbish hauling, likewise, has been before the council regularly since a city ordinance creating the power to grant a franchise was passed. Wednesday's agenda item will cover the terms of a letter inviting bids for the franchise, and terms of a proposed contract.

La Puente adult school sponsors children's party

LA PUENTE — The La Puente Community Adult School will sponsor a children's plaza party Friday.

It will be held from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Amar Plaza Children's Center, 15622 E. Amar Road.

Children up to 5 years of age and their parents will be entertained by a clown, a puppet show and a magician. Refreshments will be served.

The party is part of a drive by the adult school to familiarize the community with the Amar Plaza Children's Center.

It has been selected by the State Department of Education as a site for a child development program. It provides free child care to parents who receive any kind of government family assistance.

The public is invited.

Additional information on the child development program may be obtained by calling the La Puente Community Adult School. Parents interested in bringing children to the party are asked to call (213) 968-8452.

Teachers will be cited for work in ECE

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Teachers at two elementary schools will receive special recognition Thursday for their work in preparing a model Early Childhood Education (ECE) program.

District trustees list the ceremonies at the top of their agenda for an 8 p.m. session at Rowland's central administration office, 1830 Nogales. The board will also act on possible sale of the Blakeman School site, and take information on bids to evaluate special education programs.

Four teachers, three parents, and the principal of Villacorta School will be introduced by Juan Diaz, a district coordinator of special programs. The group will receive accolades for their part in developing the ECE curriculum, which has been used by the State of California as a model program.

Likewise, Diaz will present to the board 13 teachers, two parents, and the chairman of Blandford School's ECE program for accolade.

Hospital ward clerk class has openings

LA PUENTE — Openings exist in the hospital ward clerk class being offered by Valley Vocational Center Mondays and Wednesdays from 6:45 to 10:15 p.m. on the Hudson school campus.

Mrs. Helen Wilson, R.N., is the instructor.

"Ward clerks help carry administrative burdens of registered nurses in hospitals," explained Mrs. Wilson. "They answer telephones, give information, transcribe doctor's orders and make preparations for special tests for patients."

Classroom instruction is geared to understanding medical abbreviations and terminology, basic anatomy and a brief knowledge of the uses and names of medications.

Mrs. Wilson said part of the training will take place at a Whittier hospital.

Additional information may be obtained by calling 213 968-8452.

Former editor to blue-pencil work of writing class

LA PUENTE — Carol Hilliard, former editor of the Diamond Bar Bulletin, is teaching a class on writing for publication offered by the La Puente Community Adult School.

It meets Tuesdays from 6:45 to 10:15 p.m. in Room E-3 of Los Altos High School in Hacienda Heights.

The class covers manuscript preparation, selling techniques, elements of creative writing and grammar.

Those interested in enrolling may call 213 968-8452.

La Puente slates furniture courses

LA PUENTE — Two classes in furniture repair and refinishing are being offered by the La Puente Community Adult School.

Taught by Manual Arce, one class meets Mondays and Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The second meets on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6:45 to 10:15 p.m

Both are held in Room 10 B of the Hudson school.

Arce said the purpose of the classes is not only to teach individuals a hobby but to train them in a vocational field.

ORDINANCE NO. 2636

AN ORDINANCE OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF POMONA, CALIFORNIA, RAISING CERTAIN CHARGES OF THE HUMANE SOCIETY OF POMONA VALLEY, INC., FOR IMPOUNDMENT OF DOGS, CATS AND OTHER ANIMALS.

BE IT ORDAINED by the Council of the City of Pomona, California, as follows:

SECTION 1. That Section 4-73 of Ordinance No. 1673, also known as the Code of the City of Pomona, California, is hereby amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 4-73. POUND FEES.

No dog, cat or other animal impounded shall be redeemed except upon payment to the poundmaster the following fees:

The fee of fifteen dollars for the first time a dog is impounded; twenty-five dollars for the second time and any additional time said dog is impounded.

The fee of three dollars shall be charged for the impounding of cats or other animals, other than dogs.

For each time a dog, cat or other animal is impounded a boarding fee of one dollar and fifty cents per day per dog and one dollar a day for cats and other animals shall be charged.

This boarding fee shall be charged even for those days such as Sunday and holidays or on any other day the Humane Society may be closed to the public and the owner may not claim the dog or cat or other animal as well as for the regular days during which the animal shelter is open. No cow, horse or other such livestock or farm animals shall be returned from being impounded unless the following fees are paid: Thirty dollars each time special equipment is used for a pickup such as a truck or trailer, plus two dollars and fifty cents per day for boarding and feeding. A person claiming ownership of a dog which has been impounded must show proof of a valid rabies certificate for the current year and such certificate must contain a description of such animal before the dog may be released to the alleged owner. In the event such certificate is not produced, the poundmaster at his discretion may accept a substitute to prove such ownership, however, in any event if no proof of rabies vaccination is presented the dog must obtain a rabies vaccination at the expense of the alleged owner prior to the dog being released, or the poundmaster or his deputy or the office manager of the day may release such animal upon a certificate signed by the alleged owner that the dog shall be vaccinated and proof submitted to the poundmaster within forty-eight hours. Failure to submit such proof within such period shall be a violation of this chapter."

SECTION 2. The City Clerk shall certify to the passage and adoption of this ordinance, causing it to be published as required by law, and it shall thereafter be in full force and effect thirty days after the date of its final reading.

APPROVED, PASSED AND ADOPTED this 11th day of September, 1973.

Ask Dr. Brothers

Middle-years crisis

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband recently read an article somewhere about a town in France where people go nude. From that moment on he's talked about practically nothing but how much he wants to go to that town for our vacation. At first, I thought he was kidding, but now I realize he's serious since he's already checked with a travel agent. The problem is we have two children who are going on our European trip with us and I feel it is unhealthy to suddenly take them into this nudist colony.

What really concerns me is that this interest in nudity is not like my husband. He's in his 40s and he's suddenly become very age-conscious. He looks at every young girl as if she's the last one he'll ever see. He's become interested in body-building and he now works out at a gymnasium every week. This may all be part of his new interest in showing off his body. It wouldn't surprise me if he decided one day to walk out the front door and take a stroll over to the neighbors in nothing but his birthday suit. Because of his preoccupation with appearance I've had my hair dyed and am now spending more than I feel I should at the neighborhood beauty parlor. He is pleased and would be upset if I stopped going no matter what the cost. This, too, is unlike him. — P D.

Dear P. D.: Men do go through a crisis in their middle years and it is comparable to the change that women experience. Men often face their sudden anxieties without knowing what hit them.

Dr. Roy Menninger believes there is no way to prevent this middle-years crisis, but if people realize it is a normal phase in their lives, they can manage it better.

Women are usually psychologically prepared better than men to face this trying period. It is a time to reassess and change one's life. Sometimes both men and women focus on superficial changes. Both may become obsessed with physical appearance and they may fight desperately to recapture their youth.

Men frequently judge how they are aging by looking at their wives for a reflection rather than by looking in the mirror. This is one of the reasons it is so important to a man in his 40s or 50s that his wife look her best. It is also one of the reasons men in this age bracket may be attracted to girls young enough to be their daughters.

Sometimes these years are like a second adolescence. Some men become preoccupied with nudity and exhibitionism in much the same way that young boys might. They may become uncertain about their virility so they may try to reassure themselves of their potency. Perhaps you can reassure your husband that he is still attractive which may help to allay his fears.

If he insists on his visit to the nudist colonly, it would be wise not to take the children on this particular part of the trip as this exposure could be damaging, especially as they've not been prepared for it. According to Dr. Sandor Lorand, children of all ages are curious about sex and this situation could present emotional problems. Dr. Lorand feels that the parent who parades nude in front of his child is often unconsciously seducing the child. This merely tends to increase the child's conflicts about sex and about his parents.

Incidentally, if your husband is this intrigued with nudists colonies, he doesn't have to go all the way to Europe. There are some in the United States and most have very strict rules and regulations. If this is the main reason for the European trip, it might be well to reconsider.

Have a talk with your husband and try to get him to express some of his feelings about this matter. When his thoughts can be freely discussed both you and he may be able to gain some valuable insights.

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles in Room 383 of the Hall of Administration, 500 W. Temple Street, Los Angeles, California, 90012, until 9:00 o'clock A.M. on October 9, 1973, on which date they will be publicly opened and read, for the planting of trees and the furnishing and placing of tree well covers together with non-metallic pipe, concrete removal, cast in place porous concrete and other incidental and appurtenant work, including plant maintenance. This work will be authorized by the County at intervals during the contractual period by means of several "Notices to Plant". Said notices will be issued for planting of twenty (20) or more trees. This project is estimated to cost less than $55,000.00, all in accordance with the provisions of the Plans and Specifications and Instructions to Bidders therefor which are filed in Room 383.

Proposal must be submitted on forms prepared and furnished for the purpose, which may be obtained at the Information Desk in the lobby of the Los Angeles County Road Department Administration Building, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033 at which office bidders may also purchase copies of the Plans and Specifications for the contemplated work for the price of $7.14 plus Sales Tax per set, not refundable. A mail address and a phone number must be left at the aforementioned office which the prospective bidder agrees is sufficient to reach him.

Each submitted proposal must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, or a surety bond, payable to the County of Los Angeles in an amount equivalent to at least ten (10) percent of the total aggregate bid price of such proposal, as a guaranty that the bidder, if his proposal be accepted, will enter into and execute the awarded contract, and furnish the required bonds in connection therewith, in accordance with the terms of the aforementioned Specifications and Instructions to Bidders. In the event that a surety bond is submitted in lieu of a check, it shall be subjected to the condition that the surety thereon be approved by the County Auditor and County Counsel.

The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and to waive technical errors and discrepancies, if to do so seems to best serve the interests of the County.

Pursuant to the provisions of Sections 1770 to 1777, inclusive, of the Labor Code of the State of California, the Board of Supervisors has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages for each craft or type of workman needed to execute the proposed contract, and it will be required that not less than said rates be paid to all such workmen employed or engaged on the work. Complete wage rate schedules are on file at the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department and are included in the contract specifications available at the Road Department.

The rate of compensation for any classification not listed in the schedule, but which may be required to execute the proposed contract, shall be commensurate and in accord with the rates specified for similar or comparable classifications or for those performing similar or comparable duties.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS: Bidders must satisfy themselves by personal examination of location of the proposed work and by such other means as they may prefer as to the actual conditions and requirements of the work, and shall not at any time after submission of the bid dispute, complain, or assert that there was any misunderstanding in regard to the nature or amount of work to be done.

The contractor to whom this contract is awarded will be required, before execution of the contract by the County Board of Supervisors, to file with the County Board of Supervisors surety bonds as follows:

A "Faithful Performance Bond" amounting to 100% of the total contract price is required for all contracts.

A "Payment Bond" (labor and material) amounting to 50% of the total contract price is required for all contracts which have a total contract price in excess of $10,000.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

The 'Great Shuffle' nabs another A.D.

For the past two years in the San Antonio League, there have been a lot of new faces popping up in the athletic departments.

In football, there are now only two varsity head coaches who have been at the top level for more than two years.

Claremont High coach Esper Keiser and Ganesha coach Garry Norvell are the only two veterans with all the others either stepping in last year or making their debuts this season.

In basketball, four of the eight schools changed varsity head coaches last season.

And it's been happening in almost every sport.

The "Great Shuffle" has even affected the athletic directors in the valley.

Frank Elder, athletic director and basketball coach for 25 years at Chino High, called it quits last spring.

Lee Mathes of Ganesha and Wil Wright of Montclair also turned in their resignations as A.D.s for their respective schools.

And now another athletic director has decided to get out.

Jack Smith, who has served the last four years as athletic director at Claremont High, resigned as A.D. late last year in order to devote more time to coaching basketball and to his family.

Smith, a mild-mannered coach who has spent the last 15 years guiding the Wolfpack basketball team to prominence, said it was pretty hard coaching a team, being athletic director and also teaching a physical education class.

"Being athletic director is pretty demanding," Smith continued. "You have to schedule all the athletic events at the school, arrange for bus trnsportation for the athletic teams for all sports, supervise all events, but make out the athletic budget."

Claremont most active

And Claremont is probably the toughest school in the league, if not in the valley, because it participates in more sports than any other SAL school.

Altogether, the Wolfpack competes in 11 different sports during the school year, which includes golf, soccer, tennis, and the water sports.

So how much time does it take being athletic director?

"That's something that is hard to measure," Smith said. "It's always on your mind. The No. 1 priority is obviously teaching, and being athletic director was hurting my teaching and coaching. I would say it took about a third of my time."

Not much has changed since Jack first took over as A.D., but he did run into a few problems some of the other schools don't face.

"We have the same athletic program when I came in," the Pack cage coach pointed out. "But Claremont has had the problem of lack of facilities. We're short on grass fields, a baseball diamond, and a football stadium. Also when I first started Claremont was involved in a big cut in the budget and we had to eliminate the sophomore basketball team and junior varsity baseball team. We have them back now, but then we couldn't afford the equipment."

Money — the universal problem — has really dampened the search for heah coaches.

"People used to be willing to coach," Smith commented. "But now there doesn't seem to be much interest. Maybe it's the amount of money a coach gets — I don't know."

Head football coaches average somewhere between making an extra $500 to $650 a year.

Eight cents an hour

With the new summer program added to the football schedules, someone had once figured out that the head coach was making about eight cents an hour.

And the other sports get even less.

Obviously, being a head coach of a sport and also working as athletic director didn't appeal to Smith.

"I feel it's better if the athletic director is not a head coach," Smith commented.

Dodgers ready for Bad Henry

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Los Angeles Dodgers, who appeared steam-rolling toward a National League pennant in summer, saw their dreams crushed in the fall Monday as the Cincinnati Reds cinched the NL West title.

The Dodgers have five games remaining and open a three-game series tonight in Atlanta against Henry Aaron and company.

Los Angeles sends Andy Messersmith, 14-10, against Phil Niekro, 13-9, in the opener.

The Dodgers, six games back in their division, remain second, five games ahead of San Francisco.

Tonight's game features the home run onslaught of Aaron, who needs only two more to tie Babe Ruth's career record of 714.

Eagles prove no joke for Gabe

NEW YORK (UPI)—Don't tell Roman Gabriel any Philadelphia jokes.

Gabriel, who spent 11 seasons with the Los Angeles Rams, is starting his career over at age 33 with the Philadelphia Eagles and he thinks it's time the Eagles stopped being a pro football joke.

Many observers thought the Eagles gave too much when they sent Hal Jackson, Tony Baker, first round draft choices in 1974 and 1975 and their third choice in 1975 to Los Angeles for Gabriel.

It seemed like a lot for a veteran coming off a sorearmed year—especially since Gabriel made it obvious he wanted to be traded by Los Angeles after the Rams picked up John Hadl.

But the trade is looking better every day.

In Gabriel's first regular season game as an Eagle, he completed 22 of 37 passes for 162 yards and two touchdowns against St. Louis. It was in a 34-23 losing effort but after the Eagles fell behind 21-0, Gabriel cut the deficit to 24-23 before St. Louis pulled away.

He was even better against the New York Giants last Sunday. He completed 14 of 28 passes for 227 yards and a touchdown as the underdog Eagles, who had lost 45-21 in the exhibition season to the Giants three weeks ago when Gabriel didn't play until the second half, gained a 23-23 tie.

"I think we've proved we can play with anybody," insisted Gabriel after he guided two long second half TD marches that almost gave the Eagles an upset victory. The second TD put the Eagles ahead 23-20 with 1:54 left but the Giants managed to get a tying field goal as the gun sounded.

Gabriel said he's never had any second thoughts about coming to Philadelphia despite its long history of losing in the NFL.

"I saw that we had some talent," he said, "and we have a good coaching staff. I knew it was just a matter of time. We've got a lot of young players and they've played under different systems and they're just getting to believe in what the staff is trying to get across."

Gabriel has been especially impressed by the play of the young offensive line and the running of second year back Tom Sullivan. "A lot of people say we don't have an offensive line but look at that good job Sullivan did with 100 yards against the Giants. Some of those yards came on fine running but those guys up front had to be opening the holes, too."

Gabriel was especially effective against the Giants in play-action passes when the Giants were looking for the run.

Jim Garrett, the Giants' defensive coach, said, "Gabriel's a good team man. He gets the most out of his offense. He's a veteran and he knows what he's doing. When he runs a lot on first down and then he pulls that play action pass on first down, the linebackers have got to watch for the run."

Gabriel said the young players "are starting to believe in themselves." He adds, "they've got a lot of confidence now. I think our chances are pretty good."

Gabriel gets a good chance to test out that theory this Sunday when the Eagles entertain the Washington Redskins. They're coached by George Allen, who coached Gabriel in Los Angeles, and they'll be attempting to bounce back after being upset by St. Louis.

Gabriel is familiar with the George Allen defense but says, "that's not really an advantage because he changes things a lot depending on who he's playing."

One thing is certain. The Redskins can't afford to take Gabriel and the Eagles lightly.

Reds cinch it; Bucs still in it

By United Press International

The Cincinnati Reds are home free and the Pittsburgh Pirates are still alive.

That's the story in the National League today after the Reds clinched their third Western Division title in four years with a 2-1 victory over the San Diego Padres Monday night and the Pirates remained a half-game out of first place in the Eastern Division by splitting a "survival doubleheader" with the Montreal Expos.

The world champion Oakland A's and the Baltimore Orioles already have clinched the American League's Western and Eastern Division crowns, respectively, leaving the NL East the only undecided race in the majors.

The Reds, travelling at a .700 pace for the last two months, clinched the NL Western crown with the help of homers by Andy Kosco and Tony Perez plus the late-inning relief pitching of Tom Hall and Pedro Borbon. The victory went to Dick Baney, a 25-year old rookie who shut out the Padres on six hits for the first seven innings.

"Two months ago when we were 11 games behind the Dodgers everybody counted us out except 25 players, one manager, four coaches and a batboy," said Cincinnati star Pete Rose, who is en route to his third batting title. "Everybody said we couldn't win it except us. This is a fighting, struggling team. Coming back to win it this year is a lot more satisfying than last year when we didn't have it so hard."

"This comeback shows that our guys are true champions," added General Manager Bob Howsam. "Pete Rose has really achieved greatness, not so much because of his great individual play but because this year he started to exert his influence as team captain and it showed."

The Expos beat the Pirates in the first game of their doubleheader 5-4 but Pittsburgh rallied for a 3-0 victory in the nightcap on Willie Stargell's 44th homer and a two-run single by Richie Zisk. The Pirates trail the New York Mets by a half game with both teams even in the loss column at 77.

Poly's Fabian receives honor

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — "It was not an aesthetic triumph, but we enjoyed it.'

The speaker was Poly football coach Roy Anderson. Anderson was discussing Saturday's 31-17 win over Sacramento State at the weekly meeting of the Southern California Football Writers.

Writers selected flanker Joe Fabian of the Broncos as College Division Player of the Week. Fabian, a 5-9, 165 pound junior from La Puente, caught eight passes for 199 yards and three touchdowns against the Hornets.

In accepting his award, Fabian modestly thanked quarterback Jim Zorn, the rest of his teammates, and the coaching staff for making it possible. The little flanker then spoke of his alma mater, Bishop Amat High School.

"I practiced with them couple of weeks," he related, "and their quarterback this year (Rick Liaug) is as good as Pat Haden was when I was there. And they have an end as good as John McKay Jr. was," he added.

Bishop Amat has won its only game, 51-6 over Edgewood.

Poly this week goes up against Cal State Los Angeles and Anderson is apprehensive. "They have a lot more students and athletes than we have at Cal Poly, he said and then added with a grin, "We all know Foster (Andersen, CSLA coach) cheats and it's up to us to find out how."

Anderson also referred to the upcoming match as the "Anderson (or Andersen) Bowl because of the similiarity of the coaches names.

Foster Andersen said "Roy is upset because we've beaten them the last two times we've played them and I'm sure they'll be emotionally ready."

"Our main problem," he continued, "is that we're such a young team. We have 20 underclassmen and it causes us to make a lot of mistakes."

Andersen, who has grown his beard again this year after shaving it off last year, remarked that he was amazed at the reaction it has caused. "I'm no different a coach than I was when I was clean shaven. It doesn't detract from coaching ability."

The CSLA Andersen added one more thought. "I use an old Prussian Army tactic," he said. "I try to make the kids more afraid of me than they are of the opposition.

The writers selected tackle Larry Brooks of the Rams as pro player of the week and defensive back Artimus Parker of USC as University Division Player of the Week.

UPI poll

Trojans increase lead

NEW YORK (UPI)—After a weekend of "scares" to many of the nation's elite college football teams, some of the "have-nots" have begun creeping their way into the top 20.

Southern California, which had to rely on its defense to nudge by Georgia Tech 23-6, increased its lead over Nebraska as the nation's No. 1-rated team according to the United Press International Board of Coaches. The Trojans received 23 first place votes from the 35 coaches voting—two more than last week—to up their point total to 328.

Nebraska, also a hard-fought winner in outlasting North Carolina State 31-14, received eight first place votes from the coaches and a total of 298 points. Idle Ohio State was third again with the remaining four first place votes and 281 points.

Michigan, one of the biggest winners among top 20 teams last week off its 47-10 trouncing of Stanford, jumped past Alabama into the top four with 238 points. The Crimson Tide, undoubtedly hurt by its narrow 28-14 win over unsung Kentucky, remained at No. 5 with 205 points.

Penn State moved up a notch to sixth after its convincing 39-0 pasting of Navy and Notre Dame made the week's biggest climb (11th to seventh) after opening up with a 44-0 rout of Northwestern—the biggest margin of victory by any team in the top 20.

Oklahoma, Tennessee and LSU completed the top 10.

Oklahoma State, long a doormat in the Big Eight Conference, headed the second 10 after belting Arkansas, a former "have", 38-6. The Cowboys look as if they very well may be for real.

After that it was Houston 12th, Auburn 13th and Arizona State 14th, while a three-way tie existed for 15th among Florida, Southern Methodist and Missouri. The last spot, No. 19, was also a tie between Tulane and Miami (Fla.), which knocked Texas from fourth right out of the top 20 with a shocking 20-15 win last Friday night.

Bill Singer goes after 20th win at Big A against Rangers

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Angel pitcher Bill Singer goes for his 20th win tonight when California meets the Texas Rangers, a team they nipped 10-9 Monday night in the ninth inning of a thriller.

California's Lee Stanton decided the game with two out and the bases loaded in the ninth with a two-run double, making up for seven runs the Angels gave up in the top of the ninth.

The Angels, tied with Chicago for fourth in the American League West loaded the bases in the ninth on two walks and a single by Bob Oliver. Then reliever Lloyd Allen walked home two runs before being relieved by Jackie Brown, who gave up Stanton's double.

The Rangers' ninth inning explosion was highlighted by Rich Billings' single, which gave Texas a 9-6 lead.

The Rangers started the final inning with singles by Vic Harris and Dave Nelson. Toby Harrah then greeted Angel reliever Aurelio Monteagurdo with another single to fill the bases. Jeff Burroughs' grounder to third was booted by Oliver and Harris scored to make the score 6-3.

Texas added six more runs on Alex Johnson's two-run single, a walk to Bill Sudakis that forced in a run, Billings' two—run bloop single and a squeeze bunt by Harris.

Singer, 19-13, faces Ranger Steve Dunning, 1-8, in tonight's second game of the three game series.

Bill Russell's maturation process complete

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Bill Russell of the Los Angeles Dodgers thinks his maturation process is almost complete.

"I learned a lot last year and I've learned even more this season," said the 23-year-old All-Star shortstop. "I'm happy with my progress and I think the club is, too."

A converted outfielder, Russell is completing his second season as Los Angeles' regular shortstop. He has been everything the Dodgers thought he would be—plus more.

"I've made some mistakes this year," he continued, "but I don't think I've made the same ones twice. I should be able to really take charge of the infield next season."

The shy, soft-spoken young man from Pittsburg, Kan., has grown into a solid, confident major leaguer. The Dodgers feel he will develop into the best shortstop in baseball. There are some who think he's there already.

The man who took Maury Wills' job has played every inning but three in his fifth big league season. His batting average with five games to go was .265, seven points lower than 1972, and he had commited 31 errors, three fewer than last season. He's played in 28 more games than a year ago with five contests to go.

The Russel-second baseman Davey Lopes' combination has accounted for 162 double plays, 17 more than the Dodgers had last season.

"I think I'm always going to have my share of errors," said Russell, "because I get to a lot of balls that other shortstops don't. But I've thrown some balls away this year that I probably won't try to throw next year."

The range has always been there. All that was missing was the experience.

The young infielder with the reddish blond hair was selected to the National League All-Star team in July by Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson after the Reds' Dave Concepcion broke his leg.

The Dodgers led the National League West for 80 days—from the middle of June until the Reds caught them in the first week of September.

"We didn't give up," said Russell. "It's disappointing but we did a lot more than people thought we would. I think we've surprised everybody, including ourselves.

"We knew we'd have the pitching but the defense and hitting were questionable. I don't think they're questionable any more.

"I'm not sure what they'll (the Dodger front office) do before next season. They might make some changes and they might not."

Russell said his iron-man role at shortstop for the Dodgers was one that suited him. Except for his arm, he said, he was not tired.

"Heck, I'm only 23," he smiled. "I shouldn't be tired. I'm supposed to be a young guy."

Cowboys fall short by 66

IRVING, Tex. (UPI)Don Meredith, who used to play some football in the neighborhood, did some quick figuring before the Dallas-New Orleans game Monday night and announced that considering the scores of recent contests involving the two teams, the Cowboys should be favored by 103 points.

The Cowboys fell short of that by 66 points but the results were fairly conclusive, nevertheless.

Despite a bout with the heat, despite a momentary scare when quarterback Roger Staubach hit the artificial turf with a thud and despite the expected flatness because their opponent had been beaten 62-7 the week before, the Cowboys downed New Orleans 40-3 and presented Coach Tom Landry with his 100th pro victory.

Landry thus becomes only the 10th NFL coach to reach that plateau.

"I have said before that longevity is the most important thing as head coach," Landry said following his club's win. "And you have to win to have longevity. I was lucky to have owners who stuck with me during the lean years until we got the talent to win."

Landry, the only coach Dallas has ever had, has guided the Cowboys into the Super Bowl playoffs the last seven years and the victory Monday night over the Saints put his club in a familiar position—atop the NFC East. Dallas shares first place with St. Louis and the two meet here next Sunday.

"The heat got to us and it didn't get to New Orleans," Landry said. "Bob Lilly got dizzy and almost everybody else felt the same way. We seemed to revive in the second half, though."

Leading 12-3 going into the second half, the Cowboys rattled off three third quarter touchdowns—two of them by fullback Robert Newhouse (on a three-yard run and a two-yard pass from Staubach).

Shortly after Newhouse's second score, Dallas was driving for another touchdown which Staubach started out on a scramble and wound up lying in a heap on the Tartan Turf. Instead of a shoulder injury, which the crowd at first feared, Staubach merely was knocked silly.

"He just took a blow on the top of his head," said Landry of Staubach. "Craig Morton did a great job. He looked sharp and it is not surprising. It's great to have him on the sidelines because with him you know you are not through for the night if Roger goes out."

Morton completed 5-of-7 passes for 73 yards in just over a quarter. Staubach, looking the sharpest he has looked since early in the preseason, completed 10-of-15 for 124 yards. Each threw for a touchdown.

While Landry was picking up his 100th win, New Orleans Coach John North was still looking for his first.

"I don't know what to tell you," said North, whose club has now lost two games by a total of 92 points. "They played for a half. You tell me. I wish I knew. You ask those guys over there taking off their clothes what went wrong."

Sports news in brief

Jets don't want surgery

DR. JAMES A. NICHOLAS, the man the New York Jets entrust with keeping Joe Namath in one piece, is hopeful the star quarterback will not need surgery to repair his injured shoulder. Surgery would finish him for the season while treatment might have him back in eight weeks.

USC LEADS the Pacific Eight statistics in only two categories but they are key ones. The Trojans have averaged 373.0 yards per game total offense and allowed only six points — three per game — on defense.

WILLIE MAYS will be the special guest of honor tonight in a good old-fashioned crying party organized by the New York Mets. It's called "Willie Mays Appreciation night" and it should attract a capacity crowd of 53,000 at Shea Stadium. Mays recently announced his retirement.

BILLIE JEAN KING said Monday she only played Bobby Riggs because of "principle" and reiterated that she does not plan to grant a rematch.

RIGGS, meanwhile, learned he can not use the transplanted London Bridge at Lake Havasu to carryout his promise to jump off a bridge if he lost to King. Mohave County Sheriff Philip Jordan said Riggs would be arrested if he tries to use London Bridge.

BILLY VUKOVICH of Fresno Monday was declared winner of the disputed first 125-mile USAC big car race at the Michigan International Speedway on Sept. 16, taking first place away from Gary Bettenhausen. USAC ruled Vukovich was correct in his contention that he was waved around the pace car during a disputed incident on the 37th lap. At the time, he was penalized one lap.

DON FULLMER, a boxer for 16 years, went back to being a brick mason today after being retired from the ring Monday night. Fullmer, 34, of West Jordan, Utah, finished with a 60-13-4 record after being defeated soundly by Richie Kates in Philadelphia.

FRANCOIS DURR, slowed much of this year by a bout with hepatitis, felt strong enough Monday to continue a string of upsets and capture the singles championship of the $30,000 Houston Virginia Slims Tennis Tournament.

SOME OF THE TOP names in pro tennis take the courts today for opening round matches in the $50,000 Tams International Open Tennis Tournmanet at Niles, Ill.

NORM VAN LIER of the Chicago Bulls professional basketball team is scheduled to appear Wednesday before Judge Frank E. Reed in Beaver, Pa., on a charge of resisting arrest.

MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL attendance has reached an all-time high this season with last weekend's crowds building the season total to 29,287,505, breaking the previous record of 29,193,417 set last year. A record 16 teams have already drawn a million fans.

Mike Pfeil takes lead in derby

Walnut High's Mike Pfeil, who was the recipient of three touchdown passes from Mustang quarterback Lance Parrish, has taken the early lead in the Pomona Valley's Individual Prep Scoring Derby for the 1973 football season.

Pfeil hauled in a 65-yard pass from Parrish early in the second quarter to give Walnut a 12-12 tie with Nogales, and then grabbed a 46-yarder and an eight-yarder in the same quarter to put Walnut ahead to stay.

Alta Loma High's 35-6 victory over Montclair in the season opener last Saturday night has put the Braves on top in the offensive race, while Bonita and Royal Oak shutouts gave the two

COACHING CHANGE—Veteran former Ole Miss coach Johnny Vaught (L) has been rehired to rebuild the University of Mississippi's football "heritage" after head coach Billy R. Kinard (R) was fired.

Classic winner tough to choose

ONTARIO — In contrast to the Olympic Games, it's going to be hard to decide what national flag to unfurl for winning individuals and winning teams in the third annual Champion Spark Plug Motorcycle Classics at Ontario Motor Speedway this weekend.

American Kenny Roberts and Australian Kel Carruthers will be riding for the Japanese-manufactured Yamaha team.

Canadian Yvon DuHamel and American Gary Nixon will be with the Japanese-manufactured Kawasaki team.

Paul Smart, the defending champion from Great Britain, wears Japanese Suzuki colors.

And Dave Aldana, a Mexican-American from Santa Ana, will join Englishman Peter Williams and Mick Grant on British-built Nortons.

Oddly all three Norton riders have made their 1973 reputations in TT (Tourist Trophy events).

Aldana won the 25-lap American Motorcycle Association national TT at Ascot in Gardena last July. It was Norton's first dirt-track national victory in the United States.

Williams rode a Norton Formula 750 road bike to win the Isle of Man's 37-¾ mile course at 109 mph. Grant took second in the Isle of Man race after giving his team its first superbike win at Scarborough, England a year earlier.

Tennis club names Ewart

CLAREMONT — Dave Ewart, a member of one of the pioneer families in the Pomna Valley, has been appointed the membership chairman of the Valley Racquet Club, a tennis center being built on the grounds of the Rodeway Inn.

Ewart, whose great-grandfather founded the family's clothing firm in Pomona in 1908, attended Ganesha High and La Verne College.

"This is the most exciting thing I've ever been associated with," Ewart said. "Tennis is one of the finest family activities and the Pomona Valley needs additional places to play."

Mississippi releases football coach

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — The University of Mississippi fired head football coach Billy R. Kinard and Athletic Director Frank "Bruiser" Kinard, his brother, Monday night and rehired veteran former coach Johnny Vaught to rebuild the school's "distinguished heritage" in football.

University Chancellor Porter L. Fortune Jr. said the changes were effective immediately and were made by the state college board of trustees at his personal request.

"Coach Vaught will have complete authority to reorganize the athletic program as he feels necessary and he will have my personal support in whatever policies he wishes to implement," Fortune said in an early morning statement.

Fortune said the remainder of Billy Kinard's contract would be honored and that Bruiser Kinard had been offered another post at the university.

He said that Vaught, who retired as head football coach three years ago after suffering a mild heart attack, had "received a clean bill of health from his doctor" to return to his old post as well as athletic director.

Fortune said he had asked the athletic committee to approve his recommendation for the Kinard brothers removal because of the necessity "to bring about a unity of effort and purpose."

The Kinards, who assumed their posts in 1971 on the retirement of Vaught and athletic director C.M. "Tad" Smith, who also had suffered a mild heart attack.

Lakers stage intrasquad tilt

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Lakers will stage their annual intrasquad game tonight at the Loyola University gymnasium.

Coach Bill Sharman will split the squad into two teams, then play a regulation game with tipoff slated for 7:30 p.m.

The contest will be open to the public with tickets priced at $2 for adults and $1 for children and can be purchased at the Loyola box office.

Total proceeds will go to the Loyola Scotty McDonald Scholarship Fund.

Studs take slim advantage in Pomona Valley Soccer

CLAREMONT — The Studs took over the lead in the first division of the Pomona Valley Soccer League over the weekend with a 5-3 win over the Buzzards.

The Studs' lead is a very slim one point.

The Monsters kept pace by defeating the Turkeys, 10-0, as the Turkeys have remained scoreless for three games.

The Lambs downed the Pumpkins, 3-1, but the Pumpkins maintained their lead in the second division.

The highest scorers to date in the league are Tony Moro of the Monsters with seven goals and Bart Sullivan of the Buzzards with five.

Bruins eye end of jinx this week

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —A more relaxed UCLA football team took to the practice field Monday after finally putting together its wishbone attack in last weekend's 55-18 rout over Iowa.

The Bruins worked out for two hours in sweats, preparing for Saturday's road game encounter with Michigan State and hoping to end the Bruin jinx of never winning a game in Michigan.

The Bruins have lost three games to Michigan in the past, and one to Michigan State in 1965, avenging that loss with a 14-12 victory over the Spartans in the Rose Bowl.

UCLA Coach Pepper Rodgers singled out senior place kicker Efren Herrera for his standout play in the Iowa game which saw him hit on field goals of 24 and 44 yards and seven straight conversions.

"He was getting extremely high kickoffs which gave our men plenty of time to get down under them," Rodgers said.

Hererra now is the No. 6 all-time Bruin scorer with 123 points and needs only two more points to pass Greg Jones, the 1967-69 tailback, who has 124.

Rodgers said defensive end Fred McNeill, who missed most of the Iowa game with a back injury, will be ready for the Michigan State game.

Former stakes winners run in Derby

POMONA — Brush Cutter and High Protein, already the winners of stakes events at Pomona this year, head a group of eight three-year-olds —five of them winners of added-money events in their careers — set to battle in the Pomona Derby Wednesday.

Added purse money for the mile and one-eighth contest was increased to $20,000, and the gross purse will be $21,725 including a winnr's share of $12,725.

Brush Cutter, a Kentucky-bred colt by Olden Times, carried the silks of George McLaughlin to a one and one-quarter length victory in the six-furlong Foothill Stakes opening day. He was not eligible to the mile and one-sixteenth Derby Trial Stakes last Wednesday, but three times earlier this year he showed that he could successfully carry his speed a mile or longer.

Nels Petersen returns aboard Brush Cutter who will break from the number two post position.

Jerry Lambert again has the mount on Coffee and Spellman's High Protein who led all the way to take the Derby Trial. He set a slow pace in that race, but will probably have to set some fast fractions Wednesday if he goes for the lead.

Making his 1973 Pomona debut in the Derby will be Heers and Littrell's Ocala Boy. Rudy Campas has the mount on the speedy colt who defeated such good sophomores as Expression and Plunk in his last appearance at Del Mar.

C.T.B.A. Marian Stakes winner Sleek and Fleet, the only filly in the field, and Bold Balcony will represent the E. B. Johnston family in the Derby. Bold Balcony, like Ocala Boy, was a stakes winner at Bay Meadows last fall.

Real Decision, Fancy Shirt and Fleet Trader complete the field for the Derby.

Pac-8 Players of Week

Sciarra, Parker gain honors

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— John Sciarra, UCLA's non-starting quarterback, is the Pacific 8 Conference's Offensive Player of the Week and record-setting back Artimus Parker of Southern California is the Defensive Player of the Week.

Sciarra took over for starter Mark Harmon last Saturday and steered the Bruins to a 55-18 rout of Iowa while Parker grabbed off three passes to spark USC to its 22-6 victory over Georgia Tech.

Sciarra ran for two touchdowns, passed for a third and almost broke a punt return for another TD. He rushed for 59 yards and his TD runs covered two and seven yards. His scoring pass covered 46 yards.

"We knew he was an excellent ballplayer," said Iowa Coach Frank Lauterbur after the game, "but we didn't think he was as good a runner as he showed. And believe me, he showed it."

Parker's three interceptions gave him 15 for his career, breaking the USC record of 13 first set by Manuel Laraneta in 1924-26 and later tied by three other Trojans. One of his thefts set up a touchdown and another prevented a Georgia Tech score.

Also receiving support for offensive honors were Washington State quarterback Chuck Peck, Oregon tight end Russ Francis and Washington running back Glenn Bonner while Washington tackle Dave Pear, Oregon tackle Reggie Lewis, WSU safety Eric Johnson and UCLA linebacker Rick Baska received support for defensive honors.

RADIO SHACK PARENT REPORTS HALF-BILLION IN SALES

FORT WORTH, TEX.—Radio Shack's parent company, Tandy Corporation (NYSE), has reported sales of $511,362,633 for fiscal 1973, up 21% over last year, and net income of $19,353,133, up 24%. These results are the highest ever recorded by the company.

Charles D. Tandy, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Tandy Corporation stated: "The fact of one half billion dolars in annual sales, and the earnings progress which has accompanied it, represents a milestone achievment for the management organization of the company.

"Internal growth has dominated this progress for many years," Tandy went on to say, "and should continue to do so through aggressive development by the divisions. We look forward to further good progress in the coming year."

For their fiscal year, ending June 30, 1973, Tandy reported $36,201,966 income before taxes. Earnings per average common share were $1.76 with 11,019,038 average shares outstanding. Last year net sales were $423,248,398, income before taxes amounted to $28,098,068 and net income, $15,636,219. Earnings per average common share were $1.41 with 11,078,445 shares outstanding.

Radio Shack, said to be the nation's largest consumer electronics chain, is the largest single operating division of Tandy Corporation. They presently operate more tha 2,000 stores in all 50 states and Canada, and recently opened their first overseas outlet in Aartselaar, Belgium.

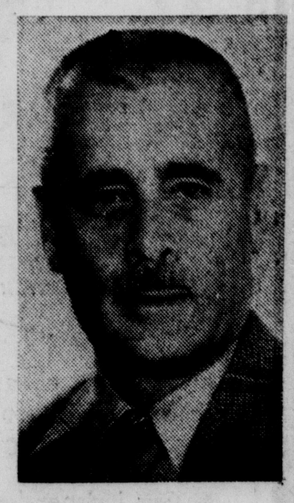
CLAREMONT RESIDENT RECIPIENT OF 1973 COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARD



CLAREMONT — William C. Speer of 722 Santa Barbara Drive, special agent in the Pomona Valley Agency of the Prudential Insurance Co., has been named by the company as a recipient of one of its 1973 Community Service Awards.

Speer is one of tewnty-one Prudential people in the thirteen Western States to be given this honor, according to Frederick A. Schnell, senior vice president in charge of western operations.

"The award represents a salute for an outstanding contribution of time and talent to the community," Schnell says. "It also is designed to encourage others to become involved in meaningful civic endeavors."

The awards are made annually by the company on a national basis. In the western states the competition involved approximately 7,000 employees.

Speer won the award for community service in the local area, working approximately ten hours a week with youth groups in athletics.

He is founder, president and head coach of the Junior All-American football team and is active in Claremont Little League baseball. The coaching function takes up two days a week all year plus games on week-ends. In addition he spends about ten hours a week on administrative duties related to football.

Music school sets orchestra auditions

CLAREMONT — The Claremont Community School of Music is forming a youth string orchestra under the direction of Erica Buxbaum.

Auditions for violin, viola, bass and cello players will be held at St. Ambrose Episcopal Church, Mountain and Bonita avenues, starting at 3:30 p.m. Monday and next Tuesday and Oct. 8 and 9. Audition appointments can be set by calling 624-3012.

Mrs. Buxbaum has been teaching violin, band and orchestra at Palomares Junior High School for four years. She has received regional acclaim for her orchestra program and musicianship.

All stringed instrument players in the Pomona Valley are eligible for the orchestra.

Berry Farm to salute C-W month

BUENA PARK — Knott's Berry Farm will offer "Salute to October: Country Western Month" in the John Wayne Theater Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Headliners will be Hank Thompson Friday and Saturday and Jimmy Wakely Sunday.

Scheduled to perform in following weeks are Billy "Crash" Craddock, Connie Van Dyke, Little Jimmy Dickens and Johnny Rodriguez.

Thompson and his Brazos Valley Boys have been voted country music's number one band 13 times. No other group or performer can come near that record.

Thompson has sold more than 30 million records since he made his first recording back in 1946.

Born in Arkansas and raised in Oklahoma, Wakely was first discovered by Gene Autry. He went to Hollywood and became popular on Autry's CBS radio show, Melody Ranch.

Parts in more than 30 westerns followed as did hit songs like "One Has My Name," "Beautiful Brown Eyes," "Cattle Call," "My Heart Cries for You" and "Wedding Bells."

Light Opera to audition for 'Flower Drum Song'

SAN BERNARDINO — The San Bernardino Civic Light Opera will hold auditions for "Flower Drum Song" at Arrowview Junior High School, Highland Avenue and G Street, Wednesday night.

Jack Bunch, choreographer-director, will direct the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical hit, which will play Nov. 9 through Nov. 17 at the California Theater of Performing Arts, San Bernardino.

Children, 7 through 14 years of age, of Oriental, Mexican-American, or Indian descent, will be auditioned at 7:15 p.m., and dancers will be auditioned at 7:30 p.m.

Those auditioning for singing or speaking roles must call the Civic Light Opera box office, 882-2545, for an appointment. Singers must bring their own music. The association's accompanist will be present.

Class in Hatha Yoga scheduled

CLAREMONT — A 12-session course in Hatha Yoga will be offered by the Blaisdell Institute beginning Oct. 8.

The fee is $20 and registration is currently under way weekday mornings at the Blaisdell office, 145 E. 10th St.

Pomona drill team now seeking sponsor

The group, organized three years ago as a community undertaking, has represented Pomona in parades and other events from San Bernardino to the Hollywood Bowl, performed at schools and hospitals, and been featured on Eye Witness News on television.

Future appearances will be made at the Hire-the-Handicapped Parade in San Bernardino, Silverado Days in Buena Park, Liberty Parade in Lynwood and the El Monte Christmas Parade.

Sponsors are needed to help defray the costs of transportation and of uniforms ($35).

The Soul Steppers are now accepting new members, girls for the drill team and boys for the drum corps, ages 13-17.

Further information can be obtained from Mrs. Lillie Louis from 5 to 9 p.m. at 621-1632, or from M. H. Kincade from 3 to 10 p.m. at 623-0063.

Art group schedules instructor

CHINO Darwin Duncan, fine arts instructor at Orange Coast College, will give a demonstration of landscape painting at the meeting of the Chino Art Association at the Lamplighter Mobile Home recreation room at 7:30 tonight.

Duncan, noted for his "on location" classes, stresses organization of subject matter, rearranging elements of nature into an orderly pattern.

Spokane will try again for Expo '74 loan

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — The City of Spokane has decided to try once again to get an Economic Development Administration loan to help in completion of Expo '74.

Last month the EDA turned down the city's request for a $3.8 million grant, saying it was dissatisfied with the planned residual uses the city had for buildings constructed with the money for the world environmental fair.

Cal State sets tryouts for chorus

SAN BERNARDINO —The Choral Society of Cal State San Bernardino will hold auditions at its first rehearsal in the Fine Arts Building at 7 p.m. Monday.

The auditions are open to the public as well as to faculty members and students. The first concert will be Mozart's Requiem. Loren Filbeck directs.

Algerians call foreigners "roumi," an old word for Roman, according to the National Geographic. It goes back to the days when Rome ruled North Africa.

Soaking Dog's Foot Needs Thermometer

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Are weak nails a common problem with older dogs? Duchess, now ten, is bothered by broken nails a good deal. In the old days she used to have beautiful nails. — C. D.

Dear C. M.: At around three years of age, Duchess probably had nails that were almost twice as strong as they are now. They will bother her less at this age if they are kept trimmed back as short as possible. Unfortunately, with age, the nerves and blood vessels in the toenails tend to creep toward the ends. Consequently, most older canines can't have as short a nail trim as they could when younger. Those whose nails have been kept up through the years — kept trimmed, that is — will be bothered neither with the extra long nails nor with the breaking problem.

Fall Housecleaning— For the birds?

Yes, indeed it could be for cats and dogs and other pets, too. Actually, an excellent time to clean (if you are REALLY going to do it anyway) is before the furnace gets into heavy use and the windows are closed most of the time. The first hot blasts of the fall furnace season tend to stir up household irritants be they pollens or other irritating substances which may have sifted in from outdoors — or simply house dust (and house dust mites), any or all of which can cause allergic reaction in pets.

Fall allergens are certainly a factor in the skin diseases so common in dogs and cats at this time of the year. These allergens also may trigger respiratory problems, sinusitis, for example. OR they may delay or prevent healing of some respiratory infections. As the animal spends an increasing percentage of his time in the low-humidity environment of a heated house, the mucous membrane of the respiratory tract (and the skin, too, for that matter) are debilitated not only by the possible allergens but by the continuous dehydrating effect of this dry air. During this critical fall period, the higher the animal's resistance generally, the less susceptible it will be to these undersirable effects.

Obviously, a cleanup campaign to cut down as much as possible on potential airborne irritants can be worthwhile. Animals actually developing allergic reactions will show varying degrees of response to medication depending in part on the amount of allergens they are continually exposed to.

Aqua pura

Hydrologists of the U.S. Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, estimated that the total amount of water in existence—in the world's oceans, ice fields, lakes, rivers, soils, rocks and atmosphere — amounts to about 326 million cubic miles. Less than one percent of this huge supply is directly available to man as fresh water.

Increase in logging recommended

WASHINGTON (UPI) A Presidential panel recommended Monday substantial increases in logging —including the controversial "clearcutting" — on government lands.

At the same time, the group said President Nixon should negotiate to slow down Japan's massive timber buying from the United States.

The panel, appointed in September, 1971, to review timber needs, issued a 541-page report calling on Nixon to issue a statement or proclamation emphasizing "the opportunities to improve substantially the productivity and the value of the nation's forest resources...and emphasizing that forest resources are to be cherished, nurtured and used."

The study said: "Annual harvest on lands available for commercial timber production on western national forests can be increased substantially. Analysis based upon nationwide forest inventory data indicates possibilities for increasing the old growth cutting rate in the range of 50 to 100 per cent."

The panel said that all proven methods of logging, including clearcutting, should continue in use "under appropriate conditions."

Clearcutting is a practice, widely criticized by conservationists, of logging sometimes whole mountainsides of timber at one time rather than cutting on a selective basis.

Noting that log exports to feed Japan's home building industry had driven up the price of timber, the panel said: "Until some of the recommendations herein for increasing timber supplies can be implemented, the executive branch (should) negotiate with Japan to reduce the disruptive log buying activities in the northwest."

Youths run up $100,000 in phone calls

HAUPPAUGE, N.Y. (UPI) —Four New York youths made "free" overseas calls from a college phone for two months to such places as Shanghai, Moscow and a guard shack at Buckingham Palace, asking strangers in foreign lands "How are you?" "What's going on there?" and "How's the weather?"

Police said the four placed $100,000 worth of calls before they were caught in a weekend raid.

The callers fooled the telephone company's computerized billing system by using electronic devices to simulate long distance switching codes or the sound of coins dropping in pay phones.

They were arrested in the biology building at the State University at Stony Brook by detectives and members of the security division of the New York Telephone Co. and charged with third degree burglary. Police released them on their own recognizance.

Officers said the investigation began on a tip two months ago.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Make no new agreements or alliances with persons of whom you are skeptical. Deal only with those whose standards equal yours.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Avoid co-workers who do not pull their share of the load. A slacker will irritate you. Angry words will result.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Commercial tips received through social contacts are likely to be a big bust regardless of how tantalizing.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your attitude toward the family will cause some problems that could be avoided. Grit your teeth. Strive for tolerance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You will be very difficult to please today. You'll look for others' faults rather than their virtues.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Before you involve yourself in something with a friend moneywise, be sure the deal is fair for both parties.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's not a good time to make important changes. You may jump from the frying pan into the fire.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Extra responsibilities will weigh you down today. Before moving to the new, clear up past matters.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You could be unwittingly involved in something with an acquaintance whose morals are questionable. Be on guard.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You will have to work very hard today to win approval. Be sure your motives are above reproach.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You had a past experience that didn't work out well. Today, though forewarned, you're likely to repeat the mistake.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you're thinking of a little clandestine adventure, think also of the consequences. You are sure to be caught.

Perseverance will be required this year if important goals are to be obtained. They are reachable. Once you set a course — stick it out.

Merger of air reserve, guard urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate approved legislation recently calling for study of a possible merger by the Air Force Reserve and the Air National Guard.

The measure was approved as an amendment to the defense procurement bill by voice vote after Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger had no objection.

Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., who sponsored the amendment, said he was not sure whether a merger was feasible, but "I believe it may be that we have come to the point where we can no longer afford the luxury of two effective and efficient organizations if it can be shown that one organization can be even more effective and efficient."

Modifications of Blackwood

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The first major modifiction of Blackwood was probably worked out by the Italian blue team. They used five clubs to show zero or three aces; five diamonds to show one or four, while five hearts and five spades each showed two aces, but with special meaning as to which were shown.

A few years ago Mike Lawrence and Bobby Goldman improved on this by having the five-heart reply show two aces and a hand the player is unhappy with; five spades to show two aces and a hand the player is happy with.

North doesn't hold even one king but he has just about a maximum raise of his partner's one-spade response to two spades.

He certainly hopes that his partner will find another bid and is surprised and delighted when the further bid takes the form of a Blackwood four no-trump.

He replies with five spades. South knows that North holds the two missing aces and that his hand looks good to him. South wastes no time checking on kings. He just bids the grand slam and has no trouble making it.

AT&T bares new system

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —One of five stations in a nationwide domestic satellite system to be operated by American Telephone and Telegraph Co. will be built on a 45-acre site east of Camp Pendleton, Pacific Telephone officials have announced.

The $9 million satellite communications station to be known as the De Luz earth station, and the other four, at Three Peaks, Calif., Hawley, Pa., Hanover Park, Ill., and Woddbury, Ga., will link three communications satellites to the Bell System network, officials said.

The cost of the entire system, which will carry telephone conversations, data information and other related messages from the satellites to the ground, has been estimated at $70 million.

Throat itches--- she uses fork to scratch it

ABERDOVEY, Wales (UPI) —Something was tickling her throat so waitress Fay Yearsley tried to scratch it with a dinner fork. She swallowed the fork.

All she has to show for it is an eight-inch scar across her stomach where doctors operated. They wouldn't even let her have the fork as a souvenir.

"The surgeon wanted it for his private museum," she said. "He said he was frightened I might swallow it again."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The custom of clothing baby boys in blue began because of a belief that evil spirits which would harm a male child could be kept powerless by blue, which was thought to have divine powers, The World Almanac says. Girl babies were not given a "protective" color because they were considered inferior and evil spirits would not take interest in them.

The doctor comments

Caffeine only one factor in life span

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I was particularly interested in your remarks regarding caffeine in relation to coffee. You do not mention tea, and I am wondering if there is not as much, or even more, caffeine in tea as there is in coffee.

My mother and father were English and both heavy tea drinkers and lived to over 80. What does this signify if anything?

Dear Reader — The age span of your parents indicates that there's a lot more to longevity than drinking tea, and it begins with inherited factors. Don't count, however, on heredity determining one's lifespan, because there are so many other factors, such as those that contribute to fatty deposits in the arteries (atherosclerosis), common in our society today that the heredity factors play little, if any role in group statistics on longevity.

Tea certainly does contain caffeine, and the caffeine in tea behaves exactly like caffeine from any other source, including that of coffee. The only difference and this has to be a generalization, is the way in which coffee and tea are brewed. It is commonly said that a cup of tea has about half as much caffeine in it as a cup of coffee. This means if you're used to drinking five cups of coffee a day, to get the same amount of caffeine from tea drinking, you'd have to drink 10 cups of tea. Of course, this depends on how strong your brew your tea, and how strong or weak you brew your coffee.

Incidentally, the tea leaves originally contain much more caffeine than does the coffee bean. It's the way in which it's brewed and processed that makes the final difference.

It's important to remember than when you talk about habits or specific findings, such as coffee drinking, smoking, physical activity or diet, that in each instance each one of these is only one of many factors that influence what happens to your health and longevity.

There are individuals who have greater resistance to disease than others, just as some people are susceptible to colds and others are not. It requires careful statistical analysis of groups of individuals to really gain an impression of what the difference environmental factors in life styles and habits do in terms of increasing the likelihood and risk of health problems.

If you were to take a group of individuals who were overweight and had high cholesterol levels, you would find that they have a much higher rate of heart and vascular disease than a comparable group of individuals who are of normal weight and had low cholesterol levels, but this does not mean that you could tell each and every individual in the overweight group, for example, that he was going to have a heart attack, nor could you tell everyone in the thin group with low cholesterol levels that they were not going to have one. All you can do is express the increased or decreased likelihood, as the case may be.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of the Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on cholesterol, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Cholesterol" booklet.

Police in frantic search for unstable dynamite

Skylab crew nearing end of record flight

HOUSTON (UPI) —The Skylab 2 astronauts closed their big home in space today to end man's longest spaceflight with a late afternoon splashdown in the Pacific Ocean.

Splashdown was set for 3:20 p.m. (PDT) for Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma after 59 days, 11 hours and 9 minutes and 24.4 million miles orbiting earth.

The pilots carried aboard their ferry ship a treasure of information about the earth and sun. Space officials were confident they had opened the way for voyages lasting a year or longer.

The astronauts sealed the main hatch to Skylab at 7:25 a.m. (PDT) and strapped themselves in the Apollo command module they flew up to the orbiting station July 28. They prepared to undock from Skylab five hours later and start their return to earth.

The USS New Orleans was on station 224 miles southwest of San Diego. Helicopters and an experienced team of frogmen were ready to pluck the pilots and their Apollo ferry craft from the rolling seas beneath partly cloudy skies.

Hurricane Irah, heading toward the tip of Baja California with sustained winds of 105 miles an hour, was about 700 miles from the splashdown point. Forecaster Les Jordan said it posed no threat to the astronauts if the Apollo is on target.

"What kind of seas do we have in the recovery site," Bean asked.

"Five foot seas, right now," replied ground communicator Bruce McCandless.

"Not bad," said Bean.

Cache hidden in garage in Isla Vista

SANTA BARBARA (UPI) — Authorities hunted today for a cache of dynamite, enough to demolish a city block, that has apparently deteriorated into a dangerous state while hidden in a garage in the university community of Isla Vista.

The search was revealed Monday night by Sheriff John Carpenter, who made a public appeal for help from citizens in locating the garage.

The Sheriff's Department has been looking for the garage since Saturday, Carpenter said.

An individual, whose identity is unknown, turned over two sticks of dynamite to an undercover deputy, saying he bought them at a garage in Isla Vista.

He told the undercover officer he had seen 12 cases of dynamite, six cases of hand grenades and other explosives in the garage, Carpenter said.

"An explosion of this quantity of dynamite can completely destroy the garage, and cause death within a one square block area," the sheriff said.

The two sticks given the undercover officer were found to be in a "deteriorating and consequently unstable condition," he said, and so officers believe the entire cache is old and dangerous.

It could explode from heat or pressure, Carpenter warned. Although fresh dynamite must be fused and detonated to explode, old dynamite undergoes a chemical breakdown and becomes more volatile with age.

Carpenter pleaded for help from Isla Vista residents for information on the location of the garage.

"Above all, do not try to move the dynamite," he warned.

The University of California at Santa Barbara is located at Isla Vista. The neighborhood was the scene of two major riots in 1970 and 1971, battles between police and activist students that included the burning of a branch of the Bank of America and hundreds of arrests.

SOUTHLAND GAS STATION SHUTDOWN?

Commodore Reid, left, president of the Gasoline Retailers of Southern California, announces at a press conference in Los Angeles Monday that some 200 member service stations plan to shut down in protest to "Phase IV" gasoline rollbacks for four days, starting Friday. Stan Arnold, an attorney for the group, is at right. Group also is mulling class action suit against Cost of Living Council.

Point guns at each other

Pharmacist, bandit grapple in one of two area robberies

Rexall drug stores were robbed in Pomona and Claremont at almost the same time Monday night, police reported.

In Claremont, pharmacist Paul Giddings, 45, scuffled with the robber after arming himself, but the bandit got away with about $600 and Giddings' own weapon, a .38-caliber revolver.

Giddings was in the prescription department when the man pushed his way inside shortly after 8 p.m. Giddings had been counting the day's receipts and had armed himself after becoming suspicious of the man. Both men pointed pistols at each other and then scuffled. During the scuffle the robber wrested away Giddings' gun and placed it in a sack with the money. That holdup occurred at Key Rexall Drugs, 320 S. Indian Hill Blvd.

At K & S Owl Rexall Drugs, 1635 W. Holt Ave., Pomona, Eileen Alders, 54, was forced to surrender money from the cash register when a man pulled a pistol and threatened her at 8 p.m. The gunman got only $35.

In the Claremont robbery, the gunman was described as white, about 45 years old, 6-feet tall, weighing 200 pounds. He wore a green nylon windbreaker, light brown trousers and had black hair.

In the Pomona holdup, the robber was described as a Negro, 5-feet-11, weighing 190 pounds. He wore a blue knit cap, black pullover sweater and black trousers.

Small cigar ads on TV banned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cigarette shaped cigars will no longer be advertised on television or radio under legislation signed by President Nixon Saturday.

The bill amended the 1965 Cigarette Labeling and Advertising Act, to include banning commercials for little cigars, judged by the Public Health Service to be as dangerous as cigarettes if the smoke is inhaled.

The legislation bans broadcast advertising of any roll of tobacco wrapped in leaf tobacco or any substance containing other than cigarette tobacco which weighs not more than three pounds per thousand units.

Fire on Saratoga

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (UPI) — Firefighters have contained a four-hour blaze that broke out between the flight and hangar decks of the aircraft carrier USS Saratoga.

Southland gasoline station shutdown not expected to affect Pomona Valley

The Pomona Valley will probably not be affected by the shutdown planned by the Gasoline Retailers Association of Southern California this weekend.

In telephone interviews today, several dealers throughout the Valley told the Progres-Bulletin they had not been contacted by anyone concerning the shutdown, and that they would not close if no word is forthcoming.

However ,most of the service station owners admitted they would support the protest by closing, if the majority of their colleagues in the area did so.

The planned shutdown was announced Monday in Los Angeles at a press conference by Commodore Reid, president of the retailers' association.

Reid said that some 200 member service stations will close, beginning Friday for four days. The action is being taken as a protest to the recent Phase IV gasoline rollbacks.

A similar move was tried last weekend in the Los Angeles area, but was not very successful.

Many gas station operators in California and New York stayed closed Monday to protest the government's Phase 4 price freeze. In Washington, President Nixon asked the Cost of Living Council to deliver a quick decision on whether to lift the freeze.

"Both the President and (Cost of Living Council Director John) Dunlop want to clear up this situation as soon as possible," said White House spokesman Gerald Warren. "They want to clear up any confusion that might exist in the minds of the dealers."

The California State Automobile Association said 75 per cent of the filling stations in Northern California were closed Monday. They were to open for limited hours the rest of this week. As many as 90 per cent were closed during the weekend in the most successful of such mass closings so far.

The protest was organized by the California Service Station Dealers Association, whose executive secretary, Bob Moore of San Rafael, called the membership response "tremendously."

"We're really sorry to inconvenience the public," he said, "but we're caught in a squeeze. We figured the response would be good, but this is tremendous."

In Syracuse, N.Y., 65 Mobil dealers locked their pumps Monday to protest a one-cent-a-gallon price increase they are not allowed to pass on to their customers. A spokesman for gasoline dealers in Auburn, N.Y., said all major brand stations were shut down.

An auto supply store operator in Indianapolis said concern about future boycotts has led to a rush on locking gas tank caps. A major producer of the caps in Connersville, Ind., said the demand has been so great that there are nearly 30,000 back orders on file.

Just 10 hours before court hearing

Boyle slips into deep coma after possible stroke

WASHINGTON (UPI) — W. A. "Tony" Boyle suffered a possible stroke and slipped into a deep coma late Monday night, 10 hours before he was to appear at a court hearing related to a murder charge against him.

The 71-year-old former president of the United Mine Workers union was formally listed in critical condition by doctors at George Washington University Hospital. Other sources said his condition was grave and his chances of surviving were 'less than 50-50."

Boyle, facing multiple charges in the 1969 New Year's Eve slaying of Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, an insurgent rival of the UMW presidency, was stricken at his home in northwest Washington and taken to the hospital at 11:30 p.m. EDT Monday.

He was unconscious when admitted to the hospital and at 9:30 a.m. today, the time he had been scheduled to appear in court, the hospital said he was "in a deep coma" and his condition was described as critical. This is the lowest level used by the hospital to describe a patient's condition before death.

The 9:30 a.m. report said Boyle had shown no improvement since being admitted.

A hospital spokesman said Boyle's "life system" was supported by mechanical devices. He was under constant attention of doctors in the hospital's intensive care unit. His vital signs were described as "not stable."

A stroke was immediately suspected when Boyle was rushed by ambulance to the hospital.

At mid-morning, the doctors had not specified the nature of the illness. Boyle's personal physician, Dr. Milton Gusack, told a reporter Boyle had a history of heart trouble. Gusack would not comment further.

Postmaster asks across-the-board stamp rate hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen says that unless he is overruled an eight cent stamp will cost ten cents beginning Jan. 5.

Klassen was formally presenting proposed across-the-board postal rate increases today to the Postal Rate Commission, a five-member advisory body appointed by the President.

The commission will make its recommendation to the Board of Governors of the U.S. Postal Service, which has the final say, provided the administration's Cost of Living Council does not object.

In a National Press Club speech Monday, Klassen said the postal service is "under severe inflationary pressures" like many other enterprises. "The cost-price squeeze has affected us just as much as it has affected the entire economy," he said.

As to the Cost of Living Council, which rules on price and wage increases throughout the economy, Klassen said: "I trust they will see the light."

The rate increases for all classes of mail would amount to $2.1 billion a year.

Air mail would go from 11 to 13 cents. There would also be increases averaging about 38 per cent for second class mail, 25 per cent for third class and 6 per cent for fourth class parcel post.

Report from America

A nice place to grow up—but not to visit

By JACK V. FOX

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (UPI) — Thomas Wolfe was not quite right. You can go home again. But don't.

Not if home is a small town in the Middle West that time has passed by. Not if you don't want a sad sense of loss and a heartache remembering things the way they used to be.

A few weeks ago my wife and I drove across the Missouri River bridge from Atchison, Kans., and suddenly there were the scenes of a summer romance of long ago—Sugar Lake and Bean Lake.

Once there was a dance pavilion on the shore of Bean Lake. On a sweltering July night with the moon shimmering on the still surface, the strains of "Sophisticated Lady" and "Stardust" would waft to the opposite side.

It was Lake Lucerne and Lake Louise and the harbor at Monte Carlo all wrapped in one. Now it was two muddy ponds, so unbelievably small, choked with water lily pads. The pavilion was gone.

We drove in a sodden rain north up the highway to St. Joe. On the outskirts is a sign that reads: "St. Joseph, Pop. 70,345."

St. Joe had a population of 70,000 when I left in the summer of 1940. A great many young men went away because the town had little to offer a depression generation except for the sons of the bankers, grain mill operators and scattering of manufacturers who were its elite.

Suddenly we were "downtown" and it looked old, so old, and worn out and small but, most of all, two of every three shops were boarded or torn down, with holes like gaping teeth.

As it has to so many towns, the federal highway system has drawn business to the shopping centers on the outskirts leaving only decay.

We had lunch in the Pony Express bar of the Hotel Robidoux, named after the city's founder, a French fur trader named Joseph Robidoux.

The hotel was once the hub of social life. At Christmas, girls in long gowns with gardenia corsages and gawky boys in rented tuxes traipsed the marble stairs to the ballroom to dance cheek to cheek while a revolving, mirrored globe made the waxed floor a kaleidoscope of colors.

That day it was musty and dingy and the only people in the lobby were a few traveling salesmen. A block away is the Corby-Forcey building, still the highest in town, 14 stories. On one of its windows is a gilt sign: "Dr. Cronkite, Dentist."

Dr. Cronkite is the father of Walter Cronkite. I asked the waitress if Dr. Cronkite still was practicing. She said she didn't know.

(Dr. Cronkite died several months before).

We drove out past Central High School to Interstate 29 where, with a tank fillup, you can go through the authentic house where Jesse James was shot. The bullet hole is still in the wall.

My dad was born on a farm outside St. Joe and lived there all his life. He was a bookkeeper at the Swift Packing Company. He once had an offer to move to Chicago but turned it down. He had a good life.

I wondered what might have happened if I had stayed. I didn't wonder long, though. I filled the tank and headed for California.

St. Joe was a great place to grow up and live in, but I don't want to visit there again.

Indian claims Old World

Chippewa is a reverse Columbus

ROME (UPI) —A Chippewa Indian named Lucky Eagle stepped from a streamlined jumbo jet, stuck his spear into the airport asphalt and hailed himself as the discoverer of Italy.

Lucky Eagle—the Chippewa name of Adam Nordwall, 44, of San Francisco—landed at Leonardo da Vinci international airport Monday in tribal feathered headress for his selfproclaimed role as a Columbus in reverse.

"I don't see anywhere that Italy has been discovered," Nordwall said. "If Christopher Columbus could claim he had discovered America even though Indians had been living there for thousands of years, I cannot see why I cannot do the same for Italy."

Nordwall, who teaches sociology at California State University in Hayward and operates a rat and cockroach extermination service on the side, was on his way to attend an international conference on World Futures Research in Rome.

"Who better to discover Italy than an American Indian?" he asked on landing with his wife, a member of the Shoshone tribe.

Nordwall, who also has a television show back home called "The First Americans," said one of his first acts as the new Columbus would be to establish an agency like the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs.

He said a good title would be the Bureau of Italian Affairs and Gina Lollobrigida had a good chance of getting appointed to head it.

Nordwall, chairman of the United Bay Area Council of American Indian Affairs, said before leaving San Francisco he wanted his stunt taken seriously despite the tongue-in-cheek approach.

"There's something wrong with a society that fails to recognize the rights of other societies to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, which, of course, are the foundations of U.S. civil rights," he said.

Even as Caesar marched into Gaul (now called France) and declared, "I came, I saw, I conquered," so Chippewa Lucky Eagle — San Franciscan Ken Nordwall — landed in Rome Monday and declared himself discoverer of Italy. He said if Columbus could do it with America, where Indians lived, why couldn't an Indian do it with Italy? So, he did.

Demo 'double agent' tipped police—Hunt

WASHINGTON (UPI) — E. Howard Hunt testified today he suspects the Watergate burglars got caught because their lookout had "intimate ties" to the Democratic party and might have served as a "double agent" to tip off local police.

Hunt, who pleaded guilty to charges of helping plan the break-in, appeared for a second day at the newly resumed nationally televised Senate hearings on the scandal. Hunt said he believes Alfred C. Baldwin could have led police to the Democratic National Committee's Watergate headquarters June 17, 1972 where five men were arrested.

He also testified that former presidential special counsel Charles W. Colson had directed him to fly to Milwaukee shortly after the assassination attempt on Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama in May, 1972, to search the apartment of Arthur Bremer, the man convicted of gunning down Wallace in a Maryland shopping center.

"I argued against it, and I subsequently heard from Mr. Colson's secretary that this was no longer required," said Hunt, who worked on clandestine White House projects under Colson's direction after retiring from the CIA.

Hunt was asked by Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., if he felt that the arrests at the Watergate were the result of a "double agent operation."

"The series of events of that night, taken in their totality, Sen. Gurney, have suggested to me for many months that we might have been —as it were — entrapped by information having been provided beforehand to local law enforcement authorities by a member of our unit," Hunt replied.

"Who do you think that was?" Gurney asked.

"I would have to indicate that most likely subject was Mr. Alfred Baldwin," Hunt said.

In response to questioning, Hunt said: "It developed subsequently that Mr. Baldwin had rather intimate ties with the Democratic Party in Connecticut...He was the nephew of a Democratic judge; he at least at one point in time represented himself as being the nephew of John Bailey, the former Democratic chairman...I understand that Mr. Baldwin had a girl friend who worked at Democratic headquarters."

An ex-FBI agent, Baldwin was hired by James W. McCord Jr. to do "security work" for the Nixon campaign last year. He was assigned to man a listening post set up in a hotel across the street from the Watergate to monitor telephone taps installed at Democratic headquarters during a May, 1972, break-in and to be the lookout when a second entry was made June 17, 1972.

Baldwin turned state's evidence and was a prosecution witness at the trial of McCord, Hunt and five other bugging conspirators in January. He has never been charged with any crime for his role in the plot.

Hunt said he suspected Baldwin because McCord, who was security chief for the Nixon campaign at the time, had hired him solely as the result of a help-wanted ad in a publication of former FBI agents.

Among other reasons for his suspicions, Hunt cited:

—The "lingering presence" of Washington police in the Watergate area the night of June 17 two hours after their shift normally would have ended.

—Baldwin's failure to alert the bugging team by walkie-talkie when police arrived at the Watergate building.

—Baldwin's action in picking up all the electronic eavesdropping gear and delivering it to McCord's home after the arrests even though Hunt said he ordered Baldwin to take it "anywhere but McCord's home."

Baldwin testified before the Senate committee in May and said the bugging team had disregarded his warnings of possible danger and that Hunt had ordered him to take all the bugging equipment to McCord's home.

Administration hits Congress before IMF

NAIROBI (UPI) — U.S. Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, under pressure from poorer nations to renew American pledges to international aid programs, said today the problem lies with Congress—not the Nixon administration.

Shultz told the annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and the World Bank that the administration will ask Congress to approve $4.5 billion in U.S. contributions over the next three years to the International Development Association (IDA), the World Bank's branch for low-interest loans.

But he warned that "I cannot say with any certanty how long our consultative and legislative process will take or certify its outcome."

World Bank President Robert S. McNamara told IMF delegates Monday that unless the United States makes its commitment by next June 30, IDA may die.

Shultz' chief aide, Paul Volcker, underlined the administration attitude by telling newsmen, "you never can be sure what Congress will do."

The United States currently provides about 40 per cent of the budget for IDA, which specializes in loans to the world's poorest nations. But Washington is more than a year behind in its payments, wants to cut its contribution to 33 per cent and, until Shultz' speech today, had refused to say whether the administration would recommend a so-called "replenishment" of IDA funds.

Shultz took a hard line generally toward nations that receive aid. The United States "finds it difficult to understand," he said, that it should give government aid to nations that reject private investment and "does not find it reasonable" that nations that confiscate foreign property on their soil should expect any U.S. aid.

France and West Germany moved in to take up some of the IDA slack from the United States. French Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing said France would increase its contributions by two-thirds. West German Finance Minister Helmut Schmidt said Bonn's total share of IDA contributions would go up from 9.7 to 11.4 per cent.

At a news conference, Shultz confirmed reports by financial sources that the United States will not join in a new world monetary system until its balance of payments returns to surplus. But he added that he expected this to happen before the new system is ready—hence the American agreement to overhaul the international financial structure by July 31, 1974.

Agnew views on impeachment to be explained

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Court papers to be filed later this week will spell out Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's position on whether a vice president must be impeached before he can be indicted on criminal charges, according to one of Agnew's lawyers.

When asked Monday by UPI about Agnew's stance on the subject, attorney Judah Best said: "That would be a comment in the papers."

Best said the papers would be filed in U.S. District Court in Baltimore sometime this week. They will urge the court to block an investigation of Agnew on charges of extortion, bribery, tax evasion and conspiracy in connection with an alleged political kickback scheme in Maryland.

Agnew was notified Aug. 1 that he was under investigation by the government for allegedly accepting kickbacks from state contractors. The probe extends back to the years when Agnew was Baltimore County executive and Maryland governor before he became vice president in 1969.

Agnew's lawyers have reportedly claimed that their client is not subject to criminal prosecution because of his office but could only be impeached by Congress. But would not confirm the reports Monday and gave no indication what position the court papers would take.

The Washington Star-News quoted "reliable sources" Monday as saying multi-millionaire land investor Joel Kline has told federal prosecutors investigating the alleged kickbacks that he funneled as much as $100,000 in cash to Agnew and other Maryland political figures.

The newspaper said Kline, a Chevy Chase, Md., businessman, admitted being a "conduit" for the money.

The newspaper said it could not determine how much of the $100,000 Agnew received, whether he obtained it before or after becoming vice president, or whether Kline gave the money to Agnew and others as political contributions.

UAW seeks quick finish to contract talks with Ford

DETROIT (UPI) —With both sides sparring over the negotiation timetable, Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers started talks Monday on a new three-year contract to cover 170,000 union members employed across the country.

Ford declined to set a date for its presentation of contract proposals to the union. The UAW said it would set a strike deadline if and when the negotiations appeared to go too slow.

The two sides met on the same day that assembly lines began rolling again at Chrysler Corp. after a nine-day UAW strike ordered when contract talks there failed.

Chrysler and the UAW reached settlement after only 63 hours of the strike and rank and file union members voted overwhelmingly over the weekend to accept it.

The UAW contracts expired at Ford, Chrysler and GM at 11:59 p.m. EDT, Sept. 14. Only Chrysler, this year's strike "target," was struck at that time. The union is using the Chrysler agreement as a pattern for negotiations at Ford and GM.

As he entered the bargaining room, UAW vice president Ken Bannon said the union wanted more from Ford, the second largest member of the "Big Three" automakers, than it gained from Chrysler.

For one thing Bannon said, the UAW wants mandatory overtime completely abolished at Ford. In its contract with Chrysler, the company retained the right to compel workers to clock as many as 14 overtime hours a week.

U.S. eyes fuel allocation

State governments act to reduce energy requirements

By United Press International

While the federal government considered allocation of fuel, some states reduced usage on their own Monday.

In California, Gov. Ronald Reagan ordered state buildings to turn off heat, air conditioning and lights on weekends and holidays. Lights also are to be turned down in hallways.

Oregon Gov. Tom McCall ordered outdoor lighting turned off unless it is needed for security. McCall made his announcement at the Western Governors Conference in Glenenden Beach, Ore., where the fuel situation was a prime subject.

John Love, former Colorado governor who is a special adviser on energy to President Nixon, told the governors the administration is considering fuel oil controls but has made no decision.

A mandatory program would work if there is excess supply, "but production and imports are falling behind demand," Love said.

A more likely solution would be to dampen demand, Love said.

Love called for a crash program, such as was used to develop the atomic bomb in World War II, to solve the energy crisis. Such an approach would bring "the proper sense of urgency" to the effort, Love said.

Love's prediction for the winter was a very tight supply of heating and diesel oil.

The Washington state legislature gave Gov. Dan Evans authority to order mandatory cuts in electricity use if voluntary cutbacks by business and consumers do not work.

Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis of Maine ordered a study to find out how much gas would be saved and how highway safety would be improved by lowering the speed limit. Curtis also announced he was reinstituting an ad hoc energy committee used last year to keep tabs on the heating situation.

Archie Smith, Rhode Island public utilities commissioner, requested heating oil retailers to submit lists of their reserves and not add any customers without prior approval.

In Pittsburgh, Allegheny County Commission Chairman Thomas J. Foerster told department heads to reduce travel mileage by people on county business. He also advised those who drive for the county to limit their speeds and have their cars tuned. Foerster said he expected Allegheny County to have 100,000 gallons less gasoline than last year.

Freed after 50 years for murder

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Salvatore Frisella, 84, who was committed to a state mental institution at Jackson, La., in December 1923, three months after he was charged with stomping a man to death, was freed Monday.

George Bishop, a Jackson medical officer, recently issued an evaluation to the courts which said Frisella would not be a hazard to himself, his family or society if he were released.

Judge Jerome Winsberg had the option of having Frisella stand trial for the 50-year-old murder, but he decided instead to allow him to return to his family.

Grounded spaceman has high hopes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former astronaut John Glenn has given $450 and lent $10,000 to a "Citizens for John Glenn Committee" which is pushing his candidacy for the 1976 Democratic Senate nomination in Ohio, Senate records show.

Reports filed with the secretary of the Senate show both transactions taking place on Aug. 22.

Glenn lost a similar primary bid in 1970 to Cleveland industrialist Howard Metzenbaum.

'Contract' out on Richard Speck

CRICAGO (UPI) —Illinois prison officials said Monday an inmate told them he was hired for $5,000 to kill Richard Speck, convicted murderer of eight Chicago nurses.

"He said he was hired to kill Richard Speck, but he wouldn't say by whom," a corrections department spokeswoman said.

Speck, 31, an itinerant seaman, was convicted of the 1966 mass murder of eight student nurses in their Chicago dormitory. He originally was sentenced to die in the electric chair but was resentenced to a 400-1,200-year sentence after a U.S. Supreme Court decision in 1972 voided the death sentence.

Cleaver sued for attorney's fees

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Former Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver, 37, is being sued for $24,464 by attorney Beverly Axelrod, who filed suit in Monday saying he owed her the money plus interest for his book "Soul on Ice."

Mrs. Axelrod also named the publisher, McGraw-Hill Book Co., and Cleaver's agent, Cyrilly Abels, as defendants. She charged Cleaver assigned her a 25 per cent interest in the book in 1968 but revoked the agreement last year. She said she had acted as his lawyer.

Cleaver was "somewhere in Europe," a French attorney who had represented him in Paris said last month. Cleaver left Algeria and tried unsuccessfully to obtain asylum in France. He fled the United States to avoid a hearing on charges of parole violation.

Babe's record has 5 games to live

ATLANTA (UPI) —Hank Aaron, who has hit 712 home runs, has five more games this season to tie or break baseball's all-time career record of 714 homers hit by Babe Ruth.

Aaron will get a chance tonight when his Atlanta Braves host the Los Angeles Dodgers. The Braves play the Dodgers again Wednesday and Thursday, and finish their season against the Houston Astros in games Saturday night and Sunday afternoon.

No parole for convict congressman

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The U.S. Parole Board has denied parole to former Rep. Cornelius E. Gallagher, D-N.J., who has served less than three months of a two-year prison sentence for attempting to evade income taxes.

The board said Monday that the former member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, a resident of Bayonne, N. J., must continue serving his sentence which expires Jan. 24, 1975. He has been held at the federal prison camp at Allenwood, Pa.

Aw, dry up, Bobby Riggs!

LAKE HAVASU CITY, Ariz. (UPI) — Heartily as some women's libbers may wish it, Bobby Riggs can't go jump in the lake—not from London Bridge at least.

"If Bobby Riggs or anyone else tries to jump off London Bridge, he will be arrested," Sheriff Philip Jordan said Monday. Riggs had quipped that he would jump off the bridge to carry out a promise to Billy Jean King after losing their "battle of the sexes" tennis match in Houston Thursday.

The sheriff said the drop from the center span of the bridge—which was dismantled in London and reassembled here—is 55 feet, and the water below is no more than 6 feet deep. "Jumping would be extremely dangerous and would almost certainly result in death or serious injury," the sheriff said.

Dr. Finch OK'd for license exam

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Dr. R. Bernard Finch, who served 12 years in prison in California for the murder of his wife, won the right Monday to take a state examination in December for a new medical license.

The board had turned him down last May, saying it was not in the state's best interests to allow a convicted murderer to re-enter the medical profession.

Finch, 53, and Carole Tregoff, his former receptionist, were sentenced to life imprisonment in 1961 for the 1959 murder of his wife, Barbara Jean Finch, near the Finch's West Covina, Calif., home. When Finch got out of prison in 1971 he moved to Eldorado Springs, Mo., and has been working in the hospital as an x-ray technician since.

The cost of the tournament is $15 and includes a golf cart, buffet dinner and prizes.

Oil dumped into Vancouver bay after collision

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI) — Two freighters collided in the pre-dawn darkness just outside the Vancouver Harbor today, nearly slicing one of the ships in half and spilling an estimated 250 tons of oil into English Bay.

First reports indicated the Japanese freighter Diamond Sun hit the British ship Erewan on the starboard side, nearly slicing it in half.

An estimated 200 tons of heavy bunker oil and 50 tons of light oil spewed from the ruptured ship, moving across the bay toward West Vancouver.

A cleanup operation began at dawn. No injuries were reported.

Council to seek new controls

Noise getting on S.D. nerves

By LENORE WALLACE
P-B Staff Writer

SAN DIMAS — The City Council is going to try to put teeth into city ordinances that regulate barking dogs and other noise pollution problems.

The council directed the staff to review present ordinances to try to deal with continuing complaints of noise pollution.

David Celestin, director of community planning and development, said barking dogs, loud steroes and motorcycles top the list of complaints of irate citizens.

Celestin said present ordinances are adequate in some areas of control but others need reviewing.

Councilman D. F. Hooper said he felt something should be done to muffle motorcycles and cars and "extremely loud stereos that play at 2 and 3 a.m."

Councilman Loyd Salisbury said he has received complaints about motorcycles and barking dogs.

In a related item, Jim Church of 253 E. Gladstone St., told the council he had just moved to the community and is having problems with a neighbor who, he said, doesn't like his 2-year-old German Shepherd.

Church, who is construction project manager for the county, said he is awakened in the middle of the night several times a week by sheriff's deputies who report complaints by a neighbor that his dog is barking.

Church told the council he did have problems with his dog when he moved to San Dimas but, he said, the animal has now settled down.

Church appealed to the council for relief from an ordinance regulation that requires that dogs be confined within a structure from 10 p.m. until 7 a.m

He said he felt this is unfair to the animal and to his household. He said he had the dog to protect his property. He inquired if the city is liable if he has his dog confined in the house and someone breaks into his garage.

City Atty. Norman Oliver ruled that the city couldn't be held responsible.

Church had the support of Hooper who said he agreed that the animal shouldn't be confined in a structure but he said he was also concerned that the animal didn't run loose and that it is kept quiet.

Councilman James Lough said he also agreed with Church. "It's hard to keep kids in after 10 p.m. let alone dogs."

Mayor Thomas Nuss said the city didn't want to become involved with the squabble with Church and his neighbor. He suggested that the matter of the dog's confinement be turned over to Bruce Richards of the Pomona Valley Humane Society for his recommendation.

Girl's scream brings help

Shoppers subdue kidnaping suspect

MONTCLAIR — A 16-year-old Upland youth, in custody of juvenile authorities this morning, is accused of attempting to kidnap a woman at knifepoint in the north parking lot of the Montclair Plaza. He was caught by shoppers witnessing the incident.

Police said the youth, whose name was not released, was placed in juvenile hall shortly after the incident was reported.

Police said a youth walked up to Kathy Adkins of Ontario, about 9:10 p.m. as she was unlocking her car. Miss Adkins said the youth pulled a knife and ordered her inside the car. Police said that Miss Adkins began screaming and a number of shoppers in the parking lot ran to her assistance.

The youth bolted, running about 100 yards until he was stopped by Donald T. Ochier, 20, of Ontario. Police said Ochier brought the youth back to Miss Adkins who identified him as her attempted kidnapper. The youth managed to get away from Ochier and run a short distance. Ochier and Kevin Schan, 17, of Montclair recaptured the youth and held him until police arrived on the scene.

Police said Miss Adkins was not injured in the attempted kidnap.

Testimony opens in new murder trial

POMONA Testimony in the second murder trial here of Lee Donald Lakey, 22, has begun in Pomona Superior Court.

Lakey, a bus boy, is accused of the strangulation slaying Jan. 14 here of 19-year-old Cheryl P. Brown.

The first trial ended in a mistrial when the jury could not agree on a verdict. That trial lasted six weeks but the current trial is expected to take about three in the court of Judge Glenn M. Pfau. Deputy District Attorney Charles E. Wolfe again is prosecuting the case but this time Lakey is represented by private attorney Joseph A. Dolan of Pomona.

In the first trial the prosecution attempted to show that Miss Brown was slain during a rape in her apartment at 759 E. San Francisco Ave.

Fuel, smog action

S.B. County employes asked to slow down

SAN BERNARDINO (CNA) — With an eye to saving the county gas money and also to cut down pollution, county Supervisor Daniel D. Mikesell requested that all 1,079 county vehicles limit their speed to 55 miles per hour on freeways and highways. He also asked that County Administrator Robert A. Covington be authorized to issue a directive informing all county employes.

His suggestion, while receiving approbation from the Board of Supervisors, ran into a little opposition when some of the board noted that in traveling long distances in this huge county they would spend too much time on the road instead of in their offices.

A compromise of sorts was reached with the suggestion by Supervisor Dennis Hansberger that a sticker be placed o nthe windshield of each vehicle asking that the driver to endeavor to comply with the speed limit, but not in cases of emergency.

Board Chairman Nancy E. Smith, complimenting Mikesell's idea, asked that the matter be referred to the traffic committee for recommendation.

Pomonan injured in cycle crash

POMONA — A motorcyclist suffered head and leg injuries Monday evening when his motorcycle and a car collided at Park and Grand avenues.

Gilbert Ramirez, 19, 1288 W. Grand Ave., was treated for his injuries at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

The driver of the car was Harold J. Sanchez, 25, 1440 W. Grand Ave. Police said he was southbound in Park and making a left turn in front of the motorcycle when the collision occurred.

Youth stabbed in Montclair

UPLAND — A 17-year-old Montclair youth was stabbed Monday night during an argument with another man in an apartment at 571 Richland St. here, police reported.

Ricky Joe Watts of 4857 Canoga St., Montclair, was listed in fair condition this morning in the intensive care unit of San Antonio Community Hospital. Doctors reported that youth suffered a stab wound of the middle left stomach. The youth walked into the hospital about 9:10 p.m for emergency treatment of the wound. Doctors notified police.

A suspect is being sought for questioning in the incident.

Montclair motorcyclist hurt

ONTARIO — A 17-year-old Montclair youth was injured Monday when his motorcycle southbound on Mountain Avenue collided with a car turning eastbound on I Street.

Peter Michael Penta of 9974 Benson Ave., Montclair, was given emergency treatment for multiple cuts, bruises and abrasions at Doctors Hospital of Montclair and later released in good condition.

Police said Penta's motorcylce collided broadside with a car driven by Edna Mae Baker, 48, of 957 E. Holt Blvd. about 12:20 p.m. Police said that Penta was knocked off the motorcycle following the collision.

Bartley Smith

POMONA — Bartley Robert Smith of 1448 W. Grand Ave. died Monday in Pomona Valley Community Hospital following 1½ years of illness.

Mr. Smith was born Nov. 27, 1911, in Safford, Ariz. He came to California in 1922 and moved to Pomona from Downey in 1942. He served with the U.S. Army during World War II. Mr. Smith was a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints Pomona, second Ward.

Besides his widow, Lenore, he is survived by a son, Bartley Edward of La Verne; three daughters, Carolyn Lemore, Elenore Christine and Kathleen Susan Smith all of Pomona; two brothers, William L. of Lynwood and Vernon A. of Norwalk; four sisters, Mrs. Gladys Chandler, Mrs. Ruby Powers and Mrs. Natus Bristol all of Lynwood and Mrs. Chloe Rose of Stanton; two grandchildren and numerous nieces and nephews.

Services will be held Thursday at 1:30 p.m. in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints Pomona Second Ward. Bishop Dwain McGary will officiate. Burial will be made in Rose Hills Memorial Park, Whittier. Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona is in charge of arrangements.

Elizabeth Barker

GARDENA — Mrs. Elizabeth E. Barker of 1035 W. 132nd St., Gardena, died Monday in a convalescent center in Torrance following two months of illness.

Mrs. Barker was born June 1, 1890, in Kentucky. She came to California in 1923 and lived in San Bernardino prior to moving to San Dimas in 1940. In 1942 she moved to Pomona. Mrs. Barker and her husband had been caretakers at the Pomona Ebell Club from 1948 to 1960. After the death of her husband she made her home with her daughter in Gardena.

Surviving is a daughter, Mrs. Frances Beatty of Gardena; a son, Floyd Miles of Junction City, Kansas; six grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Services will be held Friday at 1 p.m. in Pomona Mausoleum. Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona is in charge of arrangements.

Nixon may drop European visit, Kissinger says

NEW YORK (UPI) —President Nixon's plans for a visit to Europe have been all but abandoned because the United States and its West European allies are making no progress on terms for a "New Atlantic Charter."

It will take at least several more months, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has found, to reconcile differences over a proposed "declaration of principles."

Before his visit, Nixon wants a general agreement on the principles of a "New Atlantic Charter." Some European countries—France in particular—are in no hurry.

Danish Foreign Minister Knud Anderson, acting spokesman for the nine Common Market members, delivers official proposals to Kissinger today. During Monday's talks, Kissinger discovered that the Europeans have come up with only vague and philosophical suggestions. There are no specific proposals to cover economic and political relationships, which have been frozen in the same mold for the past quarter of a century.

In a meeting with Kissinger Monday, Japanese Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira renewed an invitation for Nixon to visit Tokyo as soon as possible. U.S. officials said it was conceivable Nixon might visit Japan before going to Europe.

Kissinger told Ohira he plans to visit China sometime in October, and hopes to visit Japan both on his way to and on his way back from Peking.

In other developments today, Kissinger invited representatives of 19 Arab states to lunch. He had no specific peace proposals to try to "sell" them, officials said, but merely wished to become better acquainted.

Four of them, South Yemen, Syria, Algeria and Libya, declined to attend. Iraq did not reply to the invitation.

Kissinger, as a gesture of courtesy, returns to the U.N. General Assembly today to listen to the address of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. Gromyko gave Kissinger a preview of the speech during a two and one-half hour dinner conference Monday evening.

Drifter died, buried nameless---until today

FARMINGTON, Utah (UPI) —The brunette drifter who fell from a moving freight train and drowned in a mud puddle beside the tracks has been identified as Mrs. Kathleen Kay Russell, 21, Omaha, Nev.

The diminutive victim whose only sign of identification was a wedding ring had been identified only as "Jane Doe" until her name was traced through the FBI fingerprint files.

Mrs. Russell fell or was pushed from the freight train Aug. 30. She was injured in the fall, landed face down in a puddle and drowned.

Davis County Sheriff William Peters said he has still not determined whether the death was homicide, suicide or accidental.

Police in Omaha said they had questioned her 24-year-old huhband, Jerry, but did not intend to hold him.

They said Russell told detectives his wife left Omaha about 10 days before her death. He said he received a letter from her with a Denver postmark, and hitchhiked west in search of her.

Russell, a cab driver, told detectives he hitchhiked to California, and returned to Omaha about the time his wife was being buried in an unmarked pauper's grave in Utah.

Mrs. Russell was seen boarding the northbound freight at Salt Lake City shortly before her death. At that time, she was seen with a male companion, who was later seen leaving the train at Clearfield, north of here.

Canada newsprint is cut by labor trouble

MONTREAL (UPI) —Labor disputes in eastern Canada's paper industry have caused a production loss of 370,000 tons of newsprint and cost the mills $50 million, two industry associations said Monday.

The Canadian Pulp and Paper Association (CPPA) said the losses reflected the effects of strikes against three major paper companies since late summer.

The CPPA, which had forecast this year's production at near 10 million tons, has revised its prediction to a maximum of 9.3 million tons.

The Newsprint Information Committee said in New York that losses up to Sept. 15 cost the mills $50 million and predicted further cost increases as a result of some contract settlements calling for 8.5 per cent wage boosts and improved fringe benefits.

Canadian newsprint mills were operating at 95.4 per cent capacity when the first strikes began in June. At the peak of the strikes, 25 per cent of eastern Canada's capacity was idled and the production loss ran at 6,000 tons a day, the committee said.

In Montreal, negotiations were continuing in contract talks aimed at averting further walkouts at five companies included in the Eastern Canadian Newsprint Group.

A spokesman for the United Paperworkers International Union would not comment on the talks other than to say negotiations are continuing.

Massive new logging urged by U.S. panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A substantial increase in logging in the nation's public forest lands was recommended Monday by a presidential panel to help alleviate a lumber shortage.

The panel called for use of all available techniques, including the controversial practice of clearcutting, to increase lumber ouput.

Conservationists attacked the recommendations as dooming "future generations to an even more serious timber shortage" than presently exists. President Nixon endorsed the report and said it indicated that fears of environmentalists "would appear to be unfounded, misleading or exaggerated."

The study recommended the "retaining of all proven and efficient methods of timber harvest, including clearcutting, under appropriate conditions." Clearcutting is the practice of stripping whole sections of forests at a time rather than cutting selected trees.

The report defended clearcutting as a practice which accomplishes the same objective that farmers have —"to harvest the crop and establish a new one." It added that the "popular conception that timber cutting causes severe damage to soil watersheds, streams, water quality, wildlife habitat and forest regeneration appear to be grossly unjustified."

Nixon issued a statement instructing members of an administration timber task force to put the recommendations into effect "as they consider practical."

A spokesman for Friends of the Earth said, "There isn't enough growth to allow an increase without condemning future generations to an even more serious timber shortage."

Can a child prove God's care for himself?

Yes, if he's learned that God, divine Love, is present to help him in everything he does.

Christian Science teaches children how to pray effectively for themselves, their families, and the world. This is why there are already three and four generations of Christian Scientists who have grown up relying fully on scientific prayer for healing.

Your children will be warmly received in our Sunday School. Bring them this week.

Before a Gas Co. serviceman is ready to face you he has to face himself.

As a customer, you expect our servicemen to know what they're doing.

At the Gas Company, we expect more than that: we expect them to let you know that they know what they're doing.

So at our Customer Services Training Center, we now give our men the chance to see themselves as they really are.

On videotape.

And if you've ever been surprised at the sound of your own voice on a tape recorder, you can imagine what it's like when there's a picture to go along with it.

The test is simple: an instructor acts like a customer, and a trainee acts like himself. Then the whole scene is played back on a screen.

For the trainee, that one picture on the screen is worth a thousand words from his instructor.

At the Gas Company, a man doesn't just learn how to handle your appliances.

With videotape training, he also learns how to handle himself.

Have the years mellowed him?

Peron inherits delicate task of resolving rivalries

By United Press International

Patience paid off for Juan D. Peron. The 77-year-old politician and army general had to wait 18 years, but he finally won back the presidency taken from him in a 1955 military coup.

Peron, who won a landslide victory in Sunday's four-man presidential election, will be inaugurated Oct. 12 for his third presidential term.

He will celebrate his 78th birthday Oct. 8, just four days before resuming the full responsibility of trying to lead this divided nation out of its political instability and economic stagnation.

Although visited almost daily by a heart specialist, Peron is said to be in good shape for a man his age. He has refused to name a successor in the event of his death, however, saying it will be up to his Justicialist movement when the time comes.

Age has not dimmed Peron's jaunty manner and broad smile, but he seems somewhat mellower than the man who ruled Argentina with a strong hand from 1946 to 1955.

He is aware that the years since his ouster have been marked by deep division in Argentina between his supporters and his enemies. Since returning to the country for the first time last Nov. 17, he has stressed unity and moderation.

Those themes are particularly applicable to Peron's own movement, which embraces groups from left-wing Marxists to right-wing nationalists.

Resolving the doctrinal differences and rivalries within the movement is one of Peron's most delicate tasks.

Strident criticism of the United States was a feature of Peron's former period in power and it remains part of his outlook, augmented by the current popularity of antiAmerican sentiment in Latin America.

One of the slogans that appeared during the recent election campaign translates: "Peron for president, and let the Yankees bust a gut."

Peron chose his third wife, Isabel, 40, as his vice presidential candidate, apparently to avoid splitting his followers by picking a strong figure from any one faction.

His second wife, Evita, is still revered by millions of humble Argentines who considered her almost a saint. She died of cancer in 1952 at the age of 33.

The appeal of the elderly politician to a wave of new voters is one of the revelations of Peron's return.

An army colonel who rose to prominence in the 1940s in a de facto government, Peron built his political power base on an appeal to the working man.

During his 10 years as president, the Argentine worker got wage and fringe benefits plus a sense of importance he never had before.

The image of Peron as the first Argentine politician to raise labor to a position of power has endured. Time and a series of frustrating attempts to run the country without the participation of the Peronists —has added an almost mythical dimension.

Peron is seen as the man who can set things right and put Argentina back on the path to prosperity and world influence. Only time will tell whether voters' expectations are justified.

Park service gives up on anti-erosion

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The National Park Service said Monday it has decided to stop trying to keep ocean waves from eating away at beaches on barrier islands. These include such well-known areas as the Outer Banks off North Carolina, Fire Island off New York and Point Reyes off California.

Spokesmen for the National Park Service told UPI that studies showed the anti-erosion efforts cost millions of dollars, with little to show for it.

Now, one spokesman said, the service has decided to let nature take its course, although federal agencies will still do what they can to hold down damage when a big storm threatens.

"The government has been spending quite a lot of money in attempting to do something that clearly is not working," he said. "We have not made a final, absolute decision, but certainly this is the way the studies have indicated is the proper way to go."

Word of the plans —subject of a Washington Post article today —has angered some property owners on the East, West, and Gulf Coasts, the spokesman said. The federal government's advice will be, "Build farther back," he said.

The Park Service has been working for years against the ocean. It has dredged up sand and dumped it on dunes. It has planted seaside grasses to hold the sand together. It has put up barriers to channel where the waves can eat and where they cannot.

Why Nutrition Square Chewable Vitamin C Tablets are made with Natural Acerola Berries.

The tropical acerola berry is one of nature's wonders. It is amazingly rich in natural Vitamin C — up to 80 times as rich as an equal amount of orange juice. This concentrated C goodness adds a lot of taste pleasure, as well as nutritional value. And the tastiest way to get its benefits is in Nutrition Square chewable Vitamin C with Acerola tablets.

Taste it . . . and enjoy the most delicious and complete Vitamin C nutrition that ever melted in your mouth!

Nutritional science knows that you need Vitamin C every day. It affects every single cell in your body. Yet your body can't store it. But, without a sufficient supply of Vitamin C, your body can't manufacture a special cement called "collagen" — the cement that holds every single cell in the body together. So you can see how important it is to be sure of getting enough Vitamin C.

That's where Nutrition Square Natural Vitamin C with Acerola comes in. These new chewable Vitamin C tablets have such a wonderfully tangy true-fruit taste, people love to chew them like candy. Even kids who can't swallow pills will gladly chew their daily Nutrition Square Vitamin C with Acerola. They'll look forward to its melt-in-your-mouth goodness so much, they'll remind you to give it to them. (In fact, they'll probably ask for more — but how many you give them is between you and your doctor.)

We're so sure that, once your family tastes Nutrition Square Natural Vitamin C with Acerola tablets, everyone in your family will insist on them . . . we're offering you this free taste test. Just fill out the coupon and bring it in to any of the General Nutrition Centers listed here . . . and we'll give you your FREE 14-day supply. No obligation. No strings attached.

Holt Ave. utility district urged to bury power lines

By BOB NAGEY
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — The city's long-range plan to move all power poles underground along Holt Avenue continued Monday night with a proposal to construct an underground utilities district between Dudley Street and Hamilton Boulevard.

Under the proposal that was unveiled at a public hearing before the City Council, property owners would share the cost of the relocation with the Southern California Edison Co. and the General Telephone Co.

Ronald Kranzer, director of public works, estimated the over-all cost of the project at about $600,000, of which the property owners on both sides of Holt Avenue would pay about one-fourth for "stubbing" into the main line.

It was evident at the public hearing, despite objections from several property owners, that the council was strongly in favor of forming the district.

"You can't stop progress," Councilman Ben Ochoa told the property owners. "We have been told by the Public Utilities Commission that this is something we have to do."

The property owners had complained they had not even been given an estimate of the cost, and that whatever the additional cost, it would be too much.

E. Davin, owner of Hi-Fi Mobile Home Plaza, 1010 W. Holt Ave., told the council that his trailer park was located next to the (St. Joseph) Catholic Church, "and widows live there who just pick up their Bibles and go to church. If I have to raise my rent, they'll go to the poorhouse."

Other property owners wondered whether the costs could not be lowered through alternate plans of tie-in.

It was to accommodate those residents that the council decided to continue the public hearing on Oct. 8. Mayor Ray J. Lepire said the additional time would give the property owners some time to get estimates, and Councilman Charles W. Bader asked Kranzer to look into the possibilities of alternate less costly plans wherever possible.

"I'm eager to see the benefits of this district," Bader explained, "but hate to see the property owners excessively taxed."

The strip, the second underground district in a continuous line, is about three-fourths of a mile long. It joins a similar district already formed west of Dudley. The next district is expected to be considered between Hamilton and Garey Avenue.

In an unrelated matter, the council passed an emergency ordinance placing a 90-day moratorium on the establishment of car washes throughout the city.

The freeze will remain in effect to enable the city to complete a study on what zone car washes belong in.

In other matters, the council:

—Approved a proposal, after a public hearing at which no one appeared to object, to establish a hillside overlay to that portion of the Ganesha Hills which is bounded by McKinley Avenue, Ganesha Boulevard, Gillette Road, and Dudley and Val Vista streets.

—Passed a resolution calling for bids for the construction of a pedestrian overpass over Valley Boulevard near Omar Street, and called for the stationing of a police officer or a crossing guard there until the bridge is completed.

—Authorized the purchase of La Casa Primera de Rancho San Jose, southwest corner of Park and McKinley avenues, from the Historical Society of Pomona Valley, Inc. for the total amount of $82,667.36, and instructed the city staff to apply to the federal government for available historical grants.

—Referred a request for the re-establishment of one-way traffic on the Pomona Mall to the Mall Commission, with instructions to the city staff by Councilman Adrian Wright to "come up with facts and figures to see what it takes to put the automobile back on the street."

The request for one way traffic came from the Pomona Central Business district, which has called it a "last ditch stand" to restore some activity on the mall.

HE FOLDS THEM FAST

Los Angeles County Fair Queen Kathy Grothe presents a second place ribbon to Bob Castillo, 1841 W Ninth St., Pomona, after the Progress-Bulletin carrier folded 10 newspapers in 31 seconds in the annual newspaper carrier folding contest at the fair. Castillo has been a carrier 15 months. The contest was sponsored jointly by the California Newspaperboy Foundation and the fair, which runs through Sunday.

MATHEW KRAMER

Mathew Kramer to take post with Moose

POMONA — Mathew Kramer of Pomona will be installed Saturday night as the new district president of the California Moose Association at an installation ceremony at the Pomona Moose Lodge.

Kramer is presently a trustee of the Pomona Lodge and has previously served as inner and outer guard, sergeant-at-arms, prelate, junior governor, governor and junior past governor. He received the Diamond Award of Merit for his service as governor. He is a member of the Legion of the Moose and a recipient of the Fellowship Degree. He served as vice president of the Foothill District last year.

Installing the new president will be Richard Weaver of Montebello, past district president. George Hannum of Rowland Heights will be the installing sergeant-at-arms. The installation chairman is Lela Koppelman of Pomona.

Other officers to be installed include Norman Harrigan of Rowland Heights as vice president, Ail G. El-Assaad of Pomona as secretary, and John F. Robinson of Rowland Heights as sergeant-at-arms.

Resource Project seeks volunteers

POMONA — The Pomona Valley Resource Project, a non-profit community organization assisting needy families, has an urgent need for volunteers.

According to Ronald Calabro, project chairman, volunteers are needed to help man the project resource center at 181 Pomona Mall West, to assist with furniture pick-up and delivery, and to repair appliances.

In addition to volunteers, said Calabro, the project is also in need of clean usable clothing, blankets, linens, furniture, appliances, food and cash contributions.

For further information, persons may call 623-8822 or 623-6371 during business hours, or 629-9093 after 5 p.m.

Pomona planning staff concludes

Data lacking in OIA impact report

POMONA — An environmental impact report concerning a second main runway proposed at Ontario International Airport should contain a more comprehensive analysis of the alternatives to the proposed side-by-side configuration, the Pomona planning staff believes.

"This study should examine all possible alternatives, including the staggered runway configuration," they added.

The city staff prepared a six-page critique on the Northrop Corp. study, which will be presented Wednesday night to the Pomona Planning Commission.

The critique focuses on the deficiencies of the report primarily from the standpoint of the potential impact on the City of Pomona, said Sanford A. Sorensen, city planner.

In the staff critique, the planners suggested the analysis include a comparative cost benefit analysis of all possible alternative runway configurations, which would include such items as land acquisition costs, construction costs, probable costs of court actions arising from noise suits and costs involved in the relocation of residents in high-noise impact areas.

The environmental impact report proposes construction of a 10,000-foot runway parallel with the existing threshold moved 2,200 feet to the east. This would allow departing aircraft to be at a higher elevation when passing over residential areas.

An alternative that would have all the advantages of the side-by-side runway configuration is the "staggered runway" configuration, the staff noted.

This would call for construction of the new runway east and south of the eastern end of the existing runway. This plan would require the acquisition of additional property east of the airport, but would have the added advantage of greatly reducing the noise impact on the surrounding communities.

Other staff recommendations include:

— A section detailing the extent of the impact on street traffic circulation in the airport area be included in the report.

— The noise impact resulting from the various alternative runway configurations should be quantified and compared in a comprehensive report on the alternatives to the proposed side-by-side runway configurations.

— A sound level of 70 decibels be used as the threshold level in calculating noise exposure values, instead of 85 decibels.

— The economic impact resulting from the expansion of the airport on communities located in the airport region, but not in the immediate area, be quantified and assessed.

— Data be provided indicating the average number of flights by type of aircraft that would be using each flight path for each alternative runway configuration in 1975, 1978, 1985, and 1990.

— Cooperation be maintained with other cities and counties in the region whose planning agencies are reviewing the environmental impact statement. This could include an exchange of information and ideas.

The planning commission meetings starts at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council chambers.

Hog-calling event tops fair activity

POMONA — The Los Angeles County Fair's 20th annual hog-calling contest will highlight fair activities Wednesday at 5 p.m. in the fairgrounds' livestock judging ring.

On Monday a crowd of 44,948 visited the fair, pushing total attendance for 11 days to 780,782. Attendance is off slightly from last year's 11-day total of 810,089.

In other events for Wednesday, a lemon pie contest will be held in the Home Arts Building at 7:30 p.m., while Pioneer High School from Whittier will stage a parade at 2 p.m.

A horse show in the Carnation Ring will be staged at 10 a.m., 1 and 7:30 p.m. by the Calizona Appaloosa Association.

Livestock judging will be for Alpine and Saanen dairy goats at 9 a.m. and Guernsey dairy cattle at 10 a.m.

In the Schools Exhibit, the Pomona Recreation Department will present music, singing and dancing at 7 p.m.

The Home Arts Showcase will feature cake decorating demonstrations at noon, 2, 3 and 5 p.m. The Southern California Edison Co. will present "Mexican Cookery" by Tani Welsh at 11 a.m., 1 and 4 p.m. Daily demonstrations include weaving, quilting, china painting, stitchery, needlepoint, leather craft, spindle spinning and macrame.

The fair's amphitheater will offer hourly shows beginning at 10 a.m. by high school bands from Buena Park, Covina, Inglewood, Azusa, Rosemead, and La Verne, with other entertainment from Hacienda Heights, Glendora and Whittier.

Freeway crash hospitalizes L.A. woman

POMONA — A 63-year-old Los Angeles woman suffered a fractured knee and a broken arm Monday afternoon when her automobile struck a center divider on the San Bernardino Freeway near Towne Avenue. She was trying to avoid boxes which had fallen from a truck which she was following.

Mabel Claire Schakel was listed in satisfactory condition today at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. She also received head lacerations and numerous bruises in the accident.

A passenger in her car, Alice Schaab, 63, of Los Angeles, suffered head lacerations and numerous bruises. She was treated and released.

The driver of the truck was Allen Harris Leitch, 39, of Riverside. He told authorities the boxes he was carrying began to fall out of his truck after it had been passed by another truck. Leitch was not injured in the mishap.

The incident occurred about 2:10 p.m.

Jews to mark beginning of their new year, holy days

Members of the local Jewish community will join their counterparts throughout the world Wednesday evening in ushering in the Year 5743 of the Hebrew calendar.

Rosh Hoshanah eve services are scheduled at 7 p.m. at Temple Sholom in Ontario, and at 8 p.m. at Temple Beth Israel in Pomona.

Observance of the Jewish New Year will continue until sundown Friday at Temple Sholom, and until sundown Thursday at Temple Beth Israel.

Services at Temple Sholom will start at 9 a.m. and again at 7 p.m. on Thursday, and at 9 a.m. Friday, under the direction of Rabbi Alexander Mittleman.

Temple Beth Israel services Thursday will be at 9 a.m. for children, and at 11 a.m. for adults. A choir led by Mary Jane Hess and Cantor Herbert Isaacson will participate.

Rabbi Irving A. Mandel will discuss "The Decay and Rebirth of the American Dream" Wednesday night, and "Pilgrimage of Fools" Thursday morning.

Kol Nidre services, ushering in Yom Kippur, the most solemn of Jewish holy days, will be held by both temples Friday night, Oct. 5.

The services will start at 6:30 p.m. at Temple Sholom and at 8 p.m. at Temple Beth Israel. They will be continued at 9 a.m. at Sholom and 10 a.m. at Beth Israel on Saturday, and will last throughout the day. This is the time of the traditional day of fasting.

Beth Israel will break the fast with light food at the end of the day of prayers.

Trial under way in case of Pomona house break-in, slashing of two

POMONA — Testimony in the trial of two Riverside men charged here with attempted murder, robbery and burglary got under way Monday morning before a jury and Pomona Superior Court Judge August J. Goebel.

The trial of Arnold Keith Spears, 22, and James Franklin Hooker, 21, is expected to require five or six weeks. Both men are being held in lieu of bail.

Spears and Hooker are charged with being the two armed men who forced their way into the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Ryan here March 23, bound and gagged the couple, their son, Mark, 24, and daughter, Galen 21, ransacked the house and then cut the younger Ryans' throats before fleeing in a car.

The Ryans lived at 797 E. Harrison Ave. at the time of the incident but since have moved.

In a brief opening statement Monday morning, Deputy District Atty. Joel Hoffman told the jury that he and co-counsel Gerard R. Poirier expected to show that Spears and Hooker were the men who forced their way into the Ryan home that evening, "beginning the ordeal of the Ryan family."

Hoffman said they also intended to show that Spears and Hooker were the ones who cut the young Ryans' throats.

The first prosecution witness was a former neighbor of the Ryans', Choice W. Dalton Jr. Dalton lived near the Ryans at the time of the incident but since has moved and is a ranger in Olympic National Park in Washington.

Dalton told of seeing two young men and a young woman walking around the neighborhood when he arrived home that evening. He became suspicious and called police after seeing them approach the Ryan home.

Later Monday George Ryan, 52, appeared and was to return today for further questioning. Previously he told of answering a knock on the door, finding a young woman there who said she was taking a survey and then being pushed aside by the two armed men as they invaded the house.

At 15-year-old girl subsequently was arrested with Spears and Hooker and was turned over to Riverside County juvenile authorities as the third suspect in the case. The defense attorneys are Deputy Public Defender Weldon Diggs and Jerry Lenoir, Los Angeles.

Toastmasters pick contest winners

POMONA — Toastmasters Club 110 picked it's representatives to the future competition in humorous speech and tall tales contests at Buffums' Palomares Room, Saturday at 7 p.m.

Allan Murdock will be the humorous speech speaker with Currier Thatcher the tall tales entrant. Both were selected at the club's contest held Sept. 20.

Awards presented at the last meeting included: best speaker, Thatcher, best evaluator, Bob Dwight, and best table topics, Dan Palmer.

Club 110 meets each first and third Thursdays of the month at the Heritage House in Pomona.

Commission on Aging slates USC visit

POMONA — The Pomona Valley Commission on Aging will sponsor a tour of the gerontology department of USC on Oct. 4.

The tour will cost $3. Reservations can be made until Sept. 30 by calling 629-4817.

The tour bus will leave from 3rd Street and Park Avenue at 9 a.m. A film and a lecture will be included in the tour.

TV Week to focus on Adam's Rib stars

Ken Howard and Blythe Danner, stars of the new ABC series Adam's Rib, will be featured in the next issue of TV Week, a Sunday supplement in the Progress-Bulletin.

Public invited to learn of Meals on Wheels

POMONA — The Pomona Meals on Wheels has scheduled an open meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Pomona Valley Community Hospital auditorium to explain the program to the public.

So that volunteers can learn about the work of the newly-organized service which takes meals to shut-ins, a slide presentation will be presented by Mrs. Ruth Wallis, who is vice president of both Pomona MOW and the Ontario Upland MOW groups.

Volunteers are needed to package and deliver hot, nutritious meals at noontime Mondays through Fridays to handicapped or shut-in persons in Pomona.

The recipients will pay the basic cost of the meal, which will be prepared at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Packaging and delivery are free volunteer services.

Volunteers are needed for approximately one hour, about twice a month. Duties include delivering the bulk food from the hospital to First Presbyterian Church, packaging the food at the church, or delivering the meals to the individuals. All volunteers will be instructed in their jobs. Day captains will be in charge of volunteers.

Both men and women are needed for the program and volunteers may select their own days. All interested persons are urged to attend the meeting.

Plans for shopping village, drive-up bank up for study

CLAREMONT — Review of architectural and site plans for a shopping village near the Claremont Depot and for a drive-up bank at Griswold's Old School House will come before the Claremont Architectural Commission at its 7:30 p.m. session Wednesday in the City Council chamber.

At its last meeting, the commission tabled any review of the shopping village until a representative for Specialty Restaurants submitted more detailed elevation drawings. The site is east of the Claremont Depot and south of First Street.

The commission also will review site plans for the club house for the Valley Racquet at 840 S. Indian Hill Blvd., at the Rodeway Inn.

Petrolane Properties is asking for a review of elevations, colors, materials and signs for a retail store building at the west end of the New Stater Bros. shopping center at 1055 W. Foothill Blvd. The site plan calls for a 5,600-square-foot building to house a 1,300-square-foot restaurant and four retail shops.

Clark Contractors wants to put up a storage building at Highpoint, the condominium complex at Claraboya, and has asked for approval of the site plan.

Conrad Casler has requested approval of an exterior alteration for a single-family dwelling at 1212 N. Indian Hill Blvd., but the city staff is concerned because most of the work already has been completed without the necessary permits.

Two big advances on food problem

The "Green Revolution" has turned brown at the edges.

Despite startling increased yield of new grain varieties, particularly rice, the world remains locked in a race between agricultural productivity and population growth.

World grain reserves are at their lowest point in 20 years, due to bad weather in 1972, diseases and other disasters, as well as greater consumption. At the same time, the more affluent nations are developing an appetite for red meat similar to that of Americans, even as more and more grain is going to be needed simply to meet the food needs of people.

Human technology has not yet given up the battle to human fecundity, however. At least two developments in recent weeks hold out significant promise.

In one of them, the Ceres Land Co. of Sterling, Colo., which feeds 60,000 head of cattle, became the first major cattle raiser to begin to include in the normal diet of its herd substantial amounts of feed derived from, of all things, cow manure.

Cows, it seems, do not digest 20 per cent of what they eat. The system Ceres is using reportedly converts their protein-rich wastes simply, cheaply and without pollution into a feed that neither looks nor smells like manure.

U.S. Department of Agriculture researchers estimate that the recycling of only one-third of the 1.7 billion tons of farm animal waste produced each year would yield as much protein as is contained in this country's total annual soybean crop.

In the second development, which sounds a little less like a perpetual motion machine, Agri-Stock, Inc., a recently formed company in Akron, Ohio, has announced that it is ready to market a new custom-blended forage balancer which, it claims, will enable beef and milk production to be tripled at low cost.

The meal supplement, which is 32 per cent protein, balances roughage such as silage, grass and hay into a complete diet for beef and dairy cattle.

These animals, whose natural food is roughage, are usually fed grain and a grain balancer so they can produce at their maximum capacity, explains ruminal nutritionist Dr. Joseph B. Davidson, the firm's executive vice-president. But it still takes eight to 10 pounds of grain to produce a pound of beef and three to four times as much land to give the same results as feeding entirely on a roughage program.

For example, land which will produce 100 bushels of corn will produce some 20 tons of corn silage. This consists of harvesting the entire plant rather than just the ears.

On the average, the corn in turn will produce 600 to 700 pounds of beef or 5,000 pounds of milk. In contrast, Agri-Stock's new mix will produce about 2,000 pounds of beef or 16,000 pounds of milk.

Land that is not economically productive as far as grain is concerned will grow acceptable silage crops. The latter are also less affected by the weather. This could be a boon in subtropical climates that grow almost unlimited amounts of forage.

The better land could then be used to grow food grains, says Davidson, and thus be better utilized for human consumption.

Several years of extensive experimentation with the new feed supplement on farms in the United States and Canada have convinced him that it "could literally revolutionize farm output."

Here come the cool judge

It's handy being a judge sometimes.

When two maintenance men turned up the thermostat in his air-conditioned courtroom in obedience to a county order to conserve energy and refused to turn it down again, Judge Oliver Feifer of Santa Monica Municipal Court simply had the culprits arrested and tossed in the clink for "contempt of court."

Their sentence was only a brief 45 minutes, as long as it took for other workers to get the temperature down to Judge Feifer's liking. But still, it must be nice to have that kind of power.

Out of fire, into frying pan

It's hardly an occasion for joy when an animal is placed on the endangered species list says Smithsonian magazine. It is, however, with regard to the eastern cougar and the Rocky Mountain wolf, both of which recently made the list.

The reason is that prior to reclassification, the animals were believed to be extinct a case, comments the magazine, of moving out of the fire into the frying pan.

U.S. is drug peddler's paradise

WASHINGTON — Despite rosy progress reports by President Nixon on the war against drugs, a confidential Senate report warns that the federal anti-drug effort ranges from "inadequate" to "horrendous."

The study found perpetual backfence carping between FBI and antidrug officials, outmoded Eliot Ness-era enforcement practices and purposely faked data on the number of addicts and on the importance of arrested heroin merchants.

These unvarnished findings by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff's Government Operations subcommittee mesh almost exactly with recent talks by our reporters with Justice Department drug officials, street agents, FBI men, Capitol Hill experts and shadowy narcotics figures.

The subcommittee's 25-page document, now being readied for publication, points out that while American parents sweat and steam over their teen-agers' drug sampling, the nation has become a land of milk and honey for big and little drug hustlers alike.

'Spilled over'

"Drug law enforcement resources remain woefully inadequate against the 'polydrug' epidemic across the nation," says the report. "The nation's drug crisis has clearly spilled over the boundaries of the inner-city ghettos, where heroin was the traditional drug of choice, into the suburbs and small towns, where the drug of choice . . . often takes the form of pills.

"Teen-agers are the principal abusers and schools are a principal marketplace and arena of abuse."

Yet, until a few months ago, "10 federal agencies in five cabinet departments performed drug enforcement functions." This wasteful disarray had led to current "budgeting . . . at $257 million, a sevenfold increase in funding from the $36 million in fiscal year 1969."

Incredible as it sounds, some of the federal money has been spent to falsify drug statistics on both the number of addicts and the celebrity-status of some of the arrested hustlers.

Names added

White House aides confirmed to the subcommittee that the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs' list of top level smugglers has been inflated "by adding names . . . as suspects were arrested." In other words, when even an insignificant arrest was made, the suspect sometimes has been counted by the bureau as a narcotics kingpin to make its record look good.

Moreover, the subcommittee found, governmental bodies have arrived at the number of narcotics addicts in their jurisdiction by multiplying official bureau arrest-based totals by three. "No one seems to know where the factor of three came from," a White House source confided to the Senate probers.

As one example of the confusion, the Justice Department estimated the number of heroin addicts in Connecticut at 881, while the White House reported 13,460.

With such meaningless figures, funding of rehabilitation and antiheroin enforcement programs has becme next to impossible. "The data base for assessing . . . the heroin problem is, at best, woefully inadequate and, at worst, a horrendous scandal," said the report.

National monster

The subcommittee asserts — and our interviews emphatically bear them out — that while federal programs are "overwhelmingly weighted towards the suppression of heroin," a national monster has grown up on goofballs, pep pills, "sopers," cocaine, speed, and other nonheroin drugs.

"At issue is not whether federal drug law enforcement should abandon the war against heroin traffickers," stresses the Ribicoff study, "but to what extent law enforcement priorities must be changed to reflect . . . the dangers of the other forms of drug abuse."

Although 17 times as many Americans abuse nonheroin drugs as heroin, the Senate report states that only about 300 of the Bureau of Narcotics' 1,600 agents have been assigned "to combatting the diversion of legally manufactured pills into the illicit market."

This handful of agents has had to monitor and investigate an incredible 450,000 registered drug handlers who handle eight billion doses of stimulants and depressants annually. Many are produced by "ethical" pharmaceutical firms with the full knowledge that the pills will wind up on the black market.

Being young not fun any more

Politicians sought to buy the allegiance of young people with promises of legislation allowing young Americans to vote, drink, borrow money, own property and to do a whole host of other things at 18 instead of 21.

There was a hook in the bait. When the law calls you an "adult" at 18, you also give up some rights.

Box office surveys show that the movie musical "Tom Sawyer" brought many school-agers back again and again. They fell in love with Aunt Polly, identified with Tom and Huck and learned the lilting music by heart.

And, despite the deprivation, dangers and discipline endured by the movie's principals, most repeat viewers of the movie said, "Kids had fun in thos days."

Today's 15 million American 18-through 20-year-olds never had it so good. Yet their songs never sounded so sad.

Since winning the right to vote in 1970, young adults in most states are now legally eligible to make wills, own property, sign contracts, marry without parental consent and drink.

But the newly emancipated 18-year-old is discovering that the right to sue also implies the right to be sued. The right to own property in his own name also means he can no longer claim support from his family. The right to "charge it" implies liability for the payments.

And, because accident statistics show that their judgment has not matured overnight, young people still have to pay higher auto insurance rates. Several states in which public drinking is now legal at 18 report a sharp new increase in automobile accidents involving young drivers.

Though entitled to credit and bank loans, the young adult will be turned down as a "poor risk" unless he is gainfully and steadily employed. In divorced families, child support payments which formerly continued to age 21 may now end at age 18.

The federal government and some states have lowered the required age for service on juries from 21 to 18. Jury service may now be required. In short, they wanted into the club; now the dues are due.

They've gained prerogatives, but they pay with the increased pressure of decisionmaking.

The number of young Americans now getting psychiatric treatment at established mental health facilities has doubled since 1965.

The American Medical Assn. calculates that during our nation's most affluent year — this one — 10 million Americans need treatment for depression.

Suicide rates are up for our population generally, but, for the young, spectacularly. The Aquarian age of harmony celebrated by young rebels of the Sixties was stillborn.

Little wonder today's sophisticated young seek solace for an hour in the era of less affluence and more laughter — in the worlds of Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn and The Waltons.

Raza Unida party?

I believe it is an appropriate time to answer some correspondence that I have received from "La Raza Unida Party" relative to the forming of a third party and asking for help in gathering some 40,000 signatures to qualify said party for the ballot in the coming general elections.

Their objective of getting a better representation in government with Americans of Mexican descent is very laudable and I am all for it and have been working toward this end for a good many years. It is my understanding that there are over two million eligible voters of Mexican descent in California alone. Can you imagine forming a non-partisan political organization consisting solely of Americans of Mexican descent in California with chapters throughout the state with a grand chapter centrally located and using peaceful means through the ballot box instead of demonstrating and rioting to obtain a betterment of the economic situation of the American of Mexican descent?

However, in my opinion, the "Raza Unida Party?" has a few questions to answer before a large segment of the more intelligent Americans of Mexican descent will be willing to join their party, namely the following:

A large majority of us resent being relegated to second class citizens by being referred to as "Chicanos," or hyphenated Americans. We consider ourselves Americans of Mexican descent and proud of our Mexican heritage. However, I notice in their "write-ups" that the "Raza Unida" still refers to us as "Chicanos". This a good many of us resent. Secondly, in the issue of July 28, thru Aug. 18, 1973, the "Councilor" published in Shreveport, La., there appears a very long list of names under the heading of "Organizations of People in the New Communist Front", among which there appears a "Jose Gutierrez, of the "Raza Unida"; Alicia Escalante of the "Chicano Welfare Rights Organization"; Armida Duran, Clinica Familiar del Barrio Los Angeles, as well as at least a dozen others with Spanish surnames appear on the list.

There is much more to be said on this subject but the foregoing should suffice for the time. This letter is written and signed by an American of Mexican descent who is proud of his Mexican heritage. — C. A. Celaya, Pomona.

Gossip for today

"Critical power shortages will hit Southern California by springtime," says the head of the State Public Utilities Commission. And yet, according to no less an authority than the chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission: "We are suffering an energy DILEMMA, not a crisis."

Well, that's a relief! Or is it? When bureaucrats start tossing words around the wise man first consults his dictionary before forming an opinion. And, according to the American Heritage Dictionary: "A DILEMMA is a predicatment that seemingly defies a satisfactory solution; an argument in which a choice of two ore more alternatives each being conclusive and fatal, is presented."

So what IS going to happen come next Spring? An energy crisis? — An energy dilemma? — Take your choice. But as Shakespeare would be saying, were he here to throw in his two bits worth: A crisis by any other name is still not going to be much of an improvement.

INSIDE REPORT

Nixon's long cold winter

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON—Just as the Sept. 8 cabinet meeting on threatened heating oil shortages this winter was starting, former Colorado Gov. John Love, President Nixon's energy czar, urgently whispered with Interior Secretary Rogers Morton.

Would Morton support or oppose mandatory allocations of heating oil if the President brought up the subject at the cabinet meeting, Love asked.

Morton and Love quickly agreed that, if that political hot potato was tossed up, they would support allocations.

Quickly, however, it became apparent that Mr. Nixon himself was politically and emotionally against mandatory allocations (designed to guarantee a fair level of supplies to potentially oil-short areas like New England and the Upper Midwest).

The ice was first broken by Russell Train, newly sworn in Environmental Protection administrator. Train said that if, as the White House wants, states are asked to provide temporary "variances" from clean air laws, then the administration should ask Congress for mandatory allocations to spread the shortages fairly.

Mr. Nixon listened, saying nothing, then turned to Deputy Secretary of the Treasury William Simon. "You don't agree with that, do you, Bill?" the President asked.

"Yes sir," replied the forthright Simon, backing Train to the hilt. Mr. Nixon then turned to Morton. Without hesitation, Morton said: "I agree with Bill Simon 100 per cent."

But energy czar Love apparently was getting the drift of the President's own strong antipathy to allocations. When Mr. Nixon finally turned to him, Love hedged. Maybe yes, he said, but then again, maybe no. Three times the President asked Love and three times Love, a newcomer to the political thickets of Washington, equivocated.

That was Sept. 8. Shortly thereafter, the White House, with Love now leading the way, came close to outright support for allocations. But Simon's boss, Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz, and other freedom-of-marketplace ideologues such as top White House aide Bryce Harlow, have reversed that trend. There is now open talk of a possible veto if Congress goes ahead on its own and sends a mandatory allocations bill to the President.

Through all this, three hard facts are emerging and they were deeply impressed on the seven governors who attended Wednesday's energy meeting at the White House: there is no energy policy as yet; there is no hard information on shortages; there are no real contingency plans.

If Mr. Nixon doesn't soon fill that policy and information vacuum and the coming winter turns out long and cold, he will open up a political Pandora's box which for voter fury could make the Watergate scandals a summer picnic.

Laird tells Shultz

Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz's angry cry from Tokyo that Melvin R. Laird better keep his "cotton pickin' hands" off economic policy was privately rejected by Laird in Washington last week.

"I was making economic policy long before you were even in government," veteran politicial Laird, now White House domestic policy chief, told former Prof. Shultz here after his return from Japan. As a Wisconsin legislator 26 years ago, Laird continued, he conducted a study on state tax laws and has been involved in tax policy ever since. What's more, he said, he would keep talking taxes long after he leaves the White House (less than a year from now, he forecasts) and, in the meantime, will discuss all other aspects of government policy — economics included.

Laird also defended his Sept. 15 press conference boosting proposals for temporary tax increases by Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns. Laird told Shultz not to reject out of hand Dr. Burns's idea of using variable taxes to combat inflation.

Finally, Laird stressed that he knows no tax legislation will pass Congress this year but wanted Burns's proposals ventilated. He remembered pushing revenue-sharing some 15 years before the program was adopted by Congress.

A footnote: Attempting to ease tension after Shultz's attack on Laird in Tokyo, Deputy Treasury Secretary William Simon sent Laird a pair of white cotton gloves. But Laird jokes that he probably needs neither white gloves now black gloves. He needs kid gloves when talking policy — to soften the impact on Shultz and other officials of his laudable attempt to achieve open government.

Walnut schools put stress on better reading

By J. LANGE WINCKLER
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — Reading is the core of education, the basic tool with which children gain other knowledge. The school district here is working at full capacity to teach children the first of the "Three R's."

In the district are five programs for improving reading skills, beginning with basic classroom instruction, and including a district-employed reading specialist, a federally-funded EEA Title I program, a state-supported Miller-Unruh reading specialist, and the reading portion of Walnut's Early Childhood Education (ECE) courses.

"There are lots of ways to teach reading, and they all work," said Jack Jolley, assistant superintendent of educational programs and services. "If the state or federal government offers us funds for a particular type of program, we can't overlook that."

Recently the district's board of trustees approved application to participate in a state extension of the federal "Right to Read" program. This will provide Walnut with additional means to evaluate teaching techniques, students' needs, and ways to better teach reading, said Jolley.

In general, he notes, children in the Walnut Valley Unified School District have no big problems with reading. However, testing last year showed a weakness in sixth, seventh, and eighth-grade classes, mostly at the eighth-grade level.

With test results showing sudents, on an average, about five months behind the norm in reading, and seven months lagging in language, special changes are under way to improve the program. Jolley said the test results showed weaknesses specifically in the mechanics of language, principally spelling.

"Spelling is a rote memorization kind of skill. It does not reflect intelligence levels," Jolley explained. "It is pure torture to the teacher and the kids. At Suzanne Intermediate School, the teachers will concentrate on more formality in spelling instruction.

"We're not going to kill the kids with drudgery, though — yet we've got to spend more time with it."

Problems such as mechanics of language will be picked out at an earlier grade level, under the Right to Read program. While the district copes this year with older students, whose deficiencies become more evident as they proceed through school, a pilot program at Walnut school should help find weaknesses before pupils move beyond elementary grades.

Jerry Bell, the Miller-Unruh specialist assigned to Walnut, will be named as the district's Right to Read coordinator. After special training provided by the state, he will conduct a "needs assessment." Jolley described this evaluation as a testing program designed to point up what elements of the reading program at Walnut school need extra support.

From that evaluation, Bell will draw up a program and select various materials to make it work. Once it is over, students are again tested to determine whether the remedial programs succeeded.

"Walnut Valley is not a district with a lot of problem kids," said Jolley. "Our needs assessment will be a number of quetions we ask ourselves: How much time do the kids spend on reading comprehension; how much on spelling drill; how is this time distributed in general on a daily, or weekly basis? How do larger groups of kids learn, what changes might teachers make within these groups.

"We'll be building our own program, with our own people involved."

That is what the district is doing now in another pilot program at Vejar School. There, seven teachers in kindergarten and first grade are initiating Early Childhood Education.

In that program the teachers are educating children on a series of levels. They determined last summer what basic pieces of knowledge or concepts the child should understand before moving to another level.

Colors and their names, different kinds of symbols, phonetic associations with letters — these are the intimate units of the ECE program. "We hope someday to get completely off grades," notes Jolley. "A child will advance according to his own pace, and not move on just because he's bigger and older."

With both the Title I and district reading specialist programs, these approaches are used on a broader scale. While Vejar and Castle Rock schools benefit from the help of Mrs. Barbara Parker, district specialist, her services are spread between 1,200 to 1,300 students. At Collegewood, Title I serves about 100 youngsters.

All of the programs contribute "research" benefits to individual classroom teachers. "The things that a teacher can use with 30 kids are passed on as part of our in-service instruction," notes Jolley. "But some of these programs cannot contribute too much, since it is very hard to get time for one-to-one attention in a classroom."

He said, "It's a little bit frustrating. While we have covered all the schools in a different way, it is still not a district-wide program. It's not because we want a fragmented program, but because that's the way the money is made available.

"As long as the state and federal government have these categorical programs, that's the way things will stand."

There is quite a bit of money tied up in reading instruction. The district budget shows $35,000 set out for ECE, $18,500 for Miller-Unruh, $18,300 for the district's own reading program, and $28,000 for Title I. Costs are even higher when related budgets for materials and regular classroom instruction are added in.

But the investment in reading instruction doesn't show up in next year's budget, or even in test scores. It shows up in the students' success in society.

"Let's face it," said Jolley. "Society places probably the primary importance on reading. Number two is math. But probably the majority of the time in school is spent on reading.

"Society compounds that even more, by requiring that kids not only read adequately, but well."

LEARNING TO READ

Vejar School first grade teacher Mrs. Cory Griswold tests a pupil's knowledge of words with a flash card. She is shown preparing students to begin the school's Early Childhood Education project, which includes individualized instruction in reading. Spread before her are materials used to check each child's knowledge against a scale that shows at what level the child now reads.

RARE DELIGHTS

Mrs. Don Risk is obviously happy with a pair of rare editions of books authored by Elbert Hubbard, published circa 1900, which will be sold by sealed bid at a used book sale at the Walnut library Saturday. Friends of the Library is hosting the event, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Books of all kinds will be available. Anyone wishing to donate more for the sale should call Mrs. Risk at 595-3069.

Walnut growth exceeds forecast

Big jump in student rolls

WALNUT — As expected the school district here has seen a large jump in student population from last year. Classrooms, in fact, are filled with more students than forecast, according to district officials.

However, the growth should drop back for a while, reported Hay McMullen, director of personnel and planning. He told the Walnut school board that high interest rates have slowed new home sales drastically. Hopefully we have enrolled most of the children we'll receive from new homes until after the first of the year."

By the end of the first week of classes, district enrollment was up by 414 students. The increase was nearly 100 students over projected enrollments for Oct. 5, noted McMullen. This has required the district to make maximum use of classroom space while adding another teacher.

Average class sizes in the district range from 28.7 in first through third grades to 32.6 for grades seven and eight. Some are considerably tighter at individual schools, said McMullen. There is an imbalance at Castle Rock Elementary between fourth grades where some extra space is available and sixth grades, in which class sizes approach maximum limits.

In recent weeks, interest on home financing loans has climbed to all-time highs, which McMullen reported is cutting back new home sales "drastically." He told the board, "Move-ins into completed (homes) as well as those under construction should be very slow."

A spokesman for the Diamond Bar Development Co. said that as of now builders in the area are continuing with their construction plans. "We expect that as of the first of the year, if the rates stay high, there will be quite a drop-off."

Rubbish franchise, EIR on city agenda

WALNUT — Renewed discussion on procedures for preparing environmental impact reports and granting an exclusive city franchise for rubbish collection fill out a generally routine City Council agenda for Wednesday.

Meeting at 8 p.m. in city hall, the council also is to consider additions to city statutes and a request from the American Cancer Society to conduct a "bike-a-thon" in the community.

Environmental impact reports (EIR) have been a topic of controversy for several months. Originally the discussion arose when councilmen questioned the costly detail involved in reports for relatively minor projects. Since then, the question has broadened into consideration for a reference EIR covering the entire city, to which would be appended reports on smaller projects.

Rubbish hauling, likewise, has been before the council regularly since a city ordinance creating the power to grant a franchise was passed. Wednesday's agenda item will cover the terms of a letter inviting bids for the franchise, and terms of a proposed contract.

La Puente adult school sponsors children's party

LA PUENTE — The La Puente Community Adult School will sponsor a children's plaza party Friday.

It will be held from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Amar Plaza Children's Center, 15622 E. Amar Road.

Children up to 5 years of age and their parents will be entertained by a clown, a puppet show and a magician. Refreshments will be served.

The party is part of a drive by the adult school to familiarize the community with the Amar Plaza Children's Center.

It has been selected by the State Department of Education as a site for a child development program. It provides free child care to parents who receive any kind of government family assistance.

The public is invited.

Additional information on the child development program may be obtained by calling the La Puente Community Adult School. Parents interested in bringing children to the party are asked to call (213) 968-8452.

Teachers will be cited for work in ECE

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Teachers at two elementary schools will receive special recognition Thursday for their work in preparing a model Early Childhood Education (ECE) program.

District trustees list the ceremonies at the top of their agenda for an 8 p.m. session at Rowland's central administration office, 1830 Nogales. The board will also act on possible sale of the Blakeman School site, and take information on bids to evaluate special education programs.

Four teachers, three parents, and the principal of Villacorta School will be introduced by Juan Diaz, a district coordinator of special programs. The group will receive accolades for their part in developing the ECE curriculum, which has been used by the State of California as a model program.

Likewise, Diaz will present to the board 13 teachers, two parents, and the chairman of Blandford School's ECE program for accolade.

Hospital ward clerk class has openings

LA PUENTE — Openings exist in the hospital ward clerk class being offered by Valley Vocational Center Mondays and Wednesdays from 6:45 to 10:15 p.m. on the Hudson school campus.

Mrs. Helen Wilson, R.N., is the instructor.

"Ward clerks help carry administrative burdens of registered nurses in hospitals," explained Mrs. Wilson. "They answer telephones, give information, transcribe doctor's orders and make preparations for special tests for patients."

Classroom instruction is geared to understanding medical abbreviations and terminology, basic anatomy and a brief knowledge of the uses and names of medications.

Mrs. Wilson said part of the training will take place at a Whittier hospital.

Additional information may be obtained by calling 213 968-8452.

Former editor to blue-pencil work of writing class

LA PUENTE — Carol Hilliard, former editor of the Diamond Bar Bulletin, is teaching a class on writing for publication offered by the La Puente Community Adult School.

It meets Tuesdays from 6:45 to 10:15 p.m. in Room E-3 of Los Altos High School in Hacienda Heights.

The class covers manuscript preparation, selling techniques, elements of creative writing and grammar.

Those interested in enrolling may call 213 968-8452.

La Puente slates furniture courses

LA PUENTE — Two classes in furniture repair and refinishing are being offered by the La Puente Community Adult School.

Taught by Manual Arce, one class meets Mondays and Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The second meets on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6:45 to 10:15 p.m

Both are held in Room 10 B of the Hudson school.

Arce said the purpose of the classes is not only to teach individuals a hobby but to train them in a vocational field.

ORDINANCE NO. 2636

AN ORDINANCE OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF POMONA, CALIFORNIA, RAISING CERTAIN CHARGES OF THE HUMANE SOCIETY OF POMONA VALLEY, INC., FOR IMPOUNDMENT OF DOGS, CATS AND OTHER ANIMALS.

BE IT ORDAINED by the Council of the City of Pomona, California, as follows:

SECTION 1. That Section 4-73 of Ordinance No. 1673, also known as the Code of the City of Pomona, California, is hereby amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 4-73. POUND FEES.

No dog, cat or other animal impounded shall be redeemed except upon payment to the poundmaster the following fees:

The fee of fifteen dollars for the first time a dog is impounded; twenty-five dollars for the second time and any additional time said dog is impounded.

The fee of three dollars shall be charged for the impounding of cats or other animals, other than dogs.

For each time a dog, cat or other animal is impounded a boarding fee of one dollar and fifty cents per day per dog and one dollar a day for cats and other animals shall be charged.

This boarding fee shall be charged even for those days such as Sunday and holidays or on any other day the Humane Society may be closed to the public and the owner may not claim the dog or cat or other animal as well as for the regular days during which the animal shelter is open. No cow, horse or other such livestock or farm animals shall be returned from being impounded unless the following fees are paid: Thirty dollars each time special equipment is used for a pickup such as a truck or trailer, plus two dollars and fifty cents per day for boarding and feeding. A person claiming ownership of a dog which has been impounded must show proof of a valid rabies certificate for the current year and such certificate must contain a description of such animal before the dog may be released to the alleged owner. In the event such certificate is not produced, the poundmaster at his discretion may accept a substitute to prove such ownership, however, in any event if no proof of rabies vaccination is presented the dog must obtain a rabies vaccination at the expense of the alleged owner prior to the dog being released, or the poundmaster or his deputy or the office manager of the day may release such animal upon a certificate signed by the alleged owner that the dog shall be vaccinated and proof submitted to the poundmaster within forty-eight hours. Failure to submit such proof within such period shall be a violation of this chapter."

SECTION 2. The City Clerk shall certify to the passage and adoption of this ordinance, causing it to be published as required by law, and it shall thereafter be in full force and effect thirty days after the date of its final reading.

Ask Dr. Brothers

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband recently read an article somewhere about a town in France where people go nude. From that moment on he's talked about practically nothing but how much he wants to go to that town for our vacation. At first, I thought he was kidding, but now I realize he's serious since he's already checked with a travel agent. The problem is we have two children who are going on our European trip with us and I feel it is unhealthy to suddenly take them into this nudist colony.

What really concerns me is that this interest in nudity is not like my husband. He's in his 40s and he's suddenly become very age-conscious. He looks at every young girl as if she's the last one he'll ever see. He's become interested in body-building and he now works out at a gymnasium every week. This may all be part of his new interest in showing off his body. It wouldn't surprise me if he decided one day to walk out the front door and take a stroll over to the neighbors in nothing but his birthday suit. Because of his preoccupation with appearance I've had my hair dyed and am now spending more than I feel I should at the neighborhood beauty parlor. He is pleased and would be upset if I stopped going no matter what the cost. This, too, is unlike him. — P D.

Dear P. D.: Men do go through a crisis in their middle years and it is comparable to the change that women experience. Men often face their sudden anxieties without knowing what hit them.

Dr. Roy Menninger believes there is no way to prevent this middle-years crisis, but if people realize it is a normal phase in their lives, they can manage it better.

Women are usually psychologically prepared better than men to face this trying period. It is a time to reassess and change one's life. Sometimes both men and women focus on superficial changes. Both may become obsessed with physical appearance and they may fight desperately to recapture their youth.

Men frequently judge how they are aging by looking at their wives for a reflection rather than by looking in the mirror. This is one of the reasons it is so important to a man in his 40s or 50s that his wife look her best. It is also one of the reasons men in this age bracket may be attracted to girls young enough to be their daughters.

Sometimes these years are like a second adolescence. Some men become preoccupied with nudity and exhibitionism in much the same way that young boys might. They may become uncertain about their virility so they may try to reassure themselves of their potency. Perhaps you can reassure your husband that he is still attractive which may help to allay his fears.

If he insists on his visit to the nudist colonly, it would be wise not to take the children on this particular part of the trip as this exposure could be damaging, especially as they've not been prepared for it. According to Dr. Sandor Lorand, children of all ages are curious about sex and this situation could present emotional problems. Dr. Lorand feels that the parent who parades nude in front of his child is often unconsciously seducing the child. This merely tends to increase the child's conflicts about sex and about his parents.

Incidentally, if your husband is this intrigued with nudists colonies, he doesn't have to go all the way to Europe. There are some in the United States and most have very strict rules and regulations. If this is the main reason for the European trip, it might be well to reconsider.

Have a talk with your husband and try to get him to express some of his feelings about this matter. When his thoughts can be freely discussed both you and he may be able to gain some valuable insights.

Mrs. Marvin Grove, president of the Pomona Valley Republican Women's Club, is a delegate. Also attending from the Pomona club are Mmes. Hollis Page, A. W. Kelly, Richard Speier, Paul Weisend, Arthur Jaynes, Alex Duarte and Jack Fulton.

Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Ed Reinicke will be honored guests at a "Curtain Call" reception Thursday night. The keynote address Friday will be presented by George Bush with other speakers including Mrs. Janet Johnson and Dr. William Banowsky.

Governor and Mrs. Ronald Reagan will be guests at the Governor's State Banquet Friday evening in the Convention Center.

Speakers at Saturday's sessions include Anne Armstrong, counselor to the President; Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense Daniel James Jr., and Congressman Bob Michel, chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz will address the closing luncheon.

The California Teachers Association recommends that a student take a three to five minute rest after each 30-minute study peiod.

Lamaze lecture planned

The Lamaze method of prepared childbirth will be the subject of a film and panel discussion by a doctor, an instructor and parents who have used the technique for the birth of their child.

The meeting on Oct. 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the Queen of the Valley Hospital auditorium, West Covina, is open to all interested parents.

The film to be shown, "The Story of Eric," won two local Emmy Awards when it was aired over KCET television.

The meeting is sponsored by the American Society for Psycho-prophylaxis in Obstetrics, a nonprofit educational organization designed to meet the demand for information regarding prepared childbirth.

Childbirth films slated on Thursday

Preparing Expectant Parents, Inc., has scheduled a film showing Thursday at 7:30 p.m at Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan, Indian Hill and Foothill Boulevards, Claremont.

An area premiere showing of "The Art of Breast Feeding" will be accompanied by "The Story of Eric." The films are open to the public at no charge and refreshments will be served.

PEP holds eight-week childbirth education and preparation series for expectant parents, beginning every two weeks. Expectant parents attend during the last two months of the mother's pregnancy.

For information, call Barbara Morrison, 624-2973, Elen Aslesen, 593-1919, or Paula Finch, 622-7374.

Relief Corps schedules luau event

A luau will be held by the social club of the Vicksburg Woman's Relief Corps on Wednesday in the VFW Hall at noon.

Mrs. Ruth Nakker will be hostess with Mrs. Alice Stromberg and Ethel Scherrer as co-hostesses.

NOTICE INVITING BIDS FOR CASH CONTRACT NO. 4139 PARKWAY TREE PROJECT NO. 6

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles in Room 383 of the Hall of Administration, 500 W. Temple Street, Los Angeles, California, 90012, until 9:00 o'clock A.M. on October 9, 1973, on which date they will be publicly opened and read, for the planting of trees and the furnishing and placing of tree well covers together with non-metallic pipe, concrete removal, cast in place porous concrete and other incidental and appurtenant work, including plant maintenance. This work will be authorized by the County at intervals during the contractual period by means of several "Notices to Plant". Said notices will be issued for planting of twenty (20) or more trees. This project is estimated to cost less than $55,000.00, all in accordance with the provisions of the Plans and Specifications and Instructions to Bidders therefor which are filed in Room 383.

Proposal must be submitted on forms prepared and furnished for the purpose, which may be obtained at the Information Desk in the lobby of the Los Angeles County Road Department Administration Building, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033 at which office bidders may also purchase copies of the Plans and Specifications for the contemplated work for the price of $7.14 plus Sales Tax per set, not refundable. A mail address and a phone number must be left at the aforementioned office which the prospective bidder agrees is sufficient to reach him.

Each submitted proposal must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, or a surety bond, payable to the County of Los Angeles in an amount equivalent to at least ten (10) percent of the total aggregate bid price of such proposal, as a guaranty that the bidder, if his proposal be accepted, will enter into and execute the awarded contract, and furnish the required bonds in connection therewith, in accordance with the terms of the aforementioned Specifications and Instructions to Bidders. In the event that a surety bond is submitted in lieu of a check, it shall be subjected to the condition that the surety thereon be approved by the County Auditor and County Counsel.

The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and to waive technical errors and discrepancies, if to do so seems to best serve the interests of the County.

Pursuant to the provisions of Sections 1770 to 1777, inclusive, of the Labor Code of the State of California, the Board of Supervisors has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages for each craft or type of workman needed to execute the proposed contract, and it will be required that not less than said rates be paid to all such workmen employed or engaged on the work. Complete wage rate schedules are on file at the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department and are included in the contract specifications available at the Road Department.

The rate of compensation for any classification not listed in the schedule, but which may be required to execute the proposed contract, shall be commensurate and in accord with the rates specified for similar or comparable classifications or for those performing similar or comparable duties.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS: Bidders must satisfy themselves by personal examination of location of the proposed work and by such other means as they may prefer as to the actual conditions and requirements of the work, and shall not at any time after submission of the bid dispute, complain, or assert that there was any misunderstanding in regard to the nature or amount of work to be done.

The contractor to whom this contract is awarded will be required, before execution of the contract by the County Board of Supervisors, to file with the County Board of Supervisors surety bonds as follows:

A "Faithful Performance Bond" amounting to 100% of the total contract price is required for all contracts.

A "Payment Bond" (labor and material) amounting to 50% of the total contract price is required for all contracts which have a total contract price in excess of $10,000.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

The 'Great Shuffle' nabs another A.D.

For the past two years in the San Antonio League, there have been a lot of new faces popping up in the athletic departments.

In football, there are now only two varsity head coaches who have been at the top level for more than two years.

Claremont High coach Esper Keiser and Ganesha coach Garry Norvell are the only two veterans with all the others either stepping in last year or making their debuts this season.

In basketball, four of the eight schools changed varsity head coaches last season.

And it's been happening in almost every sport.

The "Great Shuffle" has even affected the athletic directors in the valley.

Frank Elder, athletic director and basketball coach for 25 years at Chino High, called it quits last spring.

Lee Mathes of Ganesha and Wil Wright of Montclair also turned in their resignations as A.D.s for their respective schools.

And now another athletic director has decided to get out.

Jack Smith, who has served the last four years as athletic director at Claremont High, resigned as A.D. late last year in order to devote more time to coaching basketball and to his family.

Smith, a mild-mannered coach who has spent the last 15 years guiding the Wolfpack basketball team to prominence, said it was pretty hard coaching a team, being athletic director and also teaching a physical education class.

"Being athletic director is pretty demanding," Smith continued. "You have to schedule all the athletic events at the school, arrange for bus trnsportation for the athletic teams for all sports, supervise all events, but make out the athletic budget."

Claremont most active

And Claremont is probably the toughest school in the league, if not in the valley, because it participates in more sports than any other SAL school.

Altogether, the Wolfpack competes in 11 different sports during the school year, which includes golf, soccer, tennis, and the water sports.

So how much time does it take being athletic director?

"That's something that is hard to measure," Smith said. "It's always on your mind. The No. 1 priority is obviously teaching, and being athletic director was hurting my teaching and coaching. I would say it took about a third of my time."

Not much has changed since Jack first took over as A.D., but he did run into a few problems some of the other schools don't face.

"We have the same athletic program when I came in," the Pack cage coach pointed out. "But Claremont has had the problem of lack of facilities. We're short on grass fields, a baseball diamond, and a football stadium. Also when I first started Claremont was involved in a big cut in the budget and we had to eliminate the sophomore basketball team and junior varsity baseball team. We have them back now, but then we couldn't afford the equipment."

Money — the universal problem — has really dampened the search for heah coaches.

"People used to be willing to coach," Smith commented. "But now there doesn't seem to be much interest. Maybe it's the amount of money a coach gets — I don't know."

Head football coaches average somewhere between making an extra $500 to $650 a year.

Eight cents an hour

With the new summer program added to the football schedules, someone had once figured out that the head coach was making about eight cents an hour.

And the other sports get even less.

Obviously, being a head coach of a sport and also working as athletic director didn't appeal to Smith.

"I feel it's better if the athletic director is not a head coach," Smith commented.

Dodgers ready for Bad Henry

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Los Angeles Dodgers, who appeared steam-rolling toward a National League pennant in summer, saw their dreams crushed in the fall Monday as the Cincinnati Reds cinched the NL West title.

The Dodgers have five games remaining and open a three-game series tonight in Atlanta against Henry Aaron and company.

Los Angeles sends Andy Messersmith, 14-10, against Phil Niekro, 13-9, in the opener.

The Dodgers, six games back in their division, remain second, five games ahead of San Francisco.

Tonight's game features the home run onslaught of Aaron, who needs only two more to tie Babe Ruth's career record of 714.

Eagles prove no joke for Gabe

NEW YORK (UPI)—Don't tell Roman Gabriel any Philadelphia jokes.

Gabriel, who spent 11 seasons with the Los Angeles Rams, is starting his career over at age 33 with the Philadelphia Eagles and he thinks it's time the Eagles stopped being a pro football joke.

Many observers thought the Eagles gave too much when they sent Hal Jackson, Tony Baker, first round draft choices in 1974 and 1975 and their third choice in 1975 to Los Angeles for Gabriel.

It seemed like a lot for a veteran coming off a sorearmed year—especially since Gabriel made it obvious he wanted to be traded by Los Angeles after the Rams picked up John Hadl.

But the trade is looking better every day.

In Gabriel's first regular season game as an Eagle, he completed 22 of 37 passes for 162 yards and two touchdowns against St. Louis. It was in a 34-23 losing effort but after the Eagles fell behind 21-0, Gabriel cut the deficit to 24-23 before St. Louis pulled away.

He was even better against the New York Giants last Sunday. He completed 14 of 28 passes for 227 yards and a touchdown as the underdog Eagles, who had lost 45-21 in the exhibition season to the Giants three weeks ago when Gabriel didn't play until the second half, gained a 23-23 tie.

"I think we've proved we can play with anybody," insisted Gabriel after he guided two long second half TD marches that almost gave the Eagles an upset victory. The second TD put the Eagles ahead 23-20 with 1:54 left but the Giants managed to get a tying field goal as the gun sounded.

Gabriel said he's never had any second thoughts about coming to Philadelphia despite its long history of losing in the NFL.

"I saw that we had some talent," he said, "and we have a good coaching staff. I knew it was just a matter of time. We've got a lot of young players and they've played under different systems and they're just getting to believe in what the staff is trying to get across."

Gabriel has been especially impressed by the play of the young offensive line and the running of second year back Tom Sullivan. "A lot of people say we don't have an offensive line but look at that good job Sullivan did with 100 yards against the Giants. Some of those yards came on fine running but those guys up front had to be opening the holes, too."

Gabriel was especially effective against the Giants in play-action passes when the Giants were looking for the run.

Jim Garrett, the Giants' defensive coach, said, "Gabriel's a good team man. He gets the most out of his offense. He's a veteran and he knows what he's doing. When he runs a lot on first down and then he pulls that play action pass on first down, the linebackers have got to watch for the run."

Gabriel said the young players "are starting to believe in themselves." He adds, "they've got a lot of confidence now. I think our chances are pretty good."

Gabriel gets a good chance to test out that theory this Sunday when the Eagles entertain the Washington Redskins. They're coached by George Allen, who coached Gabriel in Los Angeles, and they'll be attempting to bounce back after being upset by St. Louis.

Gabriel is familiar with the George Allen defense but says, "that's not really an advantage because he changes things a lot depending on who he's playing."

One thing is certain. The Redskins can't afford to take Gabriel and the Eagles lightly.

Reds cinch it; Bucs still in it

By United Press International

The Cincinnati Reds are home free and the Pittsburgh Pirates are still alive.

That's the story in the National League today after the Reds clinched their third Western Division title in four years with a 2-1 victory over the San Diego Padres Monday night and the Pirates remained a half-game out of first place in the Eastern Division by splitting a "survival doubleheader" with the Montreal Expos.

The world champion Oakland A's and the Baltimore Orioles already have clinched the American League's Western and Eastern Division crowns, respectively, leaving the NL East the only undecided race in the majors.

The Reds, travelling at a .700 pace for the last two months, clinched the NL Western crown with the help of homers by Andy Kosco and Tony Perez plus the late-inning relief pitching of Tom Hall and Pedro Borbon. The victory went to Dick Baney, a 25-year old rookie who shut out the Padres on six hits for the first seven innings.

"Two months ago when we were 11 games behind the Dodgers everybody counted us out except 25 players, one manager, four coaches and a batboy," said Cincinnati star Pete Rose, who is en route to his third batting title. "Everybody said we couldn't win it except us. This is a fighting, struggling team. Coming back to win it this year is a lot more satisfying than last year when we didn't have it so hard."

"This comeback shows that our guys are true champions," added General Manager Bob Howsam. "Pete Rose has really achieved greatness, not so much because of his great individual play but because this year he started to exert his influence as team captain and it showed."

The Expos beat the Pirates in the first game of their doubleheader 5-4 but Pittsburgh rallied for a 3-0 victory in the nightcap on Willie Stargell's 44th homer and a two-run single by Richie Zisk. The Pirates trail the New York Mets by a half game with both teams even in the loss column at 77.

Poly's Fabian receives honor

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — "It was not an aesthetic triumph, but we enjoyed it.'

The speaker was Poly football coach Roy Anderson. Anderson was discussing Saturday's 31-17 win over Sacramento State at the weekly meeting of the Southern California Football Writers.

Writers selected flanker Joe Fabian of the Broncos as College Division Player of the Week. Fabian, a 5-9, 165 pound junior from La Puente, caught eight passes for 199 yards and three touchdowns against the Hornets.

In accepting his award, Fabian modestly thanked quarterback Jim Zorn, the rest of his teammates, and the coaching staff for making it possible. The little flanker then spoke of his alma mater, Bishop Amat High School.

"I practiced with them couple of weeks," he related, "and their quarterback this year (Rick Liaug) is as good as Pat Haden was when I was there. And they have an end as good as John McKay Jr. was," he added.

Bishop Amat has won its only game, 51-6 over Edgewood.

Poly this week goes up against Cal State Los Angeles and Anderson is apprehensive. "They have a lot more students and athletes than we have at Cal Poly, he said and then added with a grin, "We all know Foster (Andersen, CSLA coach) cheats and it's up to us to find out how."

Anderson also referred to the upcoming match as the "Anderson (or Andersen) Bowl because of the similiarity of the coaches names.

Foster Andersen said "Roy is upset because we've beaten them the last two times we've played them and I'm sure they'll be emotionally ready."

"Our main problem," he continued, "is that we're such a young team. We have 20 underclassmen and it causes us to make a lot of mistakes."

Andersen, who has grown his beard again this year after shaving it off last year, remarked that he was amazed at the reaction it has caused. "I'm no different a coach than I was when I was clean shaven. It doesn't detract from coaching ability."

The CSLA Andersen added one more thought. "I use an old Prussian Army tactic," he said. "I try to make the kids more afraid of me than they are of the opposition.

The writers selected tackle Larry Brooks of the Rams as pro player of the week and defensive back Artimus Parker of USC as University Division Player of the Week.

UPI poll

Trojans increase lead

NEW YORK (UPI)—After a weekend of "scares" to many of the nation's elite college football teams, some of the "have-nots" have begun creeping their way into the top 20.

Southern California, which had to rely on its defense to nudge by Georgia Tech 23-6, increased its lead over Nebraska as the nation's No. 1-rated team according to the United Press International Board of Coaches. The Trojans received 23 first place votes from the 35 coaches voting—two more than last week—to up their point total to 328.

Nebraska, also a hard-fought winner in outlasting North Carolina State 31-14, received eight first place votes from the coaches and a total of 298 points. Idle Ohio State was third again with the remaining four first place votes and 281 points.

Michigan, one of the biggest winners among top 20 teams last week off its 47-10 trouncing of Stanford, jumped past Alabama into the top four with 238 points. The Crimson Tide, undoubtedly hurt by its narrow 28-14 win over unsung Kentucky, remained at No. 5 with 205 points.

Penn State moved up a notch to sixth after its convincing 39-0 pasting of Navy and Notre Dame made the week's biggest climb (11th to seventh) after opening up with a 44-0 rout of Northwestern—the biggest margin of victory by any team in the top 20.

Oklahoma, Tennessee and LSU completed the top 10.

Oklahoma State, long a doormat in the Big Eight Conference, headed the second 10 after belting Arkansas, a former "have", 38-6. The Cowboys look as if they very well may be for real.

After that it was Houston 12th, Auburn 13th and Arizona State 14th, while a three-way tie existed for 15th among Florida, Southern Methodist and Missouri. The last spot, No. 19, was also a tie between Tulane and Miami (Fla.), which knocked Texas from fourth right out of the top 20 with a shocking 20-15 win last Friday night.

Bill Singer goes after 20th win at Big A against Rangers

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Angel pitcher Bill Singer goes for his 20th win tonight when California meets the Texas Rangers, a team they nipped 10-9 Monday night in the ninth inning of a thriller.

California's Lee Stanton decided the game with two out and the bases loaded in the ninth with a two-run double, making up for seven runs the Angels gave up in the top of the ninth.

The Angels, tied with Chicago for fourth in the American League West loaded the bases in the ninth on two walks and a single by Bob Oliver. Then reliever Lloyd Allen walked home two runs before being relieved by Jackie Brown, who gave up Stanton's double.

The Rangers' ninth inning explosion was highlighted by Rich Billings' single, which gave Texas a 9-6 lead.

The Rangers started the final inning with singles by Vic Harris and Dave Nelson. Toby Harrah then greeted Angel reliever Aurelio Monteagurdo with another single to fill the bases. Jeff Burroughs' grounder to third was booted by Oliver and Harris scored to make the score 6-3.

Texas added six more runs on Alex Johnson's two-run single, a walk to Bill Sudakis that forced in a run, Billings' two—run bloop single and a squeeze bunt by Harris.

Singer, 19-13, faces Ranger Steve Dunning, 1-8, in tonight's second game of the three game series.

Bill Russell's maturation process complete

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Bill Russell of the Los Angeles Dodgers thinks his maturation process is almost complete.

"I learned a lot last year and I've learned even more this season," said the 23-year-old All-Star shortstop. "I'm happy with my progress and I think the club is, too."

A converted outfielder, Russell is completing his second season as Los Angeles' regular shortstop. He has been everything the Dodgers thought he would be—plus more.

"I've made some mistakes this year," he continued, "but I don't think I've made the same ones twice. I should be able to really take charge of the infield next season."

The shy, soft-spoken young man from Pittsburg, Kan., has grown into a solid, confident major leaguer. The Dodgers feel he will develop into the best shortstop in baseball. There are some who think he's there already.

The man who took Maury Wills' job has played every inning but three in his fifth big league season. His batting average with five games to go was .265, seven points lower than 1972, and he had commited 31 errors, three fewer than last season. He's played in 28 more games than a year ago with five contests to go.

The Russel-second baseman Davey Lopes' combination has accounted for 162 double plays, 17 more than the Dodgers had last season.

"I think I'm always going to have my share of errors," said Russell, "because I get to a lot of balls that other shortstops don't. But I've thrown some balls away this year that I probably won't try to throw next year."

The range has always been there. All that was missing was the experience.

The young infielder with the reddish blond hair was selected to the National League All-Star team in July by Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson after the Reds' Dave Concepcion broke his leg.

The Dodgers led the National League West for 80 days—from the middle of June until the Reds caught them in the first week of September.

"We didn't give up," said Russell. "It's disappointing but we did a lot more than people thought we would. I think we've surprised everybody, including ourselves.

"We knew we'd have the pitching but the defense and hitting were questionable. I don't think they're questionable any more.

"I'm not sure what they'll (the Dodger front office) do before next season. They might make some changes and they might not."

Russell said his iron-man role at shortstop for the Dodgers was one that suited him. Except for his arm, he said, he was not tired.

"Heck, I'm only 23," he smiled. "I shouldn't be tired. I'm supposed to be a young guy."

Cowboys fall short by 66

IRVING, Tex. (UPI)Don Meredith, who used to play some football in the neighborhood, did some quick figuring before the Dallas-New Orleans game Monday night and announced that considering the scores of recent contests involving the two teams, the Cowboys should be favored by 103 points.

The Cowboys fell short of that by 66 points but the results were fairly conclusive, nevertheless.

Despite a bout with the heat, despite a momentary scare when quarterback Roger Staubach hit the artificial turf with a thud and despite the expected flatness because their opponent had been beaten 62-7 the week before, the Cowboys downed New Orleans 40-3 and presented Coach Tom Landry with his 100th pro victory.

Landry thus becomes only the 10th NFL coach to reach that plateau.

"I have said before that longevity is the most important thing as head coach," Landry said following his club's win. "And you have to win to have longevity. I was lucky to have owners who stuck with me during the lean years until we got the talent to win."

Landry, the only coach Dallas has ever had, has guided the Cowboys into the Super Bowl playoffs the last seven years and the victory Monday night over the Saints put his club in a familiar position—atop the NFC East. Dallas shares first place with St. Louis and the two meet here next Sunday.

"The heat got to us and it didn't get to New Orleans," Landry said. "Bob Lilly got dizzy and almost everybody else felt the same way. We seemed to revive in the second half, though."

Leading 12-3 going into the second half, the Cowboys rattled off three third quarter touchdowns—two of them by fullback Robert Newhouse (on a three-yard run and a two-yard pass from Staubach).

Shortly after Newhouse's second score, Dallas was driving for another touchdown which Staubach started out on a scramble and wound up lying in a heap on the Tartan Turf. Instead of a shoulder injury, which the crowd at first feared, Staubach merely was knocked silly.

"He just took a blow on the top of his head," said Landry of Staubach. "Craig Morton did a great job. He looked sharp and it is not surprising. It's great to have him on the sidelines because with him you know you are not through for the night if Roger goes out."

Morton completed 5-of-7 passes for 73 yards in just over a quarter. Staubach, looking the sharpest he has looked since early in the preseason, completed 10-of-15 for 124 yards. Each threw for a touchdown.

While Landry was picking up his 100th win, New Orleans Coach John North was still looking for his first.

"I don't know what to tell you," said North, whose club has now lost two games by a total of 92 points. "They played for a half. You tell me. I wish I knew. You ask those guys over there taking off their clothes what went wrong."

Sports news in brief

Jets don't want surgery

DR. JAMES A. NICHOLAS, the man the New York Jets entrust with keeping Joe Namath in one piece, is hopeful the star quarterback will not need surgery to repair his injured shoulder. Surgery would finish him for the season while treatment might have him back in eight weeks.

USC LEADS the Pacific Eight statistics in only two categories but they are key ones. The Trojans have averaged 373.0 yards per game total offense and allowed only six points — three per game — on defense.

WILLIE MAYS will be the special guest of honor tonight in a good old-fashioned crying party organized by the New York Mets. It's called "Willie Mays Appreciation night" and it should attract a capacity crowd of 53,000 at Shea Stadium. Mays recently announced his retirement.

BILLIE JEAN KING said Monday she only played Bobby Riggs because of "principle" and reiterated that she does not plan to grant a rematch.

RIGGS, meanwhile, learned he can not use the transplanted London Bridge at Lake Havasu to carryout his promise to jump off a bridge if he lost to King. Mohave County Sheriff Philip Jordan said Riggs would be arrested if he tries to use London Bridge.

BILLY VUKOVICH of Fresno Monday was declared winner of the disputed first 125-mile USAC big car race at the Michigan International Speedway on Sept. 16, taking first place away from Gary Bettenhausen. USAC ruled Vukovich was correct in his contention that he was waved around the pace car during a disputed incident on the 37th lap. At the time, he was penalized one lap.

DON FULLMER, a boxer for 16 years, went back to being a brick mason today after being retired from the ring Monday night. Fullmer, 34, of West Jordan, Utah, finished with a 60-13-4 record after being defeated soundly by Richie Kates in Philadelphia.

FRANCOIS DURR, slowed much of this year by a bout with hepatitis, felt strong enough Monday to continue a string of upsets and capture the singles championship of the $30,000 Houston Virginia Slims Tennis Tournament.

Mike Pfeil takes lead in derby

Walnut High's Mike Pfeil, who was the recipient of three touchdown passes from Mustang quarterback Lance Parrish, has taken the early lead in the Pomona Valley's Individual Prep Scoring Derby for the 1973 football season.

Pfeil hauled in a 65-yard pass from Parrish early in the second quarter to give Walnut a 12-12 tie with Nogales, and then grabbed a 46-yarder and an eight-yarder in the same quarter to put Walnut ahead to stay.

Alta Loma High's 35-6 victory over Montclair in the season opener last Saturday night has put the Braves on top in the offensive race, while Bonita and Royal Oak shutouts gave the two Hacienda League teams the lead in the defensive department.

Walnut, presently second behind Alta Loma, is the defending offensive champion, while the Mustangs will also be defending their defensive title. After giving up 24 points to Nogales over the weekend, Walnut didn't make the top ten in defense this week.

COACHING CHANGE—Veteran former Ole Miss coach Johnny Vaught (L) has been rehired to rebuild the University of Mississippi's football "heritage" after head coach Billy R. Kinard (R) was fired.

Classic winner tough to choose

ONTARIO — In contrast to the Olympic Games, it's going to be hard to decide what national flag to unfurl for winning individuals and winning teams in the third annual Champion Spark Plug Motorcycle Classics at Ontario Motor Speedway this weekend.

American Kenny Roberts and Australian Kel Carruthers will be riding for the Japanese-manufactured Yamaha team.

Canadian Yvon DuHamel and American Gary Nixon will be with the Japanese-manufactured Kawasaki team.

Paul Smart, the defending champion from Great Britain, wears Japanese Suzuki colors.

And Dave Aldana, a Mexican-American from Santa Ana, will join Englishman Peter Williams and Mick Grant on British-built Nortons.

Oddly all three Norton riders have made their 1973 reputations in TT (Tourist Trophy events).

Aldana won the 25-lap American Motorcycle Association national TT at Ascot in Gardena last July. It was Norton's first dirt-track national victory in the United States.

Williams rode a Norton Formula 750 road bike to win the Isle of Man's 37-¾ mile course at 109 mph. Grant took second in the Isle of Man race after giving his team its first superbike win at Scarborough, England a year earlier.

Tennis club names Ewart

CLAREMONT — Dave Ewart, a member of one of the pioneer families in the Pomna Valley, has been appointed the membership chairman of the Valley Racquet Club, a tennis center being built on the grounds of the Rodeway Inn.

Ewart, whose great-grandfather founded the family's clothing firm in Pomona in 1908, attended Ganesha High and La Verne College.

"This is the most exciting thing I've ever been associated with," Ewart said. "Tennis is one of the finest family activities and the Pomona Valley needs additional places to play."

Mississippi releases football coach

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — The University of Mississippi fired head football coach Billy R. Kinard and Athletic Director Frank "Bruiser" Kinard, his brother, Monday night and rehired veteran former coach Johnny Vaught to rebuild the school's "distinguished heritage" in football.

University Chancellor Porter L. Fortune Jr. said the changes were effective immediately and were made by the state college board of trustees at his personal request.

"Coach Vaught will have complete authority to reorganize the athletic program as he feels necessary and he will have my personal support in whatever policies he wishes to implement," Fortune said in an early morning statement.

Fortune said the remainder of Billy Kinard's contract would be honored and that Bruiser Kinard had been offered another post at the university.

He said that Vaught, who retired as head football coach three years ago after suffering a mild heart attack, had "received a clean bill of health from his doctor" to return to his old post as well as athletic director.

Fortune said he had asked the athletic committee to approve his recommendation for the Kinard brothers removal because of the necessity "to bring about a unity of effort and purpose."

The Kinards, who assumed their posts in 1971 on the retirement of Vaught and athletic director C.M. "Tad" Smith, who also had suffered a mild heart attack.

Lakers stage intrasquad tilt

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Lakers will stage their annual intrasquad game tonight at the Loyola University gymnasium.

Coach Bill Sharman will split the squad into two teams, then play a regulation game with tipoff slated for 7:30 p.m.

The contest will be open to the public with tickets priced at $2 for adults and $1 for children and can be purchased at the Loyola box office.

Total proceeds will go to the Loyola Scotty McDonald Scholarship Fund.

Studs take slim advantage in Pomona Valley Soccer

CLAREMONT — The Studs took over the lead in the first division of the Pomona Valley Soccer League over the weekend with a 5-3 win over the Buzzards.

The Studs' lead is a very slim one point.

The Monsters kept pace by defeating the Turkeys, 10-0, as the Turkeys have remained scoreless for three games.

The Lambs downed the Pumpkins, 3-1, but the Pumpkins maintained their lead in the second division.

The highest scorers to date in the league are Tony Moro of the Monsters with seven goals and Bart Sullivan of the Buzzards with five.

Bruins eye end of jinx this week

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —A more relaxed UCLA football team took to the practice field Monday after finally putting together its wishbone attack in last weekend's 55-18 rout over Iowa.

The Bruins worked out for two hours in sweats, preparing for Saturday's road game encounter with Michigan State and hoping to end the Bruin jinx of never winning a game in Michigan.

The Bruins have lost three games to Michigan in the past, and one to Michigan State in 1965, avenging that loss with a 14-12 victory over the Spartans in the Rose Bowl.

UCLA Coach Pepper Rodgers singled out senior place kicker Efren Herrera for his standout play in the Iowa game which saw him hit on field goals of 24 and 44 yards and seven straight conversions.

"He was getting extremely high kickoffs which gave our men plenty of time to get down under them," Rodgers said.

Hererra now is the No. 6 all-time Bruin scorer with 123 points and needs only two more points to pass Greg Jones, the 1967-69 tailback, who has 124.

Rodgers said defensive end Fred McNeill, who missed most of the Iowa game with a back injury, will be ready for the Michigan State game.

Former stakes winners run in Derby

POMONA — Brush Cutter and High Protein, already the winners of stakes events at Pomona this year, head a group of eight three-year-olds —five of them winners of added-money events in their careers — set to battle in the Pomona Derby Wednesday.

Added purse money for the mile and one-eighth contest was increased to $20,000, and the gross purse will be $21,725 including a winnr's share of $12,725.

Brush Cutter, a Kentucky-bred colt by Olden Times, carried the silks of George McLaughlin to a one and one-quarter length victory in the six-furlong Foothill Stakes opening day. He was not eligible to the mile and one-sixteenth Derby Trial Stakes last Wednesday, but three times earlier this year he showed that he could successfully carry his speed a mile or longer.

Nels Petersen returns aboard Brush Cutter who will break from the number two post position.

Jerry Lambert again has the mount on Coffee and Spellman's High Protein who led all the way to take the Derby Trial. He set a slow pace in that race, but will probably have to set some fast fractions Wednesday if he goes for the lead.

Making his 1973 Pomona debut in the Derby will be Heers and Littrell's Ocala Boy. Rudy Campas has the mount on the speedy colt who defeated such good sophomores as Expression and Plunk in his last appearance at Del Mar.

C.T.B.A. Marian Stakes winner Sleek and Fleet, the only filly in the field, and Bold Balcony will represent the E. B. Johnston family in the Derby. Bold Balcony, like Ocala Boy, was a stakes winner at Bay Meadows last fall.

Real Decision, Fancy Shirt and Fleet Trader complete the field for the Derby.

Pac-8 Players of Week

Sciarra, Parker gain honors

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— John Sciarra, UCLA's nonstarting quarterback, is the Pacific 8 Conference's Offensive Player of the Week and record-setting back Artimus Parker of Southern California is the Defensive Player of the Week.

Sciarra took over for starter Mark Harmon last Saturday and steered the Bruins to a 55-18 rout of Iowa while Parker grabbed off three passes to spark USC to its 22-6 victory over Georgia Tech.

Sciarra ran for two touchdowns, passed for a third and almost broke a punt return for another TD. He rushed for 59 yards and his TD runs covered two and seven yards. His scoring pass covered 46 yards.

"We knew he was an excellent ballplayer," said Iowa Coach Frank Lauterbur after the game, "but we didn't think he was as good a runner as he showed. And believe me, he showed it."

Parker's three interceptions gave him 15 for his career, breaking the USC record of 13 first set by Manuel Laraneta in 1924-26 and later tied by three other Trojans. One of his thefts set up a touchdown and another prevented a Georgia Tech score.

Also receiving support for offensive honors were Washington State quarterback Chuck Peck, Oregon tight end Russ Francis and Washington running back Glenn Bonner while Washington tackle Dave Pear, Oregon tackle Reggie Lewis, WSU safety Eric Johnson and UCLA linebacker Rick Baska received support for defensive honors.

RADIO SHACK PARENT REPORTS HALF-BILLION IN SALES

FORT WORTH, TEX.—Radio Shack's parent company, Tandy Corporation (NYSE), has reported sales of $511,362, 633 for fiscal 1973, up 21% over last year, and net income of $19,353,133, up 24%. These results are the highest ever recorded by the company.

Charles D. Tandy, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Tandy Corporation stated: "The fact of one half billion dolars in annual sales, and the earnings progress which has accompanied it, represents a milestone achievment for the management organization of the company.

"Internal growth has dominated this progress for many years," Tandy went on to say, "and should continue to do so through aggressive development by the divisions. We look forward to further good progress in the coming year."

For their fiscal year, ending June 30, 1973, Tandy reported $36,201,966 income before taxes. Earnings per average common share were $1.76 with 11,019,038 average shares outstanding. Last year net sales were $423,248,398, income before taxes amounted to $28,098,068 and net income, $15,636,219. Earnings per average common share were $1.41 with 11,078,445 shares outstanding.

Radio Shack, said to be the nation's largest consumer electronics chain, is the largest single operating division of Tandy Corporation. They presently operate more tha 2,000 stores in all 50 states and Canada, and recently opened their first overseas outlet in Aartselaar, Belgium.

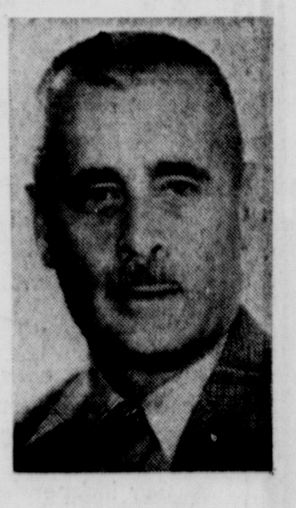
CLAREMONT RESIDENT RECIPIENT OF 1973 COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARD



CLAREMONT — William C. Speer of 722 Santa Barbara Drive, special agent in the Pomona Valley Agency of the Prudential Insurance Co., has been named by the company as a recipient of one of its 1973 Community Service Awards.

Speer is one of tewnty-one Prudential people in the thirteen Western States to be given this honor, according to Frederick A. Schnell, senior vice president in charge of western operations.

"The award represents a salute for an outstanding contribution of time and talent to the community," Schnell says. "It also is designed to encourage others to become involved in meaningful civic endeavors."

The awards are made annually by the company on a national basis. In the western states the competition involved approximately 7,000 employees.

Speer won the award for community service in the local area, working approximately ten hours a week with youth groups in athletics.

He is founder, president and head coach of the Junior All-American football team and is active in Claremont Little League baseball. The coaching function takes up two days a week all year plus games on week-ends. In addition he spends about ten hours a week on administrative duties related to football.

Music school sets orchestra auditions

CLAREMONT — The Claremont Community School of Music is forming a youth string orchestra under the direction of Erica Buxbaum.

Auditions for violin, viola, bass and cello players will be held at St. Ambrose Episcopal Church, Mountain and Bonita avenues, starting at 3:30 p.m. Monday and next Tuesday and Oct. 8 and 9. Audition appointments can be set by calling 624-3012.

Mrs. Buxbaum has been teaching violin, band and orchestra at Palomares Junior High School for four years. She has received regional acclaim for her orchestra program and musicianship.

All stringed instrument players in the Pomona Valley are eligible for the orchestra.

Berry Farm to salute C-W month

BUENA PARK — Knott's Berry Farm will offer "Salute to October: Country Western Month" in the John Wayne Theater Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Headliners will be Hank Thompson Friday and Saturday and Jimmy Wakely Sunday.

Scheduled to perform in following weeks are Billy "Crash" Craddock, Connie Van Dyke, Little Jimmy Dickens and Johnny Rodriguez.

Thompson and his Brazos Valley Boys have been voted country music's number one band 13 times. No other group or performer can come near that record.

Thompson has sold more than 30 million records since he made his first recording back in 1946.

Born in Arkansas and raised in Oklahoma, Wakely was first discovered by Gene Autry. He went to Hollywood and became popular on Autry's CBS radio show, Melody Ranch.

Parts in more than 30 westerns followed as did hit songs like "One Has My Name," "Beautiful Brown Eyes," "Cattle Call," "My Heart Cries for You" and "Wedding Bells."

Light Opera to audition for 'Flower Drum Song'

SAN BERNARDINO — The San Bernardino Civic Light Opera will hold auditions for "Flower Drum Song" at Arrowview Junior High School, Highland Avenue and G Street, Wednesday night.

Jack Bunch, choreographer-director, will direct the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical hit, which will play Nov. 9 through Nov. 17 at the California Theater of Performing Arts, San Bernardino.

Children, 7 through 14 years of age, of Oriental, Mexican-American, or Indian descent, will be auditioned at 7:15 p.m., and dancers will be auditioned at 7:30 p.m.

Those auditioning for singing or speaking roles must call the Civic Light Opera box office, 882-2545, for an appointment. Singers must bring their own music. The association's accompanist will be present.

Class in Hatha Yoga scheduled

CLAREMONT — A 12-session course in Hatha Yoga will be offered by the Blaisdell Institute beginning Oct. 8.

The fee is $20 and registration is currently under way weekday mornings at the Blaisdell office, 145 E. 10th St.

Pomona drill team now seeking sponsor

POMONA The Soul Steppers, Pomona drill team, is seeking a sponsor.

The group, organized three years ago as a community undertaking, has represented Pomona in parades and other events from San Bernardino to the Hollywood Bowl, performed at schools and hospitals, and been featured on Eye Witness News on television.

Future appearances will be made at the Hire-the-Handicapped Parade in San Bernardino, Silverado Days in Buena Park, Liberty Parade in Lynwood and the El Monte Christmas Parade.

Sponsors are needed to help defray the costs of transportation and of uniforms ($35).

The Soul Steppers are now accepting new members, girls for the drill team and boys for the drum corps, ages 13-17.

Further information can be obtained from Mrs. Lillie Louis from 5 to 9 p.m. at 621-1632, or from M. H. Kincade from 3 to 10 p.m. at 623-0063.

Art group schedules instructor

CHINO Darwin Duncan, fine arts instructor at Orange Coast College, will give a demonstration of landscape painting at the meeting of the Chino Art Association at the Lamplighter Mobile Home recreation room at 7:30 tonight.

Duncan, noted for his "on location" classes, stresses organization of subject matter, rearranging elements of nature into an orderly pattern.

Cal State sets tryouts for chorus

SAN BERNARDINO —The Choral Society of Cal State San Bernardino will hold auditions at its first rehearsal in the Fine Arts Building at 7 p.m. Monday.

The auditions are open to the public as well as to faculty members and students. The first concert will be Mozart's Requiem. Loren Filbeck directs.

Algerians call foreigners "roumi," an old word for Roman, according to the National Geographic. It goes back to the days when Rome ruled North Africa.

Spokane will try again for Expo '74 loan

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — The City of Spokane has decided to try once again to get an Economic Development Administration loan to help in completion of Expo '74.

Last month the EDA turned down the city's request for a $3.8 million grant, saying it was dissatisfied with the planned residual uses the city had for buildings constructed with the money for the world environmental fair.

Soaking Dog's Foot Needs Thermometer

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Are weak nails a common problem with older dogs? Duchess, now ten, is bothered by broken nails a good deal. In the old days she used to have beautiful nails. — C. D.

Dear C. M.: At around three years of age, Duchess probably had nails that were almost twice as strong as they are now. They will bother her less at this age if they are kept trimmed back as short as possible. Unfortunately, with age, the nerves and blood vessels in the toenails tend to creep toward the ends. Consequently, most older canines can't have as short a nail trim as they could when younger. Those whose nails have been kept up through the years — kept trimmed, that is — will be bothered neither with the extra long nails nor with the breaking problem.

Fall Housecleaning— For the birds?

Yes, indeed it could be for cats and dogs and other pets, too. Actually, an excellent time to clean (if you are REALLY going to do it anyway) is before the furnace gets into heavy use and the windows are closed most of the time. The first hot blasts of the fall furnace season tend to stir up household irritants be they pollens or other irritating substances which may have sifted in from outdoors — or simply house dust (and house dust mites), any or all of which can cause allergic reaction in pets.

Fall allergens are certainly a factor in the skin diseases so common in dogs and cats at this time of the year. These allergens also may trigger respiratory problems, sinusitis, for example. OR they may delay or prevent healing of some respiratory infections. As the animal spends an increasing percentage of his time in the low-humidity environment of a heated house, the mucous membrane of the respiratory tract (and the skin, too, for that matter) are debilitated not only by the possible allergens but by the continuous dehydrating effect of this dry air. During this critical fall period, the higher the animal's resistance generally, the less susceptible it will be to these undersirable effects.

Obviously, a cleanup campaign to cut down as much as possible on potential airborne irritants can be worthwhile. Animals actually developing allergic reactions will show varying degrees of response to medication depending in part on the amount of allergens they are continually exposed to.

Aqua pura

Hydrologists of the U.S. Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, estimated that the total amount of water in existence—in the world's oceans, ice fields, lakes, rivers, soils, rocks and atmosphere — amounts to about 326 million cubic miles. Less than one percent of this huge supply is directly available to man as fresh water.

Increase in logging recommended

WASHINGTON (UPI) A Presidential panel recommended Monday substantial increases in logging —including the controversial "clearcutting" — on government lands.

At the same time, the group said President Nixon should negotiate to slow down Japan's massive timber buying from the United States.

The panel, appointed in September, 1971, to review timber needs, issued a 541-page report calling on Nixon to issue a statement or proclamation emphasizing "the opportunities to improve substantially the productivity and the value of the nation's forest resources...and emphasizing that forest resources are to be cherished, nurtured and used."

The study said: "Annual harvest on lands available for commercial timber production on western national forests can be increased substantially. Analysis based upon nationwide forest inventory data indicates possibilities for increasing the old growth cutting rate in the range of 50 to 100 per cent."

The panel said that all proven methods of logging, including clearcutting, should continue in use "under appropriate conditions."

Clearcutting is a practice, widely criticized by conservationists, of logging sometimes whole mountainsides of timber at one time rather than cutting on a selective basis.

Noting that log exports to feed Japan's home building industry had driven up the price of timber, the panel said: "Until some of the recommendations herein for increasing timber supplies can be implemented, the executive branch (should) negotiate with Japan to reduce the disruptive log buying activities in the northwest."

Youths run up $100,000 in phone calls

HAUPPAUGE, N.Y. (UPI) —Four New York youths made "free" overseas calls from a college phone for two months to such places as Shanghai, Moscow and a guard shack at Buckingham Palace, asking strangers in foreign lands "How are you?" "What's going on there?" and "How's the weather?"

Police said the four placed $100,000 worth of calls before they were caught in a weekend raid.

The callers fooled the telephone company's computerized billing system by using electronic devices to simulate long distance switching codes or the sound of coins dropping in pay phones.

They were arrested in the biology building at the State University at Stony Brook by detectives and members of the security division of the New York Telephone Co. and charged with third degree burglary. Police released them on their own recognizance.

Officers said the investigation began on a tip two months ago.

Merger of air reserve, guard urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate approved legislation recently calling for study of a possible merger by the Air Force Reserve and the Air National Guard.

The measure was approved as an amendment to the defense procurement bill by voice vote after Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger had no objection.

Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., who sponsored the amendment, said he was not sure whether a merger was feasible, but "I believe it may be that we have come to the point where we can no longer afford the luxury of two effective and efficient organizations if it can be shown that one organization can be even more effective and efficient."

Modifications of Blackwood

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The first major modifiction of Blackwood was probably worked out by the Italian blue team. They used five clubs to show zero or three aces; five diamonds to show one or four, while five hearts and five spades each showed two aces, but with special meaning as to which were shown.

A few years ago Mike Lawrence and Bobby Goldman improved on this by having the five-heart reply show two aces and a hand the player is unhappy with; five spades to show two aces and a hand the player is happy with.

North doesn't hold even one king but he has just about a maximum raise of his partner's one-spade response to two spades.

He certainly hopes that his partner will find another bid and is surprised and delighted when the further bid takes the form of a Blackwood four no-trump.

He replies with five spades. South knows that North holds the two missing aces and that his hand looks good to him. South wastes no time checking on kings. He just bids the grand slam and has no trouble making it.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The custom of clothing baby boys in blue began because of a belief that evil spirits which would harm a male child could be kept powerless by blue, which was thought to have divine powers, The World Almanac says. Girl babies were not given a "protective" color because they were considered inferior and evil spirits would not take interest in them.

Caffeine only one factor in life span

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I was particularly interested in your remarks regarding caffeine in relation to coffee. You do not mention tea, and I am wondering if there is not as much, or even more, caffeine in tea as there is in coffee.

My mother and father were English and both heavy tea drinkers and lived to over 80. What does this signify if anything?

Dear Reader — The age span of your parents indicates that there's a lot more to longevity than drinking tea, and it begins with inherited factors. Don't count, however, on heredity determining one's lifespan, because there are so many other factors, such as those that contribute to fatty deposits in the arteries (atherosclerosis), common in our society today that the heredity factors play little, if any role in group statistics on longevity.

Tea certainly does contain caffeine, and the caffeine in tea behaves exactly like caffeine from any other source, including that of coffee. The only difference and this has to be a generalization, is the way in which coffee and tea are brewed. It is commonly said that a cup of tea has about half as much caffeine in it as a cup of coffee. This means if you're used to drinking five cups of coffee a day, to get the same amount of caffeine from tea drinking, you'd have to drink 10 cups of tea. Of course, this depends on how strong your brew your tea, and how strong or weak you brew your coffee.

Incidentally, the tea leaves originally contain much more caffeine than does the coffee bean. It's the way in which it's brewed and processed that makes the final difference.

It's important to remember than when you talk about habits or specific findings, such as coffee drinking, smoking, physical activity or diet, that in each instance each one of these is only one of many factors that influence what happens to your health and longevity.

There are individuals who have greater resistance to disease than others, just as some people are susceptible to colds and others are not. It requires careful statistical analysis of groups of individuals to really gain an impression of what the difference environmental factors in life styles and habits do in terms of increasing the likelihood and risk of health problems.

If you were to take a group of individuals who were overweight and had high cholesterol levels, you would find that they have a much higher rate of heart and vascular disease than a comparable group of individuals who are of normal weight and had low cholesterol levels, but this does not mean that you could tell each and every individual in the overweight group, for example, that he was going to have a heart attack, nor could you tell everyone in the thin group with low cholesterol levels that they were not going to have one. All you can do is express the increased or decreased likelihood, as the case may be.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of the Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on cholesterol, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Cholesterol" booklet.

AT&T bares new system

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —One of five stations in a nationwide domestic satellite system to be operated by American Telephone and Telegraph Co. will be built on a 45-acre site east of Camp Pendleton, Pacific Telephone officials have announced.

The $9 million satellite communications station to be known as the De Luz earth station, and the other four, at Three Peaks, Calif., Hawley, Pa., Hanover Park, Ill., and Woddbury, Ga., will link three communications satellites to the Bell System network, officials said.

The cost of the entire system, which will carry telephone conversations, data information and other related messages from the satellites to the ground, has been estimated at $70 million.

Throat itches--- she uses fork to scratch it

ABERDOVEY, Wales (UPI) —Something was tickling her throat so waitress Fay Yearsley tried to scratch it with a dinner fork. She swallowed the fork.

All she has to show for it is an eight-inch scar across her stomach where doctors operated. They wouldn't even let her have the fork as a souvenir.

"The surgeon wanted it for his private museum," she said. "He said he was frightened I might swallow it again."
